Security Summit partners warn taxpayers of new COVID-related text scam

The Internal Revenue Service, state tax agencies and the tax industry today warned of a new text scam created by thieves that trick people into disclosing bank account information under the guise of receiving the $1,200 Economic Impact Payment.

The IRS, states and industry, working together as the Security Summit, remind taxpayers that neither the IRS nor state agencies will ever text taxpayers asking for bank account information so that an EIP deposit may be made.

"Criminals are relentlessly using COVID-19 and Economic Impact Payments as cover to try to trick taxpayers out of their money or identities," said IRS Commissioner Chuck Rettig. "This scam is a new twist on those we've been seeing much of this year. We urge people to remain alert to these types of scams."

The scam text message states: "You have received a direct deposit of $1,200 from COVID-19 TREAS FUND. Further action is required to accept this payment into your account. Continue here to accept this payment ..." The text includes a link to a fake phishing web address.

This fake phishing URL, which appears to come from a state agency or relief organization, takes recipients to a fraudulent website that impersonates the IRS.gov Get My Payment website. Individuals who visit the fraudulent website and then enter their personal and financial account information will have their information collected by these scammers.

People who receive this text scam should take a screen shot of the text message that they received and then include the screenshot in an email to phishing@irs.gov with the following information:

- Date/Time/Timezone that they received the text message
- The number that appeared on their Caller ID
- The number that received the text message
- The IRS does not send unsolicited texts or emails. The IRS does not call people with threats of jail or lawsuits, nor does it demand tax payments on gift cards.

People who believe they are eligible for the Economic Impact Payment should go directly to IRS.gov. People who do not have a filing requirement but who are eligible for EIP can use a non-filers tool on IRS.gov until Nov. 21 to claim their payment.

Announcing the 2021 Montana Master Hunter Program

One Montana's Master Hunter Program is accepting applications October 1, - November 30, for our 2021 classes.

Since 2018, the Master Hunter Program has been offering sportsmen the opportunity to further their depth and understanding of various hunting topics. The Master Hunter program is an advanced hunter education program for hunters who understand that hunting is a lifelong skill and want to continue to add to their knowledge and skills.

One of the primary goals of the program is to build trust and working relationships between landowners and sportsmen and women. The program provides hunters the opportunity to learn from landowners about the challenges they face on a daily bases and specifically how wildlife impacts them. Secondly, the program seeks to help landowners and the state with their wildlife management goals. By working with landowners Master Hunters also help to change false perceptions about both hunting and agriculture, and ultimately work to increase access opportunities for future generations.

Graduates of the program belong to a network of other ethical and effective hunters who hunt together, keep each other informed, and are knowledgeable voices on issues affecting sportsmen across MT. Many of our graduates are mentors for youth and new hunters.

In the words of one graduate, "I am eternally grateful for the opportunity this course has given me. The information packed into the short period of time we have is so valuable. The presentations have been interesting, thought provoking and helped me improve my mindset and skills.... That's why it is so important to me to portray the Master Hunter title in a way that shows landowners my respect and gratitude."

The program includes classroom and online instruction, and field work. The course covers wildlife management, history of conservation, hunting culture and ethics, private land stewardship, shooting accuracy and precision, lead-free ammunition, and hunting skills to name a few. Our instructors have a wide diversity of knowledge and perspectives and in include ranchers, farmers, university faculty, professional shooting instructors, wildlife managers, and wildlife biologists, and MT Fish Wildlife and Parks personnel, among others.

To date, 165 hunters have successfully completed our course, and we've opened more than 200,000 acres to hunting access. This growing network of other like-minded hunters stretches from Whitefish to Miles City. Fellow graduates are eager to share experiences and knowledge to help each other be more successful in the field.

Locations for classes in 2021 will be offered in Bozeman (February), Great Falls (March), Kalispell (April), and Miles City (May). Each class will consist of three 2-Day weekends, except Miles City will have a two 3-Day weekend format. A weekend rendezvous in June is also required for qualifications, field exercises, and the final exam.

Applications will be accepted beginning October 1, 2020 through November 30, 2020 with selection being announced by the end of the year. The program cost is $375, due by February 1, 2021. A limited number of scholarships are available through a separate application process.

The program is led by One Montana (1MT), a nonprofit located in Bozeman, MT that works to sustain a vibrant Montana by connecting our urban and rural communities. 1MT implements creative programs that maintain agriculture and working lands, support private land stewardship, and preserve our cultural heritage.

The program is supported financially by private foundations, nonprofit organizations, trade associations and industry partners such as the Rocky Mountain Elk Foundation, Montana Stockgrowers Association, Montana Grain Growers Association, Montana's Outdoor Legacy Foundation, Montana Wild Sheep Foundation, Mystery Ranch, Sitka Gear, and others.

Waterfowl hunters reminded to stay safe on the water

Do you hunt waterfowl or hunt in and around lakes, streams, rivers or ponds? Do you use a jon boat, rowboat, duck-boat or a blind near your favorite haunt? If you do, don't forget to be water wise!

Waterfowl hunters seldom think of themselves as boaters, but in fact they are and need to follow the same safety precautions and laws as boaters every time they head out on the water. Montana law requires a readily accessible U.S. Coast Guard-approved life jacket for every person on waterfowl boats and for boats 16 feet and longer, there must be one U.S. Coast Guard-approved throwable device on board and be immediately available for use.

AIR MATTRESS

By "Swede" Troedsson

In the spring of 1955 I returned from Korea. The rest of my active duty commitment with the Marine Corps was spent that year at Camp Pendleton , CA.

One day, several of us drove to Oceanside to enjoy swimming, and to flirt with the "eye candy" in their bikinis. I took along a government air mattress for floating on the ocean.

We returned to the base well after dark. The Military Policemen (MPs) were inspecting vehicles entering the base for contraband. On inspecting the trunk of our car, a HUGE MP discovered the air mattress. Upon inquiring who belonged to the mattress, I admitted it was me. The MP accused me of illegal use of Government property, and said he would take me to the brig. He instructed me to get into the back of his pickup truck with the air mattress and wait there while he inspected some more arriving vehicles.

I threw the air mattress into our car trunk, and told my buddies to head for our barracks.

The MP returned to take me to the Oceanside brig. He asked me if I had the air mattress in the truck with me. I replied: "Sure do."

Upon arriving at the brig, the MP instructed me to follow him into the brig. The brig Duty Sergeant asked: "Now, what has this Marine done?" The MP explained the misuse of the government air mattress. The Sergeant asked: "Where's the mattress?" The MP turned to me and asked: "Where's the mattress?"

I replied: "What mattress?"

The Sergeant blew up, and chewed out the MP for bringing me in without the evidence. He then instructed the MP to drive me to my barracks.

It was a very quiet trip back to the base. I was plastered next to the passenger door hoping this huge pissed off MP would not pound this skinny 140 lb Marine into salt.

When we got to within a mile of my barracks, the MP said this was close enough and to walk the rest of the way. Relieved to leave the MP, I walked the remaining mile.

Upon arriving at the barracks, I approached the duty desk and asked the night duty marine to connect me with the Oceanside brig. I informed the brig Duty Sergeant that the MP had disobeyed his orders and made me walk the remaining mile to my barracks.

Fifteen minutes later I was told to return to the phone. A VERY angry MP advised me to NEVER come through his gate again when he was on duty. I never saw that MP again!
