The University of Montana Western Celebrates First-Generation Student Day

On Nov. 8, 2020, the Council for Opportunity in Education asked universities around the country to celebrate the fourth annual First-Generation College Student Celebration.

The date marks the 55th anniversary of the Higher Education Act of 1965, which increased funding for universities, scholarships and student loans.

"First-generation" refers to students whose parents have not obtained a four-year college degree; the TRIO program provides them with a support system to help them navigate the landscape of higher education.

The day recognizes first-generation college students; to celebrate the accomplishments they have made and the barriers they have broken. Montana Western and the TRIO Student Support Services staff continue to work hard to make a college degree attainable for everyone.

Louise Driver, the Director of Financial Aid at Montana Western, was the first member of her family to attend college. Growing up in Gurdon, Arkansas, Driver attended Henderson State University, where she earned a bachelor's degree in Business Administration. Even though her parents never attended college, Driver says that they always encouraged her and her siblings to further their education. Driver's mother would eventually go back to college and earn a B.S. in Nursing.

"Go to college no matter what your age and never give up on your dream. It may take some of us longer to complete our degree as we put college on the back burner to focus on our family or any other reason in our life's path. Also, it does not matter how long it takes you to get your degree, keep moving toward it, and it will happen," Driver said.

Assistant Professor of History, Dr. Jessica Fowler, was also a first-generation college student. Fowler attended Appalachian State University, where she double majored in History as well as Philosophy and Religion. Fowler went on to earn her M.A. in History from the University of Georgia and her Ph.D. in History from the University of California, Davis.

Fowler has always had a passion for learning and reading, and upon entering college, she realized that she wanted to help other students find that passion as well.

"My advice for any first-generation student is to know that there will be challenges, but if you are truly passionate about what you are pursuing, everything will be worth it in the end," Fowler said.

John Gamble is a Montana Western sophomore from Carlin, Nevada, studying Physical Education for K-12. As a first-generation student, Gamble admits to having limited experience when first entering college.

"Coming into college, I didn't really know what to expect. I had to rely on the experiences of friends and high school teachers and gain knowledge by myself along the way," Gamble said.

When Gamble did arrive at Montana Western, he explained that the TRIO student support program allowed him to get comfortable with college life and set him up for success.

"The TRIO program has helped me manage the stress of all aspects of college. They have given me a leg up in practically every obstacle college can throw at you. Everything from signing up for classes, getting help with classwork and helping me navigate the complexities of financial aid. I believe TRIO is the main reason I have been able to keep up with every changing moment," Gamble said.

Gamble hopes that his decision to pursue higher education will continue a trend for his younger sisters and future generations in his family.

UMW student Tabitha Blockeel is a senior majoring in Elementary Education from Fairfield, Mont. After hearing about Montana Western's exceptional teacher education program and Experience One, she decided to attend the university. Blockeel is the first member of her family to attend college, which she says was an advantage when trying to decide about her future after high school.

"Personally, I think being a first-generation student made the decision of going to college easier. My family supported my choice to go, but they also didn't pressure me into something I was unsure about," Blockeel said.

Blockeel did say that when she decided to come to UMW, it was difficult to lean on advice from her family and that TRIO helped her bridge this gap when she came to campus.

"The TRIO program has helped me as a first-generation college student, and my college career overall, by being able to give me the advice I need as well as giving me the confidence to know I'm not alone when I need help," Blockeel said.

TRIO will be holding a First-Generation tabling event in the campus library on November 10 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. This is an opportunity to meet some first-generation students, collect a free first-generation sticker, and enter for a chance to win a $100 scholarship (for enrolled first-generation students only.)

The Center for First-Generation Student Success encourages all first-generation students to share their stories on social media using the hashtag #celebratefirstgen to spark a national conversation and celebrate first-generation students across the country.

Veteran's Day Dinner

The Klondike has unfortunately decided to cancel our annual Veteran's Day dinner. We hope to see you all next year!

Southwest Montana Veteran's Home #76

By Mike Lawson

Greeting once again to you, the Veterans/Counties/Communities of SW Mt. who have been and are the organizers and supporters of this, our Southwest Montana Veterans Home.

It's cold outside, but after all, we do live in Butte, Mt., and that's our way of life. The inside work at our Vet home, has heat and won't be that affected, but the outside work will be tough on the cement workers, especially. As many of you have heard/read, some lowest of low lifers, broke into our Vet Home Site and robbed from all the contractor's equipment trailers, the Construction Office and one of the cottages. The other Cottages and the Community Center were locked-up. Whether it was an inside job or a professional group, is unknown, but if any of you hear anything that would bring these perpetrators to justice, please call the authorities. COVID-19 has affected our society on many fronts and our SW MT VET HOME is no exception. The scheduled Veteran's Day Grand Opening won't be taking place and a good guess it will be next spring. It looks like a new "COVID-19 Vaccine" is being ready to be released, which will make that Opening more of a reality.

Construction Updates:

Community Center:—Interior: The ending completion work, before being turned over to the owners, is tedious to say the least, with punch lists, last minute change orders, etc.. The Electricians have the lights on and are doing last minute change orders. The appliances in the warming kitchen have been installed. These are the two big refrigerators, stovetop/oven and dishwasher. The Painters are doing their punch-list of painting touch-ups, the plumbers are still waiting for parts to get bathroom sinks hooked-up and the heating system is working very well. This is really a beautiful building and will be extremely functional for management and our veteran residents.

Exterior: Some finish cement work was completed. Sometime time in the future, handrail will need to be installed. The siding is pretty well completed.

Cottage #1:—Interior: The biggest thing happening here is the Floor-Layers are putting down flooring. They have laid all the flooring in the west-wing resident rooms and have moved into the central area, which has the kitchen, dining-room, living-room, library/den, nursing station, etc.. When finished in this area, they'll move into the north resident wing and get those six rooms done. Once the kitchen-floor is laid, the kitchen appliances will be installed. The Plummer is installing sinks and toilets. The Electricians are doing finish trim-out work that's on their punch-list. The Heating System is working very well;

Exterior: Lights installed over door-ways.

Cottage #2:—Interior: The drywall and painting is going well. The Electricians were pulling wires from throughout this Cottage, to the breaker panels, as well as doing change order work. The Carpenters were trimming out windows/doors following on the heels of the painters. The Plumbers were installing gas lines and the Pipe Insulators were insulating pipe. Johnson Controls were installing thermostats and doing some rough-in work.

Exterior: The siders were doing some punch-list finish-up siding.

Cottage #3: Tile-Workers have about two weeks left to do the border tile and the grouting. This week will see one wing of this Cottage done. The Spa floors/walls will be extensive labor wise. The Electricians are doing the trim-out of the light installation, receptacles, switches, etc.. The Carpenters hung the door between the Spa and bathroom the laundry room door-jam and a handicap door. Their pretty well caught-up. The Plumbers are working on Mechanical/gas lines. The idea is to have both Cottage #2 and Cottage #3 ready for the Start-Up at the same time. This is when the Cottage #4:—Interior: Plumbers are doing some rough-in. King Construction has the T-Bar metal ceiling framework pretty well completed as well as in the laundry rooms of #2 & #3. Plumbing, HVAC, and mechanical insulation continues as well as Johnson Controls doing their installation.

Cottage #5:—Interior: Not much activity here until the other Cottages are more complete.

Exterior: The siders are making good progress as most of the wainscoting/trim is in place and the blue color portion Electrical Vault building and Maintenance building have the soffit/facia siding complete.

Asphalt Stripe Painting is complete.

Zemljak Excavating: Finish grading for the landscaping on Cottage #4 & #5. Continuation of prep of sidewalks for RK Concrete.

Becker Landscaping was putting sleeves under some of the sidewalks for their future piping to go through.

Veterans Day will be next week and for the Marines it will be their Birthday. Both of these events will be very limited due to the COVID-19 Virus. This a first in our life time of no significant celebrations/Honor Guard formations, etc. taking place. This Virus is hitting Montana in extremely high numbers, with the death rate being at an all time high. We, being intelligent and caring people, are making the sacrifice in following the health safety standards of masking/distancing and gathering in small groups. For my families part, we won't gather in a big family group as we have in the past, but stay in our own individual homes. Phone calls or video phone calls will be the order of the day, with the hope that next year will see this virus under control in Montana, the USA and the World. I leave you until next time, by saying take care, love each other, (especially your family members), and know good times will come again, by our being diligent in the way we live on a daily basis. Bye for now.
