Southwest Montana Veteran's Home.

Update #83

By: Mike Lawson

Greetings once again to you, the Veterans/Counties/Communities of SW MT, who are the organizers and supporters of the SW MT Veteran's Home.

This has been a long awaited week for the beginning of the opening, of our SW MT Veterans Home. Inspections were passed and the green light turned on, for the first two buildings (Community Center/Cottage #1), to be turned over to the State of Montana. The State, in turn, gave the green light for Eduro, the Operations Contractor, to start moving their personnel into these two buildings. The first three residents will be admitted into Cottage #1, on the 4th of January or shortly there-after. Construction wise, there are a few minor odds and ends to complete that won't interfere with Eduro's operation. Again, materials on back-order are the creation of some of the punch list work to be done. The main thing left is getting all the Data Cable installed, which concerns the "wifi and the internet". "Charter Cable" is running this, their cable underground, between the Meadow Lands Apt. Complex, located where the Elizabeth-Warren St. dead-ends into Continental Dr. and our Vet Home Site. Presently "Charter" is drilling underground, beneath Highland View Drive St, which is the street in front of Three Bears. Shouldn't be too long now and extremely important. All the communications to the Vet Home site, to the Electrical Building, then to the Community Center and from there to all the Cottages, are dependent on these Data Systems. But, all-in-all, everyone is feeling a fulfillment of these buildings, now being ready to be used, for the "veteran resident's care". Liaison Mark Gollinger is excited and has moved into his office, in this building. He also feels that these two buildings have that "ready for use" feeling. Both Mike Ascherman and John Kotka mentioned that I won't have much more to say about these, completed buildings. I told them that until Cottage #5 is completed, I'll continue to pick their brains and still have a respectable amount of update material, to write about. Not about letting those two off the hook. I say that with a smile as they take good care of me.

Construction Updates:

Community Center—Interior: Some little punch-list, odds and ends. The main work left, is getting the Data Cable hooked up and ready, for when "Charter Cable" gets their underground cable to this building. The other work is some wall-paper replacement and touch-up. McKinstry Construction continues to work on programing. This work shouldn't interfere with Eduro getting their personnel trained and up to par, in the different aspects of running our Veteran's Home. This will be their first week of moving into this Community Center. Exciting, for sure.

Exterior: Cement work is done, other then a little fill-in in the back of the building. The Siding Crew have some finish-up rain gutter /down spout work to do on the front entrance. Some handrail work is scheduled for the near future.

Cottage #1—Interior: There was a scramble to get work done ahead of the inspections this week. The wall paper was installed, the concrete floors were sealed, the Fire Inspection passed, all the trade inspections passed and most importantly the Occupancy Inspection passed. Some minor punch-list touch-up will continue until completed. The Man-Lifts/Controls will be installed on their overhead tracks, in all the resident rooms, this week. McKinstry continues to do start-up programing, and the Data-Cable continues to be installed.

Exterior: Fencing is being installed around the back patio area. Handrail is scheduled to be installed on the west-end block retaining wall. Outside bench pad was poured. Bench will be installed in the near future.

Cottage #2 —Interior: A busy place, is the best way to describe this cottage. Keep in mind that this Cottage and Cottage#3 are scheduled to be turned over to the State Of Montana, on January 22nd. The Tile Crew are finished tiling the resident bathroom floors and are now tiling the walls. The Carpenters are following the Tile Crew installing bathroom doors/jams/casing and door hardware. The Electricians are working on trim-out as well as working on the mechanical system. The Plumbers are working on zone valves in the mechanical room. This work by the Plumbers and Electricians, is in getting the mechanical system ready for this Cottage to be fired up, after the first of the year. In a nut-shell, once fired up, this Cottage will be self-heating. The Sheet Metal guy, Derrick, was trimming out some of the duct louver vents. The Johnson Control System guys were pulling their low voltage wire through their conduit. They were also installing wall thermostats, throughout this Cottage. The Fire Control folks were doing some of their low-voltage wiring work.

Exterior: The Cement Finishers poured cement around the edge of the back patio and installed the Veteran Medallions into it. They also poured some bench pads. The Siding Crew continues to install rain gutter and should be done this week.

Cottage #3: The Plumbers have the gas piping done and are wrapping up the other piping and zone-valve work. The Electricians are doing trim-out work and are close to being done in the mechanical room. As in Cottage #2, this Cottage is about ready to be fired up and be self heating. The start-up inspections will have to happen and McKinstry will be programing and checking things out, durning this start-up phase. Johnson Controls were pulling their low-voltage wire and are close to having it all pulled. The Date Cable guys were running their data gable-bundles overhead above the ceiling tiles.

Exterior: Nothing at this time.

Cottage #4 —Interior: This cottage looks better each week, I've come through here, in the last few weeks. The sheetrock hanging is close to being completed and the Tapers are really making progress in getting the tape/mud-work progressing. The Plumbers are doing some rough-in work.

Exterior: The Siders continue working on the facia and soffits.

Cottage #5—Interior: The activity is really starting to pick up in this, the last Cottage being built. Both the Plumbers and Electricians are doing their rough-in work. The insulators have the inside of the exterior walls insulated, as well as all the interior walls. All the vapor barrier plastic sheeting has been installed, over the insulated exterior walls. The vapor barrier sheeting has been installed on the bottom of the roof trusses. This will allow the attic to be blown with insulation after being sheet-rocked. The Sheet-Rockers will start sheet-rocking in this Cottage, this week. Progress here, is really taking off in a good direction.

Exterior: The Siders continue on the facia/soffit/calking work. The Cement Finishers poured the Patio and the South East sidewalk.

Receiving/Maintenance Building; This building was insulated and sheet-rocked. It is now being taped. The Plumber is scheduled to get the rough-in plumbing completed.

The Electrical Building : The Insulators insulated this small shed/building and it is scheduled to be sheet-rocked this week. The Big Emergency Back-Up Generator, that will kick in, if the main power goes out, is scheduled to be hooked up this week by a Factory Rep. from the company who sold it, for our Vet Home Site.

Zemljak Excavating: Mike and his crew were busy putting topsoil along the edges of the sidewalks. This is a good safety measure, as the edges of the sidewalks are exposed, until the landscaper brings dirt in and plants grass. Once this is done the sidewalk and grass will be at about the same level. Until then, this fill-in will keep folks from stepping off the sidewalk edge and getting hurt.

The front roadside fence along Blacktail Loop, will be coming down, in the very near future. This will really allow the Southwest Montana Veterans Home sign, to stand out.

This year of 2020 is quickly coming to an end and it's been a dark period for the world, in many ways. The Covid-19 Pandemic is knocking the world for a loop. We in Southwest Montana, have seen friends and family become sick with it, as well as having seen many of them die. The nursing/rest homes have taken a tremendous hit. This our Southwest Veteran's Home is going to be the home for Veteran Residents, of this fragile age group of folks, who are being hit so hard by this Virus. We want to protect them in the best way we can. The Vaccines are being targeted for this age group, to be some of the first to get them. Until this virus is under control, these residents will not be able to see very many visitors. This is for their protection. Ways to communicate with them, by their family and friends, will be searched out. Telephones, using the Facebook and Zoom Apps, can be a way. We can all come up with other ways and your input is welcome. The good thing is that, they'll be in a beautiful environment. I have full confidence that Eduro will be well staffed and will give these Veterans, wonderful compassionate care. This will help lift their spirits and give their families a feeling of peace. Until this pandemic is under control, our visitation of this Veteran's Home Site will be confined to a particular Cottage once its completed. This will happen before the Veteran Residents are admitted, who will call this Cottage home. Helping Veterans is always the focus, as they served and are now sometimes in need of being served/taken care of. We're privileged to now have the opportunity to start serving these incoming Veterans, who will call the "Southwest Montana Veteran's Home", their home.

I'll leave you, by wishing you all a very "HAPPY NEW YEAR".

BORN ON CHRISTMAS: THREE BASEBALL HALL OF FAMERS

by Joe Guzzardi
 Of the 42 Major League baseball players born on December 25th, three are enshrined in Cooperstown's Hall of Fame.

First on the list is fan-favorite Chicago White Sox' second baseman and defensive specialist Nellie Fox, who played in every game from 1953 to 1959. Because of his excellent bat control, Fox, with his ever-present tobacco chaw bulging out of his cheek, struck out only 216 times in 10,351 plate appearances.

Second comes 25-year career stolen base and runs scored leader Rickey Henderson, who from 1979 to 2003 played for nine teams, most notably the Oakland Athletics.

The third Christmas baby has the most eye-popping statistics but is nearly forgotten: pitcher James Francis Galvin, who broke in with the 1875 St. Louis Brown Stockings but spent most of his career with the National Association Buffalo Bisons and the Pittsburgh Alleghenys, later renamed the Pirates.

In his 15 years as an early Dead Ball era superstar, Galvin's accomplishments defy chronicling. In his Society for American Baseball Research essay titled "Pud Galvin," Charles Hausberg cited a Pittsburgh Gazette reporter who wrote that to completely detail Galvin's life and career "would be a task of time and would ... require a volume in size almost equal to the dictionary."

Galvin was baseball's first 300 game winner, but also its first 300 game loser. A quick glance at his pitching statistics explains why "Gentle Jeems," as Galvin was also known, had so many highs and lows. In single seasons, Galvin notched seven 20 game or more wins; he also racked up 46 wins twice, and 30 games once. On the flip side, Galvin lost 20 or more nine times, and 35 games once. To reach those highs and lows, Galvin pitched 6,003 innings, and completed 646 of his 688 starts. Galvin also tossed professional baseball's first perfect game.

Buffalo cranks, as fans were called in the late 19th century, loved the pitching ace and slick-fielding, 5-foot-8, 190-pound Pud. Galvin's 1883 and 1884 seasons when he won 46 games in each year showed why the fans admired him. But by 1885 Galvin, injured and overworked, lost his magical mound touch. Buffalo's front office sold Galvin to the Allenghenys, and sent him off with a brutal farewell: "We couldn't lose any more games if a pitcher were taken from the grand stand." Galvin then entered into a period of ineffectiveness that, by 1892, ended his career.

After his retirement, a Sporting Life reader summarized Galvin's monumental career in a letter to the editor. The crank wrote that, by his calculation, Galvin pitched in front of 800,000 fans, traveled 112,000 miles or about four and a half times the earth's circumference, threw 100,000 pitches that traveled, once struck, 6,000 miles.

More than a century after his death, Galvin was suddenly back in baseball's news. Researching his 2007 book "The Dark Side of the Diamond: Gambling, Violence, Drugs and Alcoholism in the National Pastime," Roger I. Abrams discovered that Galvin was baseball's first performance-enhancing drug user. Abrams found an 1889 Washington Post story which reported that a Pittsburgh medical college included Galvin as one of its subjects who took the Brown-Sequard elixir that contained monkey testosterone. However, modern day medical scientists, who debunked the elixir's alleged enhancing qualities in 2002, maintained that Galvin's one-time use of the unproven concoction shouldn't taint his otherwise spotless reputation.

Galvin was born poor, and after a series of post-baseball failures the included umpiring, laying pipe, construction and tavern ownership, he died penniless in 1902 at age 45 from chronic gastritis. Forgotten for decades, Galvin entered the Hall of Fame in 1965. Galvin's plaque emphasizes that his durability and strong constitution in the two-man starter era allowed him to take his regular turn, and pitch deep into the game.

At the Hall of Fame ceremony Walter Galvin, one of Pud's two living children from among the eleven siblings born to Bridget Griffin and the inductee, spoke to the crowd. Walter, then 78, simply said to the assembled guests, "I thank you for remembering him. You waited a long time to catch up with the old gent."

The 2020-21 holiday season is unlike any other before. Holidays are often challenging, but COVID-19 created a major upheaval for all of us. Here are some helpful tips & insights to use during this unpredictable time.

BE REALISTIC

The holidays do not have to be perfect or just like last year. As families change & grow, traditions & rituals often change as well. Choose a few to hold on to & be open to creating new ones. If family members can't come to your home, find new ways to celebrate together by sharing pictures, emails, or videos. Recognize what you have control over, & what you do not.

KEEP UP THE HEALTHY HABITS

Stress, trauma, & grief can affect how you feel.

Read your body – recognize your personal signs of stress & distress, examine your breath, heart rate, energy, & focus. Focus on healthy foods & limit high fat foods, sweets, cheese, & alcohol. Get plenty of sleep. Do some regular physical activity each day. Don't let the holidays add to your stress.
