Edward Mellon, 78

Edward Mellon, 78 , of Dillon, passed away Tuesday, January 5, 2021 of natural causes. An obituary will follow next week.

Dillon Police Department Press Release

On 01/06/21 at approximately 6:35 PM, the Dillon Police, and Beaverhead County Sheriffs Department responded to a complaint of a disorderly male. A male matching the suspect's description was approached by police who observed a firearm in his waistband. The individual was directed to put his hands in the air and specifically not reach for the gun. The individual did not comply and grabbed the firearm. A shooting ensued.

Officers were not physically injured. The male suspect was injured and transported by Beaverhead Emergency Medical Services.

A Dillon Police Officer has been placed on administrative leave per policy in any shooting incident where injuries occur.

The State of Montana Department of Criminal Investigation was contacted to investigate.

Additional information will be disseminated when appropriate.

Don Guiberson, Chief of Police

REMOTE TESTIMONY AVAILABLE TO ALL MONTANANS

Montanans Have More Opportunity To Testify Before The State Senate Than Ever Before

Montanans will have the opportunity to testify remotely in front of every state Senate committee during the legislative session in addition to the normal in-person process at the State Capitol in Helena due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

In order to testify remotely via video conferencing or by phone, you must register on the Legislature's website by 12:00 noon the day before the committee hearing takes place. You must also provide brief written testimony by noon the day before the hearing to ensure your comments are received regardless of any technical difficulties.

In addition to the new virtual testimony option, Montanans can still testify in-person at the Capitol, contact their individual legislators by phone or email, or contact a committee via the Legislature's website.

Committee chairs reserve the right to determine the length of time testimony is heard, the order of speakers, and determine the end of any particular testimony being delivered, the same as every other legislative session. Montanans are always encouraged to submit written testimony, especially if time constraints may cap the number of speakers in a busy hearing. Written testimony will be accepted until the committee takes executive action on the bill.

"The COVID-19 pandemic has forced us all to adapt, and that includes the Legislature," State Senate President Mark Blasdel, R-Kalispell, said. "This session, Montanans will have more opportunity to make their voices heard than ever before in the history of the Legislature. If you don't feel safe coming to the Capitol, you can testify from anywhere with an internet or phone connection."

The Senate reminds Montanans that even if they are testifying remotely, they are appearing virtually in the State Capitol during the official lawmaking process and need to observe proper decorum. Be polite, professional, and respectful of others' opinions and time.

Key points to remember for testifying remotely:

- Those who plan on testifying via Zoom or via phone call MUST register by noon the day before the scheduled testimony at www.leg.mt.gov
- Participants may testify via phone if they are unable to access Zoom. However, participants testifying via phone also MUST register by noon the day before the scheduled testimony.
- Due to time constraints or technical difficulties, every participant may not be heard in every committee hearing. However, all participants can submit written testimony. Testimony and supporting documentation MUST be submitted by NOON the day before the hearing begins.
- Written testimony will be accepted until the committee takes executive action on the bill.
- People testifying in front of the Legislature, whether in-person or virtually, should observe proper decorum. Be polite, professional, and respectful of others' opinions and time.

RMEF Protects California Tule Elk Habitat

A 2,415-acre ranch in northcentral California featuring prime wildlife habitat is now permanently protected thanks to a collaborative conservation effort by the California Wildlife Conservation Board (WCB), California Department of Fish and Wildlife (CDFW), Rocky Mountain Elk Foundation and a willing landowner.

"This landscape is extremely important to ensure the future for the world's only tule elk population," said Kyle Weaver, RMEF president and CEO. "We deeply appreciate the landowners for placing a conservation easement on their property and protecting its wildlife values in perpetuity."

The Turkey Track project is approximately 50 miles northwest of Sacramento. In addition to tule elk, it also offers important habitat for blacktail deer, mountain lions, California quail and other species. The property also contains several ponds and approximately 11 miles of perennial and intermittent streams in a greater landscape with limited water resources. Additionally, it is part of a recently concluded elk monitoring study.

The Cache Creek watershed is a focus area for RMEF, WCB and CDFW, which wants to grow tule elk numbers. RMEF helped complete more than two dozen land protection or habitat enhancement projects in the immediate area including a 2019 project that protected 2,607 acres of tule elk habitat not even a mile to the north.

"The Wildlife Conservation Board is proud to be a partner with the Rocky Mountain Elk Foundation on the 2,415-acre conservation easement to preserve and protect critical winter range for tule elk that will also benefit many other sensitive species," said John Donnelly, WCB executive director. "Protection of this working landscape is something that WCB is honored to be a part of."

"It takes dedicated partners to carry out meaningful conservation work. We appreciate their work and support in getting this done," added Weaver.

"Stan Shafer Memorial Ice Fishing Derby" Not Authorized

Submitted by: Mel Rice, Public Relations Officer

The Beaverhead Search and Rescue and Tara Remely, the "Stan Shafer Memorial Ice Fishing Derby" chairperson, would like the public to know what has happened with the 2021 derby. Application was made before the 1st of July, 2020 for a January 17th, 2021 derby as required by the Montana Fish Wildlife and Parks. For the next three months the FWP gave her the run around and would not confirm the date for the derby or even commit to the derby. When Tara called again in December she was told the derby had not been authorized because of Covid19. At that point it became a mute issue for the S&R membership. Within the past week a Dillon community member called the FWP and wanted to know why the derby had been canceled. He was informed by Fish Wildlife and Parks that the derby was a go and yet as of January 7, 2021, there has been no confirmation to that fact sent to or presented to the Search and Rescue. Even if the unit was to receive confirmation today, it is too late to get tickets printed and sold, permission from the Bureau of Reclamation and get everything else organized to put on this event. We apologize for not being able to have this great event as we have in the past. However, it was out of our hands from the very beginning. With any luck and cooperation we will be able to resume the Stan Shafer Memorial Ice Fishing Derby in 2022. Thank you for your understanding and patience.

REMEMBER LEARNING TO DRIVE?

Tyrades! by Danny Tyree

My son Gideon certainly had a high-octane understanding of the THEORY of driving last winter.

As far as the rubber meeting the road, not so much.

My wife and I were relieved that he was enrolled in Drivers Education in high school, under the supervision of the football coach; but right before it was Gideon's turn to get behind the steering wheel, Covid-19 shut everything down for the rest of the school year.

Gideon received a grade for the abbreviated course, but now it's back in the hands of his parents to get him ready for his driver's license. My wife has been elected to be the primary teacher. And by "elected," I mean she threatened me with a kangaroo court and a firing squad if I traumatize the lad with my stressed-out micro-management.

If I'm along for the lessons at all, my job is to sit quietly in the back seat and refrain from uttering any of the following allegedly disconcerting phrases: "Ramming speed!," "Bandit, this is Snowman; you've got Smokey Bear on your tail" and "I've willed all four cats…oops, all three cats… to my brother, just in case."

We must be patient with Gideon "I brake for…reasons known only to myself" Tyree as he builds confidence. Rome wasn't built in a day. And apparently the end of the driveway wasn't reached in a day, either!

I remember my own travails enough to empathize with Gideon's anxieties about doing something embarrassing or destructive; but my memories have been placed into perspective to the point that they're no longer a raw wound. Except I hate running into people I know when we're out for a lesson. ("Gimme five!" "I would, but all 10 are permanently embedded in the upholstery.")

Gideon has mastered the part of the spectrum that indicates "stop," "go" and "caution" at a traffic light. But I dread his having to negotiate with other motorists at a four-way stop. My years of driving have convinced me that there is an infrared signal turning everyone's brains to the consistency of used Pennzoil at a 4-way stop. ("Okay, my PhD can help me with this. The motorist on my right is...is...no, don't tell me...hey, a turn signal! This must be one of those newfangled cars that comes equipped with one!")

Gideon is growing up too fast, but I still don't want an open-ended career as his chaperone when he starts dating. I want him to take responsibility for his own transportation. I just hope he can make it to the point of taking out girls without taking out MAILBOXES.

I don't ever want Gideon to be cocky about his driving, but I do look forward to his getting more comfortable. Right now, there is the danger of overcompensating when there's a slick spot or an obstacle.

Granted, some guys NEVER outgrow overcompensating. ("Hey, baby. New in town? Hop in my new sports car. We'll have a good time... right after I go for my hair-plug appointment, stop at Costco for the bulk little blue pills, drop off this alimony check, make car payment number six of 150 and...Dang! She went from zero to 60 in under five seconds!")

I know we'll someday laugh about Gideon's joining the ranks of licensed drivers; but right now, it's problematic.

"Got your ears on, Bandit? There's a big insurance premium increase breathin' down your neck..."

Put the Worry of Colon Cancer Behind You

Schedule your colonoscopy screening today.

Colon cancer can be a life altering disease. However, early screening can help to significantly increase the survival rate. A colonoscopy is still the best tool to help you detect, treat, beat, and even prevent colon cancer entirely. Schedule an appointment with your primary care provider to start the conversation about this potentially life-saving screening. It could be the best decision you'll ever make.

Call 406-683-1188 to schedule a pre-colonoscopy appointment with your Barrett Hospital & HealthCare provider, or visit barretthospital.org for more information.

The 2020-21 holiday season is unlike any other before. Holidays are often challenging, but COVID-19 created a major upheaval for all of us. Here are some helpful tips & insights to use during this unpredictable time.

NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTIONS

Make some time for yourself. Spending just 15 minutes alone, without distractions, may refresh you enough to handle everything you need to do. Take a walk at night & stargaze. Listen to soothing music. Read a book. Take a bath or warm shower. Download technology apps to practice mindfulness.

Feeling stressed or anxious about the COVID-19 pandemic?

TIPS TO REDUCE YOUR STRESS & ANXIETY

Limit or avoid news coverage it if causes you more stress & anxiety.

Focus on positive things in your life you can control. Remind yourself of your strengths, and how you managed other challenging situations.

Keep stress under control by exercising, eating healthy, reading, or try relaxation techniques like yoga or deep breathing.

Talk about your experiences and feelings to loved ones and friends, if you find it helpful. Stay in touch with supportive people.

Connect with others who may be experiencing stress about the pandemic.

Take time to renew your spirit through meditation, prayer, or helping others in need.

STATEWIDE RESOURCES

- Call 1-877-503-0833 to receive free and confidential counseling services from trained crisis counselors from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Mon – Fri.
