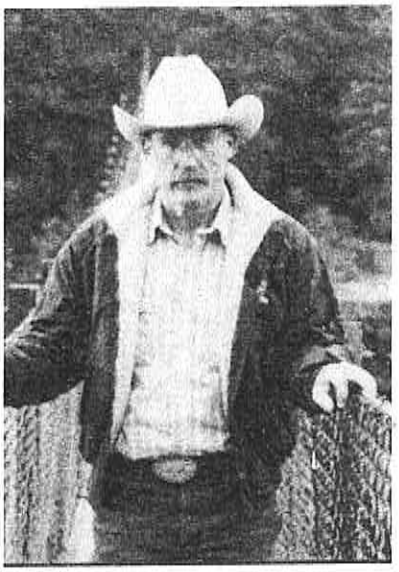
Kevin H Allen

Kevin H Allen passed away January 9th 2021 at his home in Whitehall, MT from natural causes. Kevin was born in Rigby, ID June 26th 1955 to Louis Calkins Allen and Eldena Mabel (Hansen) Allen, the youngest of 5 boys. Louis worked for the railroad and the family moved along with it. When asked, Kevin would say he grew up in Glen, MT. He fondly told stories of working on ranches in the area and raising hell with his brothers. Southwest Montana was always his home in his heart.



Kevin graduated from Beaverhead County High School in Dillon, MT in 1974. He joined the Army in November of that year and served until 1980. It was then that he married his first wife Jodie Teague, of Clinton, MT. They welcomed a baby girl in April of 1982. He served again, in the Air Force, as a Security Technician from 1982 to 1986. As a civilian he worked as a guard at Montana State Prison for a brief period before becoming a truck driver for many years. He and Jodie divorced in 1995 but maintained a friendship for the remainder of his life.

Kevin was a patriot. He loved God and his country and was always outspoken about what he believed. In 2003 he joined the Army National Guard and deployed with the 143d Military Police Detachment to Iraq. He was involved in an attack in 2004 that left him without sight in one eye. He received a purple heart. This was one of many awards and commendations he earned during his military career. He retired from the National Guard in 2005.

He was a great horseman. He would rather be out riding than doing just about anything else. He loved the outdoors, fishing and farming. He had a terrific sense of humor and a (very) firm handshake. He was always quick to lend a hand, to open his home to family or provide a homecooked meal to a single soldier.

Kevin is preceded in death by his parents, Louis and Eldena Allen, brothers Gary Allen, Sonny "Kay" Allen and Rex Allen. He is survived by his brother Chip Allen (Barb) of Hobbs, NM, daughter Torrie (Allen) Cooney of Clinton, MT, son-in-law Jesse Cooney and Grandson Chase Cooney.

He will be laid to rest in Melrose, MT, where he always wished to return. A graveside service will be held at the Melrose Cemetery Friday January 15th at 11:00 pm.

dART along with Susie's is pleased to announce "The Red Thread" exhibit.

Exhibit Dates:

February 1, thru March 12th, 2021

Meet the Artist Reception:

Friday, February 12, 2021

*6-8pm

"One of the many reasons for opening Susie's was to unite community and form stronger connections with the people who live here" says owner Emily Wilson. Her vision of a place for people to gather, celebrate positive habits, and enjoy healthy snacks, teas and smoothies is being realized. People are gathering for exercise classes, live music and art exhibits in the spacious multi roomed setting.

With Emily's goals in mind, former gallery owner and dART curator Clare Bailey approached her about an exhibit idea inspired by an old saying.

"An invisible red thread connects those who are destined to meet, regardless of time, place or circumstance. The thread may stretch or tangle, but will never break."

The exhibit will feature a red thread or band of red color running throughout to symbolize our connection to one another.

Faye Maddox, one of the exhibiting artists summed up the feeling around this show perfectly.

"I love that we are all tucked in our different walks of life creating something that unites us together!"

Dillon, join us for a Valentines inspired art opening February 12th from 6-8. Come meet the Red Thread Artists as well as the crew at Susie's. Let's get connected this year regardless of time, place or circumstance. Who knows where a little red thread may lead…

New Mexico Elk Migration Corridor Protected, Opened to Access

Nearly 1,200 acres of vital elk winter range in northern New Mexico is now permanently protected and opened to public access. The Rocky Mountain Elk Foundation worked with the Bureau of Land Management and three families to make it happen.

"This is a crucial swath of land and a key migration corridor for approximately 10,000 elk that move back and forth between New Mexico and Colorado," said Kyle Weaver, RMEF president and CEO. "We recognize and greatly appreciate the Ortega, Santistevan and Thorne families for working with us to conserve this important landscape."

The combined 1,188 acres from the four separate parcels were all in-holdings within the Rio Grande del Norte National Monument in the San Luis Valley, known as Mi Tierra Encantada (My Enchanted Lands). Locals refer to the area as the Taos Plateau that also falls within the Upper Rio Grande watershed.

RMEF conveyed the lands to the BLM that now manages it.

"The acquisition of these parcels will enhance the BLM's ability to protect fragile cultural, biological and scenic resources within the Rio Grande del Norte National Monument," said Steve Wells, acting BLM New Mexico state director. "We are thrilled that through this effort and partnership with the Rocky Mountain Elk Foundation, the BLM is able to increase access to public lands for traditional and recreational activities such as fuelwood gathering, hunting, grazing and camping."

The New Mexico Department of Game and Fish's 2020 State Action Plan highlighted the Taos Plateau as one of four critical areas statewide to conserve key big game migrations. In addition to elk, it is also home to mule deer, pronghorn antelope, black bear, mountain lion and a myriad of smaller mammal and bird species.

The cultural significance of the area dates back 14,000 years, representing early Native American and Hispanic cultures.

BLM utilized funding from the Land and Water Conservation Fund to complete the project.

Montana Western to Provide Asymptomatic COVID-19 Testing for Students

The University of Montana Western will begin providing free, voluntary COVID-19 tests to asymptomatic students this week and for the first two weeks of classes, which start Monday, Jan. 11.

Asymptomatic testing will be available for students living on campus through the university's testing staff, which has been operating since last fall to test students who show symptoms of the coronavirus.

"We have been working since November to find ways to expand asymptomatic testing specifically targeted at our students living in on-campus residence halls across the campuses of the Montana University System," said Brock Tessman, Deputy Commissioner of Academic, Research and Student Affairs with the Office of the Commissioner of Higher Education in Helena.

"We have come up with a solution that uses existing state resources and can be used across the system," Tessman said. "It is one more tool the campuses can use to help reduce the risk of virus transmission. It is not a silver bullet, but it adds to the steps we continue to take which include requiring masks on all our campuses, social distancing in classrooms and providing symptomatic testing as well as quarantine and isolation housing."

The testing is being offered first to students living in on-campus residence halls, and then to all UMW students as supplies allow.

The Montana Department of Public Health and Human Services has approved the use of the rapid test kits for the state's campuses, which provide results in 15 to 30 minutes. Montana was provided the tests by the federal government, which purchased more than 150 million for use nationwide. DPHHS is providing the campuses the tests from its supply.

At UMW, the tests will be used for the first two weeks of classes to identify the presence of COVID-19 among asymptomatic students. Those who test positive will then be isolated for 10 days so they do not spread the virus to others.

"We're very grateful for our partnership with DPHHS and other statewide leaders for assisting the system with this option for re-entry testing at the start of the spring semester," Tessman said. "By working together with the state, we've been able to bring a lot of resources to bear at our campuses."
