EVER SING THE COLLEGE BROCHURE BLUES?

Tyrades! by Danny Tyree

It has been a bittersweet experience seeing the mailbox flooded with college recruiting brochures addressed to my son Gideon.

Bittersweet because, speaking as a science fiction fan, each "road not taken" represents an alternate timeline involving different friends, different instructors, a different spouse, a different career path, a different city, a different strategy for administrators to hound grads for alumni donations. ("Remember that colorful gluten-free parking sticker we generously provided you with back in '24? With interest, you probably owe us a new parking garage now, Mr. But-My-Kids-All-Need-Braces.")

It's also bittersweet because I'm a little jealous. I don't remember receiving THAT many invitations (with such alluring graphics) back in the day. It was more like "Hey, you never know when President Carter will try to influence the world peanut market by restarting the Vietnam War. Maybe you should think really hard about us here at Generic University. And pass this 2-ply brochure on to your friends. You pay the postage."

I've left it up to Gideon to scrutinize or not scrutinize the various brochures, but I finally decided to give it the old college try and browse through a random sampling in preparation for this column. I see oodles of obligatory verbiage about "diversity," "inclusivity" and "civic commitment"; but the schools wisely resist leading with some of their flakier programs.

Once you've nibbled at the bait, THEN they sing the praises of the doctorate program in Recognizing the Racist Subtext of Sedimentary Rock. Oh, and the Department of Staying Perpetually Aggrieved. I could undoubtedly save students a fortune on dorm expenses and textbooks. ("Here – just keep this pebble in your shoe instead of going to college. You're welcome.")

I'm glad that the colleges stay on the high road and emphasize their own good points instead of resorting to mudslinging like in political campaigns. Okay, there was the one Ivy League school that hinted, "You didn't hear it from us, but the other team's mascot is a species found only in…WESTERN EUROPE."

Did you ever wonder where they hide all the unattractive students and disgruntled students on the day they shoot pictures for the brochures? ("Quit your bellyaching! You can have your Frisbee and picnic basket back after the photographer leaves. Sorry we didn't realize all the toxic chemicals were stored in this closet. Maybe that spider bite will give you super powers and make you immune.")

Many schools entice you to "Build Your Future," but some of the most successful graduates wind up being more interested in RE-building their PAST. ("That wasn't ME groping that woman in the neo-Nazi outfit. And we were promised HANDS-ON EXPERIENCE, anyway.")

Schools are eager to showcase their award-winning faculty. ("Our tenured professors are engaged in exhaustive research – on how to pawn their classes off on graduate assistants.")

Affordability is definitely a selling point, as in "53 percent of our students graduate debt-free." If you're in the lucky 53 percent and attend too many keggers, I'm sure you can buy a new liver from someone in the 47 percent.

Anyway, Gideon will be starting out at the local community college before having to finalize plans for his further education. I look for him to have a bright future.

Unless Jimmy Carter goads Habitat for Humanity into firing a missile at Hanoi! Then you'd better grab your nationally ranked comfort animal and hope for the best.

Rocky Mountain Elk Foundation Roars into 2021

In 2020, the Rocky Mountain Elk Foundation put millions of dollars on the ground in support of its mission. Those funds protected and enhanced more elk habitat, opened and improved access to more public land, and worked to ensure our hunting heritage.

"2020 was certainly a challenging and uncharted year," said Kyle Weaver, RMEF president and CEO. "RMEF's roots were built on hard work, creativity and perseverance. Those attributes were put to the test last year in our efforts to continue our mission. Looking forward, challenges still remain but we are in a solid position organizationally, one highlighted by financial strength and stability as we look to accomplish even more."

Despite not being able to host the vast majority of its fundraising banquets across 500+ chapters, RMEF volunteers instead pivoted and developed creative fundraising solutions. Below is a brief summary of the results.

2020 accomplishments

- Topped 8.1 million acres in lifetime mission accomplishment
- Carried out 27 projects in 12 states that permanently protected 40,116 acres of elk habitat
- Opened or improved access to 66,358 acres of public land
- Completed 199 habitat stewardship projects that enhanced 153,013 acres of habitat and committed an additional $3.4 million toward future projects. This includes 214 habitat stewardship projects, leveraging $27.7 million in partner dollars that will positively impact 274,073 acres of wildlife habitat
- Maintained momentum with membership numbering 231,165 as of December 31, 2020
- Combined with partners to allocate $5.6 million to 15 states for scientific elk research
- Carried out 157 hunting heritage and conservation outreach grants and 10 national programs/sponsorships
- Advocated for successful legislation that now permanently and fully funds the Land and Water Conservation Fund
- Additional advocacy efforts included delisting gray wolves, improving public access on a national scale, protecting migration corridors, forest management and various other federal & state issues
- Launched a completely redesigned website

"We are extremely grateful to our volunteers, members and partners for their continued support of our mission. Thanks to your support, we are well-positioned to accelerate mission delivery in 2021 and beyond," added Weaver.

Letter to the Editor

Only in Dillon

You can't make this stuff up!

A Dillon business man who is accused of unlawful entry and disorderly conduct when breaching the U.S. Capitol on Jan. 6, was arrested and charged with illegally entering the Capitol and disorderly behavior. He will have his day in federal court.

The business man has organized "Trump Train" rallies for Trump voters to enjoy. His rallies featured people driving around Dillon loudly expressing support for Trump. He said, "people were losing their minds every time we do a Trump Train."

This writer witnessed a Trump Train with pickups and clever flags blowing in the wind. There were "Trump 2020" flags alongside the American flag and another flag that caught my attention: a large flag saying FORNICATE BIDEN in large, bold letters. Of course, the street vernacular was used for "fornicate." I, like any Jesus loving, evangelical, was totally shocked! I went home and made a protest poster that read, "FORNICATE TRUMP" for all to go crazy for. It wasn't long before the local police showed up and rightfully ordered me off the streets. Then the police went across the street and ordered Dillon's most famous Trump supporter to remove his "FORNICATE BIDEN" flag from public view.

MONTANA STATE PARKS SEE RECORD VISITATION FOR 2020

Montana State Parks recorded more than 3.4 million visitors in 2020, a 29.5 percent increase over 2019.

Visitation increased every month in 2020 over 2019, despite temporary closures at a small handful of parks and the absence or sharp decline in school field trips, events and other group activities.

"These record-setting visitation numbers should not come as a surprise to anyone who visited any of our parks in 2020," said Beth Shumate, Parks Division Administrator at Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks. "The increased amount of people outdoors was evident, and our staff went above and beyond the call of duty to keep our parks safe and accessible. "Montana State Parks provided immediate physical and mental health relief throughout the COVID-19 pandemic."

Park visitation was up all around the state as people flocked to the outdoors in 2020. Here are some key visitation numbers.

The top five most visited state parks in 2020 were:

1- Flathead Lake State Park (all units), Flathead Lake – 471,690 visits (up 32.9%)
2- Giant Springs State Park, Great Falls - 384,309 visits (up .1%)
3- Cooney Reservoir St. Park, Roberts - 359,607 visits (up 104.5%)
4- Lake Elmo State Park, Billings - 231,388 visits (up 27.1%)
5- Spring Meadow Lake St. Park, Helena - 178,156 visits (up 32%)

State Park Visitation Snapshot for 2020: Below is a list of the most highly visited state parks in our area of the state:

Northwest Montana: Flathead Lake State Park (all units) had the highest visitation in the region with an estimated 471,690 visits, an increase of 32.9% over the same time period last year.

Western Montana: Placid Lake State Park had the highest visitation in the region with an estimated 90,179 visits, an increase of 33.2% over the same time period last year.

Southwest Montana: Missouri Headwaters State Park had the highest visitation in the region with an estimated 70,917 visits, an increase of 36.6% over the same time period last year.

"While we don't know what 2021 has in store for us, we will continue to manage Montana's state park system with public safety and the safety of our staff as our highest priority," said FWP director Hank Worsech. "We know how much people value all the amenities we offer and we look forward to another year of welcoming visitors to enjoy Montana's outdoor opportunities."
