Smoke Jumper and Other Stories lands in Dillon

Local author (and character) "Swede" Troedsson has a new book hot off the press. Smoke-Jumper and Other Stories is a collection of essays highlighting the many adventures he experienced throughout his life. These adventures give the reader an inside view to being a fire lookout, a Marine in Korea, a smoke jumper, fire suppression and aviation management. Swede has dedicated his life to helping others. An avid hunter we could be found assisting Game

Wardens, his love of skiing made it easy for him to be part of ski patrol and as an ambulance EMT he was part of many back country rescues.

Reading Swede's book is like sitting down with an old friend sharing stories. You will laugh and shake your head at his antics and the fact that he survived it all. He fell through the ice, broke a leg, dodged falling trees, came close to catching on fire (twice) and lost a pickup in a fire entrapment. (just to name a few)

Autographed copies of the books are available at The Bookstore. Call 683-6807 if you have any questions.

Montana Highway Patrol Trooper Recruitment Cycle Underway

Attorney General Austin Knudsen announced today that a new Montana Highway Patrol (MHP) Trooper recruitment cycle is underway. MHP is accepting applications now through March 24 for at least ten new Troopers to begin training in August 2021.

MHP is the traffic law enforcement division of the Montana Department of Justice and is responsible for the enforcement of motor vehicle and highway safety laws according to state and federal statutes. In the course of a typical day, troopers are called upon to do many things, all of which contribute to a safer society and help prevent loss of life, personal injury and property destruction.

"The Montana Highway Patrol's work apprehending fugitives, confiscating drugs, and patrolling our roads is critical to reducing criminal activity and keeping Montanans safe," Attorney General Austin Knudsen said. "We look forward to new troopers joining us at the Department of Justice and becoming a part of the Montana Highway Patrol's long tradition of honor and service."

Colonel Steve Lavin, Chief Administrator of Montana Highway Patrol, said, "Having the opportunity to serve the people of Montana with the Montana Highway Patrol has been one of the most rewarding opportunities I could have asked for in my career. People who are interested in a career with the Highway Patrol can take the first step today."

MHP is recruiting for both entry and lateral applicants. An entry-level applicant has not graduated from the Montana Law Enforcement Academy (MLEA) Law Enforcement Officer Basic Course in Helena and does not have any previous law enforcement experience. A lateral applicant has graduated from the MLEA Law Enforcement Officer Basic Course within the last five years, or has a

TFR

By "Swede" Troedsson

In the latter part of my Forest Service career I was dispatched as an Air Support Group Supervisor to a fire on the Lewis & Clark National Forest. The fire was in the Castle Mountains, southeast of White Sulphur Springs, MT.

A Temporary Flight Restriction (TFR) was filed with the FAA, which prohibited sightseeing and non-essential aircraft from entering the designated air space around the fire. This was to protect the five helicopters and air tankers fighting our fire.

One morning, during our crew shuttle operations, on a command net radio, I overheard a Crew Concepts helicopter pilot, flying a Bell 212, complaining that a Super Cub was threading its way through our helicopters delivering fire fighters to the fire line. I asked the pilot if the Cub had a funny looking antennae under one wing. The pilot confirmed the presence of the antennae, and stated that he had chased the Cub out of the area by descending down on it. The Cub pilot saw the shadow of the 212 on the ground underneath him, and immediately left the area.

The antennae under the Cub wing led me to suspect that it was a local big game biologist checking to see if the local radio-collared elk herd had been displaced by the fire activity.

A follow-up confirmed my suspicions. The local Montana Fish, Wildlife and Parks (MFWP) big game biologist had gotten permission to enter our air space from the Forest Dispatch Office in Great Falls. The Dispatcher never checked with us to see if there was a potential for conflict. The incident was caused by our failure, not by the failure of the big game biologist.

Dillon Middle School News March 1-5, 2021

Here's the Dillon Middle School News for the week of March 1st through 5th, 2021.

The lunch menu for the week is as follows: Monday we will enjoy ham with mac and cheese and served with a dinner roll. Tuesday, we will have pulled pork sandwiches and cabbage salad. And Wednesday, we will enjoy local beef hamburgers served with trimmings. Thursday, corn dogs with cowboy beans will be served. And on Friday, we will enjoy spaghetti with meat sauce and a bread stick.

Mr. Williams just finished a unit on cornhole. As a part of that unit, he had a corn hole competition. At the end, he had the champions from 1st semester play the champions from the 2nd semester. First semester champions were Cohen Hartman and Braxtyn Turney. The second semester champions were Carter Curnow and Emmitt Miles. Braxtyn and Cohen were the ultimate winners. Great job guys. Mr. Williams' classes are in the middle of badminton and ping pong, so we will keep you posted on those lunch time competitions.

Here are some upcoming dates for March. There will be no school Friday, March 12th. March 26th is the end of the third quarter. There will be a noon release on March 31st.

Student council is planning some fun for St. Patrick's Day...so stay tuned for all the fun.

Feeding wildlife has negative consequences for animals and humans

With the extreme cold and snow much of Montana experienced recently, it's easy to take pity on wildlife and put out some food.

"Feeding wildlife is often undertaken with good intentions," said Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks Game Management Bureau Chief Brian Wakeling. "Despite those good intentions, providing artificial food for wildlife can have a number of negative consequences for wildlife and humans."

Artificial feeding can alter natural movements, migrations and concentrations of wildlife, Wakeling explained. Due to the availability of artificial foods, wildlife may alter migration timing, which may place them at greater risk of mortality when seasonal changes become more extreme.

Artificial feeding also can create unnatural concentrations of wildlife, which may subsequently create greater opportunity for disease transmission and draw in predators, such as mountain lions.

If the artificial food is near human habitation, concentrations of wildlife may result in undesirable effects on vegetation or landscapes and create conflicts among neighboring landowners.

These changes also may present challenges for domestic animals, especially small pets.

"In short, artificial feeding may create far more challenges for the wildlife we feed or among neighbors who may have different interests in wildlife," Wakeling said.

And, even with the best intentions, feeding wildlife is illegal.

Try not to stress wildlife at this time of year

Late winter is a difficult time for wildlife. After using fat reserves through most of the winter, along with trying to find what food is available, many animals are at their most vulnerable. Although the winter of 2020-21 has been a fairly "open winter" concerning snow, often we get late winter or early spring snowstorms and folks may be eager to take advantage of that recreational opportunity.

That's why Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks, along with the Bureau of Land Management, are asking shed hunters and other recreationists to give wildlife their space until all the snow melts and the animals are less stressed.

Shed hunting – looking for antlers shed each year by male members of the deer family – has become increasingly popular and competitive in recent years. Shed hunting is a good way to get some fresh air and exercise and is encouraged as an activity. However, shed hunters, along with snowmobilers, skiers and snowshoers, should avoid areas where deer, elk and antelope are currently wintering. It is safest to admire these animals at a distance.

Like any activity, shed hunting requires permission of the landowner/agency, and special rules may apply. For instance, the BLM is especially concerned that mule deer wintering areas, such as the Bitter Creek Wilderness Study Area in northern Valley County, are targeted for shed hunting with snowmobiles. Snowmobiles are not permitted off-road in the Bitter Creek WSA, and folks who are violating this law will be fined. Please know the rules of public land agencies regarding winter recreation, and always ask permission on private land including property that is in Block Management.
