Commission opens up applications for Madison River Work Group

The Montana Fish and Wildlife Commission is accepting applications for the Madison River Work Group, which will work to develop recommendations to the commission on how to implement aspects of the Madison River recreation administrative rule.

In accordance with the Madison River recreation administrative rule, which was adopted last year by the Fish and Wildlife Commission, the 12-person work group will be made up by three commercial outfitters with current Madison River Special User Permits, three non-commercial river users, two people with Madison Valley business interests that are not connected to commercial outfitting, one person trained in natural resource management not employed by FWP, one at large person whose selected qualities are largely outside the descriptions for other work group members, a Fish and Wildlife Commissioner, and a representative from the Bureau of Land Management.

Applications for the work group will be accepted from April 2 through April 23.

The work group will specifically focus on developing recommendations to the commission regarding:

- The allocation of commercial-use trips to outfitters
- A process to permit new outfitters on the Madison River
- Rule language to address all recreational use on the Madison River, including the walk/wade and rest/rotation sections
- Consequences of permit violations.

FWP staff will review and forward all applications and any recommendations to the Fish and Wildlife Commission, which will make a final decision on work group membership at its June meeting.

To apply for the Madison River Work Group, fill out the application found at fwp.mt.gov and submit electronically by midnight April 23, or have postmarked no later than April 23.

Friends

Bryce Angell

When friends are together the laughter is grand. Not much gets in their way. Good food, good fun, a story or two is soothing, some would say.

Good friends are special and near to your heart as you look across the fire. Their hearts are full from a good days ride. They don't hold any ire.

You wonder if the next guy is lucky like you, surrounded by so many good men. It's good to know you aren't alone 'cuz you have some friends like them.

The days of trust are simply scarce for the ordinary man. But, the trust of a friend is a powerful force, better than a good poker hand. So, take care of your friends. It's a debt you owe, though it ain't written anywhere. Just remember their faces and who they are. That alone should cause you to care.

Some say that friends just come and go. For you that may be true. But for me a friend is a friend forever. That's what I call True Blue.

And, if my friends meet those pearly gates before it's my time to go. I hope they'll wait and wonder just why I'm so doggone slow. Then when we meet on the other side and cook up some heavenly stew. We'll saddle our horses and ride side by side, the way we old cowboys do.

Earth Day trail repair event at Lewis & Clark Caverns State Park Thursday, April 22, 9 a.m.

Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks invites the public to celebrate the 51st anniversary of Earth Day by participating in Lewis & Clark Caverns State Park's largest volunteer event of the year.

The annual trails repair and weed management day at Montana's very first state park will take place on Thursday, April 22, from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Volunteers and staff will be repairing the park's damaged and winter-worn trails as well as removing invasive weeds to keep the park healthy and easy to use. You don't need any experience, and tools will be provided. Please bring work gloves, sturdy shoes, a water bottle, a mask and clothing for outdoor work. If you have any tools for moving dirt or removing weeds, it is also recommended that you bring them. All trail work will be on foot.

Park staff and volunteers will meet at the group use pavilion in the campground area at 9 a.m. All volunteers will receive two vouchers to redeem later for a free tour of the caverns.

After the event, feel free to bring your mountain bike and give the newly revitalized trails a spin to congratulate yourself for being a part of something bigger. RSVPs are not required, but they are helpful and encouraged.

For more information or to RSVP, please contact Emily Dickerson at emily.dickerson@mt.gov.

Letter to the Editor

On Easter, did you hear the nuclear arms-race noise?

Whether or not you celebrated the Prince of Peace Jesus Christ's resurrection on Easter, we all should keep in mind this Old Testament Bible passage from Isaiah 2:4: "And he [God] shall judge among the nations, and shall rebuke many people; and they shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruninghooks; nation shall not lift up sword against nation; neither shall they learn war anymore."

On Easter, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO), which did help keep the peace during the Cold War with the former Soviet Union, celebrated its 72nd anniversary. However, since 1991, when the Soviet Union dissolved, NATO has not improved the relations between the US-European countries coalition and Russia because NATO has expanded its membership by 10 countries along the Russian border with 4 additional Russian-boundary countries seeking NATO membership.

Imagine if Canada, Mexico, and all the Central and South American countries joined a Russian-version of NATO, would the US feel threatened by this expansion? Absolutely!

Not only has NATO expanded its membership of Russian-border countries, but also NATO has expanded its annual budget, with more than 7% growth annually. Writing in "Sputnik News," Ilya Tsukanov reported that "NATO spends the equivalent of over 21 times what Russia does on the military" (and that 21 times figure does not include the US annual military budget).

Whether you believe in the Prince of Peace and/or his Father's admonition to convert "swords into plowshares," we all should advance the cause of peace via citizen diplomacy. One step toward this complex cause is to connect the 145 million Russians and 330 million Americans. This citizen diplomacy connection includes understanding Russian culture.

So, for starters, please invest a few minutes to read the short articles posted daily at "Russia Beyond" (rbth.com). Thank you!

SUPPORTING CHILDREN'S MENTAL HEALTH IN A PANDEMIC

Covid -19 has affected people of all ages. Children are as exposed as adults to the life changes and stressors the pandemic created. "Supporting Children's Mental Health in a Pandemic" is an opportunity for parents, guardians, and educators to learn specific steps they can take to help youth during this challenging time.

The featured speaker is Billings therapist Michelle Pinnow, LCPC. The event is WEDNESDAY, APRIL 7TH AT 7 P.M. It is available on ZOOM or in person attendance at the Parkview Cafeteria in Dillon. Register at: bethechange406.org

"Some children are more prone than others to struggling emotionally during the pandemic, especially if they struggled with issues before the pandemic," according to Pinnow. Prior to the pandemic, mental health problems such as depression and anxiety were on the rise in children 6 to 17. "And the social isolation of the pandemic can make these symptoms worse," she said.

The final presentation in this three-part mental health series is an in- person event at the Frontier Event Center (former Shopko) on WEDNESDAY, APRIL 28th at 7 p.m. in Dillon. Nationally recognized social media expert Boise, ID Deputy Sheriff Dave Gomez will present on "Hidden Dangers: Social Media and the Internet." Register at: bethechange406.org.

These events are sponsored by Project Aware, Dillon Elementary School District, Be the Change406 Coalition, Beaverhead Mental Health Local Advisory Council, and the Yellowstone Boys and Girls Ranch.
