This regulation was approved by the Fish and Wildlife Commission at its meeting April 1 and went into effect immediately.

FWP sites in Carter, Richland, Wibaux counties enter Stage 1 fire restrictions

Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks is implementing fire restrictions on sites within three eastern Montana counties, due to dry conditions and high fire danger.

Citing dry conditions and high fire danger, commissioners in Carter, Richland and Wibaux counties all implemented fire restrictions. Following the counties' lead, FWP will have restrictions on campfires and smoking at sites within those counties.

For Carter County, which began restrictions at 12:01 a.m. on April 9, campfire and smoking restrictions will be in place at Medicine Rocks State Park. For Richland County, which entered Stage 1 Wednesday at 12 a.m., restrictions affect Sidney Bridge Fishing Access Site (FAS), Diamond Willow FAS, Gartside Reservoir FAS, Elk Island FAS and Wildlife Management Area (WMA), Fox Lake WMA and Seven Sisters WMA. Wibaux County has no FWP sites with restrictions, but Stage 1 restrictions starting Monday at 12 a.m. include all private lands in the county.

Stage 1 restrictions mean that people cannot build or maintain a campfire. People also may not smoke except within an enclosed vehicle or building, a developed recreation site, or while stopped in an area at least three feet in diameter that is cleared of flammable materials. Recreationists may cook on a liquid petroleum gas or propane stove that can be turned on and off.

The restrictions at FWP sites will be in place until further notice. FWP urges people to use caution while they are out recreating due to the already dry conditions and fire dangers.

WEEKLY LEGISLATIVE UPDATE BY REP TOM WELCH APRIL 11, 2021

The Montana House passed three comprehensive recreational marijuana implementation Bills this week. These Bills take different approaches to the regulation of recreational marijuana but they all respect the will of voters and ensure proper safeguards are in place. Discussions are still taking place as to where, in addition to related healthcare, any proceeds from the marijuana tax will be directed. These Bills will now go to the Senate as the Legislature debates the safest and most effective way to open the recreational marijuana market in Montana that voters approved. Local control is important and communities will get to decide whether they want sales in their jurisdiction or not.

The House sent a series of important House Bills this week to the Governor now that they have passed the full Legislature. These include:

- House Bill 43 which expands telehealth
- House Bill 163 which expands the membership of the FWP Commission
- House Bill 252 which provides a Career and Technical Education employer tax credit

The House also passed several important Senate Bills. These include:

- Senate Bill 212 which creates property tax bill transparency
- Senate Bill 234 which creates the Unemployment Insurance Integrity Act
- Senate Bill 306 which requires at least two of the FWP Commissioners to be land owners

The Senate passed HB 2, the State budget, this week. It keeps State spending below inflation and population growth which is what free market think tanks recommend. The budget now goes to a House and Senate conference committee to work out the differences in the budgets approved by each Legislative body.

Each body of the Legislature has been quite busy this past week. For example, on this past Friday alone, the House held 2nd reading which included debate and voting on 40 Bills in addition to another 12 Bills on 3rd reading in a floor session lasting in excess of 5 hours total.

We have now completed Day 68 of a scheduled 90 day Legislative session. I anticipate we will complete our work in around 85 Legislative days. We may, however, have to return later this year to deal further with the American Rescue Plan Act (APRA) and its' still developing guidelines.

I will finish by addressing two trivia type questions that I have been asked this past week. These are:

1. How many votes have you taken this Legislative session? Quick answer is 1423 House floor votes as of Friday night! This does not include votes taken in my two Committees where I have taken a couple hundred more.
2. How many Bills have been introduced this year? Year to date, 1284 Bills and Resolutions have been introduced so far with 752 of those being in the House and 532 coming in the Senate.

Thank you for the opportunity to serve you and for your continued support!

Rep Tom Welch/MT HD 72

Senator Welborn's Report

Montana's Senate voted unanimously Friday to override the first veto issued by Gov. Greg Gianforte, defending a bill that would make it easier for the Legislature to repeal administrative rules issued by state agencies.

In order to successfully override the governor's veto on Senate Bill 227, a similar motion in the House needs support from 67 of 100 representatives. Even so, the vote tees up a skirmish over the balance of power between the executive and legislative branches of state government.

While the state Constitution tasks the Legislature with the work of writing and debating Montana's full-fledged laws, the details of policies adopted by the Legislature are often delegated to state agencies, most of which operate under the authority of the governor. Agencies routinely adopt administrative rules that specify those details — sometimes in ways that we as legislators dislike.

Current law gives the Legislature the ability to repeal administrative rules by passing bills. However, bills are subject to the governor's veto power, meaning a governor who wants to defend agency rules from displeased lawmakers has the power to do so unless lawmakers can muster the two-thirds majorities necessary to override a veto.

SB 227, sponsored by Sen. Steve Fitzpatrick, R-Great Falls, would let the Legislature repeal administrative rules with a joint resolution, which can pass with simple majority votes in the House and Senate.

Fitzpatrick said on the Senate floor Friday that his bill gives the legislative branch an important check on agency rulemaking.

"When the executive branch writes the rules, it's almost impossible for us to repeal the rules," he said.

Minority Democrats didn't initially support the bill when it passed the Senate, but joined Republicans for the unanimous veto override vote in the Senate Friday. SB 227 passed the House 96-4 March 18.

Gianforte, a Republican, vetoed the bill Thursday, the first time he has rejected a bill passed by the Legislature since he took office in January. In his veto memo, he wrote that he believes the bill steps on powers that should be the purview of the executive branch.

SB 227 is an unlawful violation of the separations of powers," he wrote. "It attempts to remove from the governor, the chief executive officer of the state with the final authority over the rule making activities of the executive branch, the power to approve or disapprove the legislature's review of the administrative rules implemented by the executive branch."

As Republican Senators we see this as merely an effort by the Legislature to maintain the balance of power between the Legislature, the executive branch and the state judiciary.

I have served in the Legislature since 2009, I've seen the people's branch's power eroded in recent years, due to heavy handed rules, written by the executive branch, this laws seeks to change some of that. After the unanimous vote was taken, the Senate chamber broke out in applause.

I understand that that the House will take its own veto override vote on SB 227 next week.
