Montana Western Regents Professor Nominated for High Plains Book Award

Dr. Robert Thomas is a Regents Professor of Geology in the Environmental Sciences Department at the University of Montana Western and co-author of "Roadside Geology of Montana." The publication was recently nominated for the 2021 High Plains Book Award in the Medicine & Science category.

According to the High Plains website, "the High Plains Book Awards recognize regional authors and/or literary works which examine and reflect life on the High Plains. The High Plains region includes Montana, North Dakota, South Dakota, Wyoming, Nebraska, Colorado, Kansas, Alberta, Manitoba and Saskatchewan."

The "Roadside Geology of Montana" book is a complete guide to the geological history of Montana designed to be utilized from the state's many roadways. Whether a professional or a curious traveler, this book is intended to be used by anyone fascinated by the geology of the Big Sky state.

The publication is a revised second edition of the original "Roadside Geology of Montana" authored by Don Hyndman and Dave Alt in 1986. Hyndman is a recently retired Professor of Geology at the University of Montana and taught Thomas when he earned his master's degree in the late '80s. Hyndman approached Thomas about being a co-author for the updated second edition.

"It was a great honor to be asked to be the co-author of this book, especially given the high profile of the book with the general public and the fact that I was replacing Dave Alt, one of the most well-known geologists in the profession in Montana," Thomas said.

Thomas worked on the publication for five years, traveling to almost every corner of the state gathering data,

ROADSIDE GEOLOGY OF MONTANA

DONALD W. HYNDMAN AND ROBERT C. THOMAS

ILLUSTRATED BY CHELSEA M. FEENEY

The Roadside Geology series originated in 1972 with Roadside Geology of the Northern Rockies. Fourteen years later, the big Sky portion of that book was updated to become Roadside Geology of Montana, a bright yellow field guide that soon gained bookshelves across the state. Now, in its 31st year after the first book, it is a completely revised full color second edition that, like so many things in Montana, is big. But consider this: no other place in the world has such a wealth of diverse and well-exposed rocks with such dramatic views. For example, Montana lies at the northern edge of the Yellowstone caldera, the world's largest and most violent volcano. A lot of what the world knows about dinosaurs and their demise came from fossils discovered in Montana's badlands. What began with panning for gold in the 1800s led to 1-mile-deep mines in flints that supplied 60 percent of the world's copper by 1900. The world's largest ice age floods hit right up to 30 feet high at Flathead Lake. Montana is crisscrossed by ancient rivers from western Montana. With this book as your guide, you'll discover these and other world-class geologic features around every bend of the road.

UMW Names Melvin Ewing as Director of Information Technology Services

The University of Montana Western has announced the hiring of Melvin Ewing as Director of Information Technology Services.

Ewing earned his Bachelor of Science Degree in Mathematics with a Computational Option from Montana State University – Billings in 1996. Ewing also served in the Montana Army National Guard from 1993-1999.

"We are excited to welcome Mel to the University of Montana Western in this new role," said UMW Interim Vice Chancellor of Administration and Finance, Susan Briggs. "We look forward to his leadership and focus on collaboration across the Montana Western campus."

A software engineer for over 25 years, Ewing has worked for a variety of companies and organizations including Education Logistics, Inc., WAM!NET, Dantis, Inc., the University of Montana, Vann's Inc., Modwest, and Quest Software.

He currently serves as Project Director at Quest Software in Missoula, Mont., a role he has had since 2006. As part of this role, Ewing manages multiple software development teams with the delivery of over two dozen products focused on data protection and management. For the past year, he has also served as the Project Director for the University of Montana Western's Banner 9 transition project in coordination with the University of Montana.

"In my short time working with the faculty and staff of Montana Western over the past year, I have been inspired by their dedication to serving students and I look forward to continuing to be part of the university community. My family and I are excited about the move to the welcoming community of Dillon," said Ewing.

Ewing will begin his new position on July 1, 2021.

Missouri Headwaters Summer Speaker Series: Jedediah Smith and the Fur Trade Era

Missouri Headwaters State Park will host a free presentation featuring guest speaker Jim Smith on Saturday, June 26, at 7 p.m. in the park's campground. Bring your own lawn chair. A marshmallow roast follows each program, weather permitting.

As Europeans left their homelands to seek a new life across the Atlantic Ocean, they faced many hardships in the unexplored lands in America. Those who traveled into these areas became heroes in their own time and earned a place in history. These included people such as Daniel Boone, Lewis and Clark, Jim Bridger, and Kit Carson.

An overlooked but very important early explorer was Jedediah Strong Smith, who, at the early age of 32, was killed before he was able to publish his journals and maps. Therefore, his story remains in the shadows of history.

The park will host a different speaker every Saturday until Aug. 14, with various topics connected to this year's main theme of the significance of public lands.

Missouri Headwaters State Park is about 5 miles north of Three Forks on Trident Road. For more information about the park, please visit fwp.mt.gov/stateparks/missouri-headwaters or call 406-285-3610.

Into the wild with Gifford Pinchot and John Muir

Featuring guest-speakers Marisa Diaz-Waian and John Clayton

Missouri Headwaters State Park will host a free presentation featuring guest-speakers Marisa Diaz-Waian and John Clayton on Saturday, July 3, at 7 p.m. in the park's campground. Bring your own lawn chair. A marshmallow roast follows each program, weather permitting.

Marisa Diaz-Waian and John Clayton will co-lead a discussion about the unique lives of John Muir and Gifford Pinchot, including the questions their contrasting philosophies raise about "the wild" and our place in it. Preservation-based philosophies associated with Muir celebrate the spiritual benefits of holistic, unimpaired natural systems. Conservation-based philosophies associated with Pinchot highlight management and sustainability of natural resources for all.
