Calvin McWilliams, age 62

July 5, 1959 – July 27, 2021

Known to many in the Dillon area as Tiffany's PaPa Calvin.

Calvin Ray McWilliams, age 62 of Cohagen, MT, passed away in his home near Jordan, MT on July 27, 2021.

Calvin was born on July 5, 1959 in Casper, Wyoming to Dean and Clara McWilliams joining his brothers Jim and Larry. After Calvin, his sisters DeAnn and Rhonda joined the family.

In early childhood, Calvin's family moved often because his dad worked construction. In 1963, they moved to the farm in Cohagen where he grew up. Calvin attended the Cohagen School and Garfield County High School.

From a young age, Calvin learned how to farm and mechanic. The older farmers tell stories about how they would call Dean for help and Calvin would be the one in the tractor when it came over the hill to help them.

His mom tells stories about how he was always getting into things. His mom also said that he was always getting hurt. She tells a story about how when he was two years old, he got his arm caught in a washing machine ringer. Then when he was 12 years old, he was helping his dad fix the baler and cut all the tendons on the back of his hand and went to get it stitched back together. His mom said when they got home, she looked out the kitchen window and he was up in a tree!

In 1977, Calvin married his high school sweetheart Twila Jo Phipps and they made their home in Cohagen, MT. In 1977, they were blessed with a beautiful baby girl Trixie Melanie McWilliams. Three years later, they were blessed with a sweet baby boy Colin Ray McWilliams. In 1982, they were blessed with another beautiful baby girl Amber Lynn Rae McWilliams.

Calvin constructed a smaller model of the World's Biggest Tractor, Big Bud. His model, which he called Little Bud, began as a drawing on his garage wall and is now a running tractor. He also fulfilled his dream of having a pivot. This pivot runs off of another great accomplishment, natural springs that he dug into a reservoir. He always loved to fly and in 1982, he bought an ultralight that he enjoyed flying for years.

The last few years of his life were spent farming with his family members. Spring planting and Fall harvesting were times when much of the family got together and helped out. He also enjoyed going and watching his grandchildren do the things they loved. Calvin loved getting to spend time in the mountains too. Snowmobiling was something the whole family enjoyed getting to do together. He built a dirt bike track out at his place for him and his grandchildren to enjoy. No matter the weather, if his grandkids were out there playing, you could bet you'd see him out there on his quad playing with them. He left a legacy of kindness, generosity and hard work that will be cherished and remembered forever.

Calvin was proceeded in death by his father Dean Ralph McWilliams, grandson Kolter Garner, Ralph and Clella McWilliams and Phillip and Maggie Rath.

Calvin is survived by the love of his life Twila Jo McWilliams; his daughter Trixie, son Colin Ray (Erin), and daughter Amber Lynn Rae (Pat); grandchildren Blake, Felicity, and Mason Jessen, Tiffany, Jace, Cooper, and Presley McWilliams, and Carson, Bryce, Carter, and Olivia Garner; his mother Clara McWiliams; brothers Jim and Larry McWilliams, sisters DeAnn McWilliams and Rhonda Losinski; and many more family members and friends.

FWP seeks public comment on emergency haying/grazing leases on WMAs

Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks is seeking public comment on a proposal to establish emergency haying and grazing leases on portions of 14 Wildlife Management Areas (WMAs) in the state.

The purpose of these late summer/fall 2021 leases is to improve wildlife habitat while making forage available for area agricultural producers. This proposal is in support of Gov. Greg Gianforte's July 1 statewide drought emergency declaration and is a collaborative effort between FWP and the Department of Natural Resources and Conservation.

Drought conditions continue to affect wildlife, habitat and agricultural producers in Montana. To view the latest drought map, visit https://droughtmonitor.unl.edu/CurrentMap/StateDroughtMonitor.aspx?MT.

The sites prescribed for haying or grazing treatments have been idle for multiple years, and the habitats benefit from periodically reducing older vegetation. The leases are intended to result in improved wildlife forage value, more diverse herbaceous plant composition, cycled nutrients and invigorated grasses and forbs.

FWP currently hosts 40 ongoing grazing, haying and farming leases across 24 WMAs. These existing leases would not be impacted by the emergency lease offering.

An environmental assessment of the emergency haying and grazing lease proposal is currently out for public review. For more information and to comment, go to the public notices section of the FWP website. Comments can also be sent to Montana Fish, Wildlife and Parks, c/o Rick Northrup, P.O. Box 200701, Helena, MT 59620. All comments must be received by 5 p.m. on Aug. 13, 2021.

Attorney General Knudsen leads 18-state coalition against overreaching federal firearm accessory ban

Attorney General Austin Knudsen is again leading the charge in defense of Montanans' right to keep and bear arms against federal overreach. Seventeen other state attorneys general signed onto Knudsen's amicus brief filed late Monday in the Gun Owners of America v. Merrick Garland case, against the of erroneous rulemaking from the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives (ATF) that criminalized bump stock accessories.

The ATF's Final Rule on Bump-Stock-Type Devices contravened federal law – as well as longstanding ATF policy – when it informed owners of bump stocks that they must surrender or destroy their bump stocks to avoid criminal liability. A United States Court of Appeals for the Sixth Circuit panel rightly ruled against the ATF in March. Knudsen and the coalition of attorneys general are now urging the full court to do the same.

"Montanans' right to keep and bear arms is under attack from the Biden administration. Their continued attempts to implement the bump stock ban is no exception," Attorney General Knudsen said. "The panel in this case came to the only logical conclusion – the ATF is trying to create laws where none exist. The full court should uphold their commonsense ruling."

Through its rulemaking, the ATF overreached and attempted to regulate bump stock accessories by asserting they transform the firearms they are attached to into "machineguns" as defined by the National Firearms Act of 1934 (NFA).

"The ATF's Final Rule effectively transforms commonly owned firearms into banned machineguns simply because of the use of non-mechanical bump stock accessories. This interpretation categorically expands the text of the criminal statute in a way that Congress couldn't possibly have intended," the brief states. "But it also expands criminal liability at the expense of Second Amendment rights, diminishing the latter absent a sufficient and compelling justification. Surely the federal agency tasked with regulating Second Amendment rights should read its enforcement statutes narrowly. But when the ATF—or any agency—invades protected rights by interpreting statutes too broadly, 'a court has an obligation to correct its error.'"

The ATF's bump stock rule is an attempt to contravene Congress and rewrite a statute with no evidence that Congress intended such an interpretation. The ATF itself recognized that "bump-firing" has been around for as long as there have been semiautomatic firearms and that common items such as rubber bands, belt loops, and shoestrings can all be used to the same effect as the accessory they are attempting to criminalize.

"While Congress sometimes delegates authority to federal agencies to fill in gaps or lend expertise in complicated matters, these agencies are not permitted to use their limited policymaking authority to invent new law – particularly when their decisions impose criminal penalties and implicated fundamental constitutional rights," the brief stated. "Agencies' sweeping statutory re-interpretations should always arouse judicial suspicion, but capricious course changes that criminalize previously lawful and constitutionally protected behavior should have to endure the cold light of judicial scrutiny."

Attorneys general from Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, Idaho, Indiana, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, Nebraska, Ohio, South Carolina, South Dakota, Texas, Utah, West Virginia, and Wyoming also signed on in support.

In his first seven months in office, Attorney General Knudsen has been a stalwart defender of Montanans' gun rights and the Second Amendment. He has led or joined amicus briefs in seven firearms-related cases, is leading opposition to President Biden's anti-gun lobbyist nominee to lead the ATF, and is fighting attempts to overturn new state law that expanded Montanans' gun rights.
