Attorney General Knudsen Issues Statement on Guilty Verdict in Trial of Lloyd Barrus

In response to the guilty verdict in the trial of Lloyd Barrus, who played an active role in the murder of Broadwater County Sheriff deputy Mason Moore in 2017, Attorney General Austin Knudsen issued the following statement:

"I am extremely proud of the Montana Department of Justice Prosecution Services Bureau and the Broadwater County Attorney's Office for their hard work on this case. Justice has been served, and a man guilty of assisting in the murder of a Montana law enforcement officer will now be held to account."

Barrus was found guilty of three counts of deliberate homicide by accountability and two counts of attempted deliberate homicide.

BARRETT HOSPITAL & HEALTHCARE NEARING 'CRISIS CARE STANDARDS'

Barrett Hospital & HealthCare is imminent to implementing crisis standards of care, which means hospital treatment and resources for patients may be rationed, as COVID-19 continues to surge in Montana.

Crisis Care Standards occur when it is no longer possible to deliver the normal standard of care to all persons in need. This occurs when health care resources are overwhelmed by a disaster or emergency. The goal of crisis standards of care is to extend care to as many patients as possible and save as many lives as possible.

When crisis standards of care are in effect, people who need medical care may get care that is different from what they expect. For example, patients admitted to the hospital may find that hospital beds are not available, or that needed equipment is not available. They may have to wait for a bed to open or be moved to another hospital in or out-of-state that has the resources they need.

"Providers and health care facilities across Montana are currently experiencing limitations in their ability to provide the standard of care that we all wish to provide to our communities and normally expect to provide," said Dr. Greg Moore, Chief Medical Officer. "This situation may persist for some time and is everchanging day-by-day, which has required Barrett Hospital & HealthCare to consider implementing crisis care standards to ensure the most equitable allocation of limited resources for patient care."

While the current increase in patient numbers is moving Barrett Hospital & HealthCare closer to having to implement crisis care standards, Barrett Hospital & HealthCare is diligently working to avoid having to do so.

CAN YOU HANDLE TOMORROW'S AUTOMOTIVE DEALERSHIPS?

Tyrades! by Danny Tyree

According to recent media reports, investors are leaving skid marks as they steer away from the century-old model of selling automobiles.

Mom-and-pop dealerships, cagey price negotiations and eye-popping inventories will be left in the rearview mirror as the industry shifts toward consolidation and customers ordering customized vehicles online.

Something seems downright un-American about abandoning the time-tested system of distribution and marketing. Two of my classmates had families who owned dealerships. My father worked for two years at a used-car lot and later worked across the street from Burgett Motor Company.

Sure, elaborate showrooms and acres of asphalt are easy targets for those constantly bellyaching about the wretched excess of American capitalism. But every society has its own flavor of wretched excess, such as a wretched excess of people bragging, "I made it onto the waiting list! Just six more weeks until my tongue depressor arrives!"

And I realize some of us are reprehensible troglodytes for not wanting to change our traditional expectations. Sure, the current system is glaringly inefficient in today's technological age, but there's more to life than offering Havoline 10W-40 to the god of Efficiency.

Honestly, the whole idea of personal transportation (be it car, truck, motorcycle, bicycle or horse) is inefficient. All those flexibility-worshipping shoppers, laborers and dialysis patients need to Take One for the Team. Maybe we'll soon have an Efficiency Czar rousing everyone in the neighborhood for the Great "Carpool." ("The giant catapult is about to launch! destination. Be on time for the return giant hamster ball.”)

I know that computer nerds relish the thought of sitting down in a sparse dealership office with a salesman/facilitator (“We decided the free coffee was inefficient, but if you want to chew on some coffee beans and swig hot water...”) to configure a vehicle feature by feature. But surely life loses its richness when there is no sound of “Why don’t you take ’er for a spin?” or “Just get your husband to explain this to you, little lady. Hey, you just parked on my foot, little lady. Little lady!!!”

Normal people like being appreciated. We want salivating salesman elbowing each other aside. “Don’t call us, we’ll call you” stinks as a substitute for “new car smell.”

There’s just something abstract and soulless about ordering a conveyance you won’t be able to touch for six to eight weeks. You must convince yourself that you enjoy the experience. While you’re at it, why not just specify that the sedan be made of tofu???

This is a classic “be careful what you wish for” scenario. When you commit to the sleekest vehicle on the lot, you can always badmouth “those bozos in Detroit” if you are frustrated by the bells and whistles. If you micromanage your SUV’s every molecule, you’ll end up pleading, “Honest, officer – that full-size disco ball air freshener looked so cool on the salesman’s screen!”

Grit your teeth and make the most of this online future. Get ready to find yourself whining, “Yes, I was supposed to drag race you with my new wheels Saturday, but a Nigerian widow cleaned out my bank account and left me without gas money! But the joke’s on her! I still have her late husband’s million shares in Acme Left-Handed Tongue Depressors LLC.”

New online resource answers common questions from Montana hunters

Hunting FAQ guidebook covers licenses, access, biology and more

Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks staff answer thousands of questions every year from both new and experienced hunters. A new online resource is now available to answer many of those questions and connect hunters with helpful information as they plan their hunt.

FWP has created a frequently asked questions guidebook to help make many aspects of hunting in Montana easier to understand, especially for people who are new to hunting in the state. This guidebook is one of several other online resources, such as FWP's new website and Hunt Planner, that are available or being developed as part of an effort to simplify and enhance opportunities for Montana hunters.

The guidebook is a companion resource with the published hunting regulations. It includes answers to 44 frequently asked questions on six main topics: information about FWP, Montana's hunting license structure, hunter access, tools for planning your hunt, wildlife biology, and bears in Montana.

Whether you're wondering about the difference between preference points and bonus points, what's allowed under Montana's Stream Access Law, or at what elevation to hunt elk, the hunting FAQ guidebook can help.

To view and download the online guidebook, visit fwp.mt.gov/hunt.

Veteran's Corner Update #121

By Mike Lawson

Greetings to all of you in SW MT who read this column about our Veterans and news concerning our Veterans. Some of this news is about our Southwest Montana Veteran's Home, the new Veteran Medical (CBOC) Center, now being built, and other veteran news.

I want to start this article to refute a statement I wrote last week about veterans not being treated by the VA unless they were vaccinated for Covid. This information was on a number of news outlets on the internet and was derived from the Delaware News. It turns out it was a satirical blog which was fake and not true. The VA Communications Department Catherine E. Beal contacted me and said their VISN/region communications director was contacted and said it was untrue. This being said, the VA will continue to treat veterans whether they have gotten their Covid Vaccination or not. My apologies and a lesson learned to check news sources as some of them tell untruths. When you research them they cover themselves by saying what that they write is untrue. Angry is a nicer word as to what I feel about them.

I'm outside Washington DC in a Retreat Center where we had a Toys For Tots training seminar with TFT Coordinators from across the US. It's always a great learning experience and an uplift in getting our TFT Campaigns up and running. I'll cover more about the Butte Campaign in a future article. I will say it was great to be with the coordinators from Anaconda, Helena and Polson while there.

The Southwest Montana Veterans Home isn't far from being done according to Mike Ascherman and John Kotka. A great day to finally see, come to fruition.

It's come to my attention that Vet Home operator, Eduro, is looking to hire LPNs, RNs, CNAs, a Receptionist, Housekeeping personal, a Speech Therapist, Dietary personal and an Occupational Therapist. If any of you know folks who are qualified to fill these positions, please have them do a walk-in interview at the Veteran's home (12:00 PM until 3:00 PM). 65 Veteran's Circle, Butte, Mt 59701. These interviews will start in early October.

Construction Updates: All building except for Cottage #4 & Cottage #5 have been turned over to the state and are under the control of Eduro who is the contractor who is operating our Cottage #4; Complete Communications is pulling/ hooking-up some of the low voltage wire for nurse call/ internet/phones/etc.. Fire Alarm Inspection passed. The Sheet Metal Guy, Derrick, continues working on changing the HBC system controls from gas to electric, which was a change order.

Cottage #5; Electricians/Plumbers/Sheetmetal guys are doing finish trim. The Blind-Guy was hanging blinds. Complete Communications was working on the low voltage systems. The Carpenter trim-out is finished. All the FF&E package is installed with the exception of the garbage cans, laundry carts, etc..

Zemlijak Excavating has finished all the dirt work and is moving his equipment off the job-site. The dirt work was critical for so many aspects of this project and Mike Zemlijak is to be commended for a job well done.

Becker Landscaping continues planting scrubs and sod laying. They're getting geared up to plant the wild grass around the outer sections of the Vet Home Site.

The big story on construction is the new Veteran's Community Based Outpatient Care building being built by Wayne Paffhausen Construction. Wayne has been really focusing on getting the outside finished. The coordination he's done between the sub-contractors and the framers has been a neat thing to watch. The cement crew has poured both entry-ways. The sign and the Parking Lot light pole bases will be poured this week. An Engineer laid out the sidewalks that will go completely around the building. The Stone Masons have completed the grouting the spaces between the stone they installed. The stone on the Portico cement columns has been laid. The foundation below the stone work has been painted brown. The roof caps and gutters should be done this week or next. The outside wall plastering between the top of the laid stone and roof brow will take a couple of weeks to complete.

The inside is seeing progress. The inside of all the exterior walls is insulated and covered with visqueen. Eighty four door frames were installed. Eleven door frames on order. The Electricians and Plumbers are caught up on their work, until the sheetrock is hung. Sheetrock installation is starting this week. The big electric breaker panel box is ordered but has not arrived. This supply hold-up, prevents any electrical connections to supply the building with power, to be connected. The change-order front desk area is completed as well as all the backing in the walls. Hopefully the back-ordered material will soon be delivered to the job site. Things are moving quickly with this building.

I read that the Little Belt Mountains and Niehart, got snow last week. I'm sure that the rest of SW Montana isn't too far behind. That isn't a bad thing if it'll help put these fires out. I'll close for now. Until next time, take care.

Potential changes to 2022, 2023 hunting regulations available to review online

Potential hunting regulation changes for 2022 and 2023 are available online for the public to review. The proposed changes are coming now during the normal biennial season setting year to help make Montana's hunting regulations simpler and easier to understand.

Over the last several weeks, FWP biologists have worked on these potential changes with a sharp focus on the science behind the regulations. The potential changes focus primarily on deer and elk regulations; however, some regions have included regulations for other species as well. The potential changes include a reduction in the number of hunting districts and the simplification of license structures.

Public comment begins today and runs through Oct. 20.

FWP biologists and other staff will sort through the feedback they collect and develop proposals for all game species for the Fish and Wildlife Commission meeting on Dec. 14. Following this meeting, a second 30-day public comment opportunity will begin on the commission-approved proposals for all hunting regulations for the 2022 and 2023 seasons. This public comment period will also include regional FWP Citizen Advisory Council meetings.

The commission will adopt final hunting regulations at their meeting in early February.

If you have any questions, please contact your local FWP office.

Blacktail Dental to open soon

Blacktail Dental, a new dental practice owned and operated by the Southwest Montana Community Health Center, is slated to open in mid-September at 122 E. Glendale St. "It is our mission to provide access and quality care to the people of Southwest Montana," said Dr. Shawna Yates, executive director for the SWMTCHC. "We have been working diligently to remodel our building and hire staff, including two new dentists, in order to meet the dental needs of the area." The health center was forced to close its dental services in 2020 due to the Covid pandemic. The remodeled building was the site of a former law office and is located across the street from the Blacktail Pharmacy at 125 E. Glendale. The clinic plans to remodel that building in the next year in order to relocate its primary medical and behavioral health services there. "We are making significant investments in the Dillon community in order to meet community needs," Yates added. "We are thrilled to be creating a new home for medical, dental, pharmacy and behavioral health services for everyone who needs us." The new dental clinic will accept all insurances, including Medicaid, and offers a sliding fee scale to eligible patients.
