Cross Country State News

Boys got 7th with 228 points. They tied with Polson but our #6 had a better time which gave us the 7th. Ben Steadman is All State with a 3rd place. Our next guy was Daniel Martin at 32nd then Joel Harvey 57th, Andy Egan 61st, Bryce Hooper 75th, Jacob Harvey 84th, Henry Hawes 86th.

Girls got 8th place. They also had a tie. It was with Miles City but their 6th place was better than ours so they got the 7th. Kelle Mosher and Faye Holland both got All State with 11th and 14th respectively. Our next girl was Hailey Powell at 25th then Abbi Lemelin 45th, Sam Anderson 88th, Emma Mitchell 94th, Laura Martin 107th.

4 of the kids got personal bests which is actually pretty good considering this particular course and its famous hill!

Support Shaina In her Fight Against Breast Cancer

October 10th, 2021 is a day that will live in Shaina Torgerson's memories as one of her best days ever. Her boyfriend of 8 years, Kyle, proposed to her at Sawtooth Lake in the Pioneer Mountains. It was an amazing day. However, the joy didn't last long. The next day Shaina found out she had breast cancer.

"In just less than 24 hours, their reality went from dreams of a wedding and raising a family to facing chemo, breast surgery, and fertility preservation," Stephanie Grover, a close friend who started a GoFundMe for Shaina, said. "It's time for us as a community to lift she and Kyle up and support them in this fight!"

Shaina is only 29 years old and her story is an important one as we come to the end of Breast Cancer Awareness Month. It serves as a reminder to all women to get screened and catch cancer as early as possible.

To view the GoFundMe, please visit: https://gf.me/v/c/x6yw/support-shaina-in-her-fight-against-breast-cancer

According to the GoFundMe page any money raised beyond what Shaina needs for treatment will be donated to Young Survival Coalition and Barbells for Boobs.

For your convenience, photos shared on the GoFundMe are public and available for use with attribution to the GoFundMe fundraiser. Please let me know if you'd like any help contacting the fundraiser organizer.

Letter to the Editor

I had vertigo for 6 weeks recently. It is nasty stuff and I wouldn't wish it on my worst enemy. Initially I was housebound but after a few days I was able to venture outside using a cane to help me keep my balance. I learned it was very difficult to keep my balance if I had to duck to avoid overhanging bushes or step off the sidewalk if the sidewalk was blocked. I would like to ask everyone to be aware of the sidewalks at their homes. If a car blocks the sidewalk someone must exit the sidewalk to continue their walk. If branches hang over the sidewalk someone may have to duck to continue their walk. The same will apply when snow arrives. Please do your best to keep your sidewalks shoveled. There are many people that try to walk on a daily basis. Whether they are elderly, or have a medical condition that affects their balance it's important we all look at our surroundings and do our best to help others. Thank you for your consideration.

IS HALLOWEEN CURSED THIS YEAR?

Tyrades! by Danny Tyree

Someday we will all laugh about Halloween 2021.

We may be laughing maniacally in padded cells, but we will laugh.

I'm sure there's no need to tell you this (unless you're living under newspapers instead of reading them), but celebrants this year face a quadruple whammy of runaway inflation, product shortages, labor shortages and vaccine mandates.

You know it's a challenging Halloween when fun-size candy bars become "mildly amused"-size candy bars, homemade costumes are saddled with a second mortgage and the neighborhood fiend is forced to inject Twix bars with rain checks for razor blades.

You know the rules have all changed when Hollywood considers naming a movie "Friday the 13th-ish…If You're Lucky," understaffed "haunted house" attractions advertise BYOB ("Bring your own boos") and your trusted Sexy Librarian or Sexy Nurse costume can't even raise an eyebrow. ("Hurry! It's a Sexy Propane Truck Driver outfit!")

Pale imitations of timeless pranks are another sign of a trying autumn. Yes, it's hard for young hooligans to procure enough toilet paper to do a decent job of vandalizing neighborhood homes; but it's a downright shame when a rowdy gang "phones it in" and showers the elm trees with the garden hose while shouting, "Here's your bidet, grumpy old man!"

We tend to get spoiled by the homeowners who have always

Never Leave Your Slicker

Bryce Angell

Today I watched a game of high school soccer at its best.
I swear my nerves were shrieking, frazzled bare, put to the test!
I came prepared for weather with my Fish Brand slicker coat.
But forgot about the blood stains from the out-of-luck coyote.
My wife said, "Your old bloody coat might bring our team bad luck."
So, against my better judgement, left my slicker in the truck.
We watched our grandson playing. We were proud enough to scream.
'Cuz after all, the young man is the captain of the team.
Our grandson's team scored first. That didn't take away the heat.
The other team then kicked it in like "Never can be beat."
The teams were giving all their worth. They fought both tooth and nail.
When heaven opened-up the clouds, dumped soaking rain and hail.
The wind began to blow a force just like an angry sow.
I cried, "My bloody slicker would be nice and warm right now!"
The teams fought on like "No Tomorrow" through the wind and cold.
When one of our team members found a hole and kicked a goal.
At two to zilch, one minute left, we owned the soccer game.
But then the opposition made the first goal to their name.
With seconds left to play, a flag went up for all to see.
A call against the goalie. Seemed a fishy call to me.
The advantage of the kicker sent a speedy goal right in.
The game was 2 to 2 now overtime would soon begin.
I stood there soaking wet. My body chilled right to the core.
While my warm and blood-stained slicker laid there on the dang truck floor.
But then our boys held true and kicked the goal that moved 'em up.
At least that's what they told me 'cuz my eyes were frozen shut.
So, from here on I'll wear my blood-stained slicker every game.
I might look partial crazy, but I'll be warm, just the same.

had elaborate decorations and bountiful bowls of treats. Don't hate them if they must make hard decisions and cut corners this year. ("Hey, try walking a mile in my shoes – if they ever arrive. They've been on a ship in the Pacific since before newts developed eyes.")

Some of us even miss the things we used to find annoying about Halloween. Instead of slogging through Christmas and Valentine merchandise to buy our pumpkins, we now must schedule Zoom meetings with those items. ("Are your present, inflatable Santa? Please adjust your camera.")

The disorienting inconveniences don't end with October 31. Current conditions can wreak havoc on cherished November 1 traditions as well. If you're one of those families that makes a habit of scooping up marked-down leftover candy, you may have to wait. And wait. ("I see you're planting seeds for Arbor Day!" "No, those are my teeth that rotted out from gorging on delayed Halloween candy.")

Don't even get me started on how this is affecting the denizens of the supernatural world.

Imagine a world where exorcists are stymied by eviction moratoriums and where you can't even entice an angry mob of villagers to chase Frankenstein's Monster without a generous signing bonus.

Imagine a world where supply-chain issues make witches substitute paper cauldrons, where Dracula turns off the TV because of the constant drumbeat of stories about emerging garlic variants, where Igor never knows if the Dungeon-DoorDash driver will hump it and arrive on time, where the Headless Horseman is constantly berating himself. ("Dummy! Carve the jack-o'-lantern before putting the mask on it next time.")

Ah, but this too shall pass.

I just hope that after it passes it goes on to its final reward instead of hovering around and haunting us.

I want to be able to splurge and buy my Sexy Newspaper Columnist costume next year.

What? There won't be any in 2022? Or this year? Or last year? Or the year before…?

That's a dead giveaway I need a hearse for my self-esteem.

I can push it if it's out of gas.
