Woman charged with bomb threat against Montana Trappers Association

by: Tom Kuglin

A 64 year old New Mexico woman has pleaded not guilty to federal charges stemming from an indictment alleging that she called in a bomb threat during a Montana Trappers Association banquet in May.

Dora Sandra Gomez, also known as Bella Gomez, of Albuquerque, entered the plea to charges of issuing false information and hoaxes in U.S. District Court in Missoula on Oct. 14, according to the U.S. attorney's office.

Prosecutors allege that on May 8 Gomez made an anonymous phone call to the Frontier Event Center in Dillon, which was hosting a banquet of the Montana Trappers Association. During the call she is alleged to have "stated that a remotely operated explosive device was located inside the building where the banquet was taking place and people could get hurt, or words to that effect," federal officials said.

The phoned threat did not go directly to the Dillon Police Department, but once police were advised of the call around 8 p.m., officers responded to the banquet and evacuated the hall, Dillon Police Chief Don Guiberson told the Montana Standard.

No one was hurt. Hours later, a bomb-sniffing dog found no evidence of explosives. The banquet resumed the next day.

Charging documents do not indicate how the FBI identified Gomez or how she was brought into custody.

U.S. Magistrate Judge Kathleen L. DeSoto released Gomez pending further proceedings.

A trial date has been set for Dec. 20 before U.S. District Judge Dana L. Christensen in Missoula.

If convicted, Gomez faces a maximum five years in prison, a $250,000 fine and three years of supervised release.

Fur Trappers Association Bomb Threat

May 8, 2021 there was a Fur Trappers Association banquet in Dillon at the Frontier Event Center. At approximately 7:35 pm the Dillon Police Department was contacted and advised a bomb had been placed at the Frontier Event Center.

This act disrupted and inconvenienced the Dillon Police, Beaverhead Sheriff Deputies, Fire Department, Montana Highway Patrol, and the Beaverhead EMS who had to respond with people and vehicles to be on stand by and other state and federal agencies responding to this senseless call.

The event center was evacuated and a cursory search was done of the building. A K9 bomb unit from the MHP responded and cleared the building while most of us participants stood across the street from the building.

The next morning, Sunday the banquet kicked off again with better security, more helping hands, a wonderful worship service, a tribute to mothers, a praise band, and a whole lot more people than had ever been planned! The Montana Trappers Association was very thankful to the congregation for sharing their space and also for donating that Sunday's offerings to the Association.

Beaverhead RMEF Chapter Grateful for Support and Success

The Beaverhead Chapter of the Rocky Mountain Elk Foundation reports on the great night they had this year at the annual banquet held at the Frontier Event Center. The prime rib was reported as the best many had ever had at a banquet or most restaurants.

The committee would like to say thank you to all of the community that attended and supported our cause. Especially the local businesses that donate every year to help our fund raising efforts:

There were over 250 attendees, the most we've ever had.

Attorney General Knudsen Announces New Forensic Science Division Administrator

Montana Attorney General Austin Knudsen announced today the appointment of Travis Spinder to head the Montana Department of Justice's Forensic Science Division (FSD). Spinder had been serving as interim administrator since April 2021.

Commonly referred to as the State Crime Lab, FSD houses the state's forensic science laboratories and medical examiner system.

"Violent crime has become more prevalent in Montana over the last several years, including a double-digit spike in 2020. Our State Crime Lab is an essential piece of the Department of Justice's efforts to find violent offenders and hold them accountable," Attorney General Knudsen said. "Having an experienced and knowledgeable person like Travis leading this division is an asset to Montana."

"I'm grateful for the opportunity to lead the Forensic Science Division in our mission to the criminal justice community in keeping Montanans safe," Spinder said.

Spinder brings 24 years of forensic science experience to the role and has been with FSD since 2002. Prior to his appointment as interim administrator in April, Spinder served as the forensic science supervisor in the Crime Lab's firearm and toolmark section and has also served as a forensic firearm and toolmark examiner. Previously, he was president of the Association of Firearms and Tool Mark Examiners.

In 2021, Montana Department of Justice's forensic science laboratory was awarded the Foresight Maximus Award, which is awarded to the top performing forensic laboratories, for achieving 90 percent efficiency. The lab and the medical examiner's office also recently became accredited by the National Association of Medical Examiners.

The Forensic Science Division is integral to the Department of Justice's mission to fight crime in Montana and get dangerous criminals off the streets. The Division is responsible for testing and analyzing evidence for the criminal justice community across the state. The State Crime Lab houses the medical examiner, toxicology, chemical analysis, firearms/toolmarks, latent prints, DNA/serology, quality assurance, and evidence sections.
