Letter to the Editor

Dear community friends and colleagues,

It is with mixed emotions that we, the Board of Directors for Barrett Hospital & HealthCare, announce the resignation of Ken Westman, CEO. Ken's last day at the helm of our hospital and clinics is January 31, 2022.

Although we will miss Ken's leadership, the next steps in filling his shoes have been implemented. There are conversations being held for an interim CEO to be placed to ensure the forward movement of our hospital and clinics until a new CEO of the caliber that we have become accustomed to is named to the position.

Ken and his family have been part of our community for ten years. They will be returning to Minnesota to be closer to family members. To say that they will be missed by the Dillon community and Barrett Hospital & HealthCare is an understatement.

Ken has given us ten years of outstanding leadership, compassion, and stewardship. We, on the Board of Directors thank Ken for his inspiration, determination, and guidance for positioning our hospital to meet the future needs of health care services for this community.

Please join me in wishing Ken and his family much happiness and success in their next life journey—and thank you, Ken, on behalf of all of us, for your service and expanding the impact of our hospital's mission.

Sincerely,

Patti Mitchell

President of the Board of Directors, Barrett Hospital & HealthCare

My Coffee Blend

Bryce Angell

The cold night air is penetrating through my sleeping bag. And Mother Nature's calling. She's become a ruthless nag. When climbing out of bed at home, I feel the nice warm floor. But out here in the Selway, going pee is quite a chore. So, I inch out of my sleeping bag. Our tent is freezing cold. Start a fire? No! First, my bladder must unload. I'll slip out through the tent fly. Darn it! Someone tied a knot! I've gotta get this open 'cuz my bladder is 'bout to pop! The coffee pot's so handy and the men will never know. Now, I've dang near filled the coffee pot, and not a bit too slow. I open my Old Timer knife and cut the tent fly strap. I hope that no one notices. I'm sure they'd give me crap. I'm far enough from camp, and now I toss my coffee blend. But throwing smack against the wind, I wouldn't recommend. I'm plastered with the coffee grounds. It looks like I'll be caught. I hear Old Mose, the cook, give way, "Who's got the coffee pot?" I hand Old Mose the coffee pot but didn't rinse it out. "Don't worry son," Old Mose replied, "It'll make the coffee stout." So Mose is making coffee. I'll leave well enough alone. 'Cuz no one seems to notice my coffee blend cologne. At breakfast time our guide remarks, "The coffee's good today. It doesn't taste so bitter, maybe salty in a way." I choke on my potatoes and all turn my way to see. But I don't believe I'll tell a soul. For sure, they'd turn on me. And tonight, when Mother Nature calls, I'll hop down off my cot and hope the tent door's passable. If not, the coffee pot?

Daines Receives First-Ever RMEF Excellence in Advocacy Award

The Rocky Mountain Elk Foundation, a long-time leader in advocacy that engages with appointed and elected officials at the state, local and national level, recently created the RMEF Excellence in Advocacy Award.

The new prestigious award recognizes individuals who helped advance RMEF's advocacy goals and efforts regarding hunting, wildlife management and natural resource conservation that remain a high priority for RMEF and its members.

Due to his outstanding leadership, dedication and a record of accomplishment and cooperation in support of conservation and its mission, the Rocky Mountain Elk Foundation honored and recognized U.S. Senator Steve Daines (R-Montana) as the first recipient of its Excellence in Advocacy Award.

"Senator Daines has been a staunch advocate of elk and elk country for many years," said Mark Baker, chair of the RMEF Board of Directors.

"Conservation is part of our way of life in Montana, and an issue that brings both sides together. As a fifth generation Montanan and avid hunter, I know just how important is that we conserve our great outdoors and increase access to public lands," said Senator Daines.

During the past two years alone, Senator Daines provided strong leadership and advocacy for several pieces of legislation important to RMEF, its mission and membership, including:

- Leading efforts to successfully convince President Trump to support and advocate for passage of the Great American Outdoors Act which fully and permanently funded the Land and Water Conservation Fund.
- Authored Senate Bill 4431, the Emergency Wildfire and Public Safety Act, which would address the "Cottonwood" decision, streamline the NEPA process for forest projects and help reduce the proliferation of wildfires.
- Authored and championed two reforms in the recently enacted Bipartisan Infrastructure Bill, a categorical exclusion for firebreaks and emergency fire prevention authority for the U.S. Forest Service, that will help get forest work in the field and out of the courtroom.
- Ongoing active efforts to delist the greater Yellowstone grizzly bear, provide additional funding for chronic wasting disease and promote additional hunting and fishing access to public lands. Senator Daines and his staff are also in constant communication with the RMEF team, strategizing on priority issues and looking for winning opportunities.

"Advocacy for issues central to our mission has been an organizational focus for decades and remains key to the core of who we are and how we operate as an actively-engaged conservation group," said Kyle Weaver, RMEF president and CEO.

Lower Yellowstone committee presents recommendations to FWP

The Lower Yellowstone River Corridor Advisory Committee (LYRC Committee) fulfilled its chartered commitment by presenting a final report of recommendations to Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks Director Hank Worzech and staff during a recent meeting in Miles City.

The LYRC Committee is a citizen group sponsored by Gov. Greg Gianforte and convened by FWP. The Montana Legislature approved an initial $4 million investment by FWP into the lower Yellowstone River corridor. The group was tasked with providing recommendations to FWP on how to use the funding, specifically in exploring new access, recreation and habitat conservation opportunities along the Lower Yellowstone, prioritizing areas where access is most limited.

As the longest free-flowing river in the lower 48, the Yellowstone River provides crucial habitat for fish and wildlife, recreation opportunities for Montana residents and visitors alike, and essential irrigation water for eastern Montana's agricultural producers.

The LYRC Committee carefully considered conservation, community, agricultural and financial values in proposing the following recommendations:

- A scoring matrix for FWP in evaluating land acquisitions and other opportunities aimed at improving public access and habitat conservation
- Overall management approaches that maximize diverse recreational opportunities, prioritizing those where access is most limited
- A list of existing or potential future opportunities for public access and/or habitat conservation
- Needed amenities, safety features, and economic growth considerations at access points
- Strategies for securing long-term funding needs

Next steps include FWP's review of committee recommendations to determine if and how they may be implemented. FWP will actively seek public comment on any recommendations prior to implementation.
