Bulldog Men Fall Short to Lights, 68-65

The Montana Western Bulldogs (12-7, 1-3) fell to the MSU-Northern Lights (13-4, 3-1), 68-65.

Both teams matched field goals and 3- pointers in the first half, but with three extra points from the foul line, the Lights led the Bulldogs 36-33 at the half.

The Bulldogs tied up the score 48-48 with 12 minutes left in the second half. The two teams exchanged leads until the final minute of regulation. With 46 seconds left, MSU-Northern's David Harris made a layup to tie the game 65-65. Bulldog Jamal Stephenson was fouled at the other end of the floor, but missed on the first one-and-one attempt. The Lights made a difficult jump shot and a free-throw to close out the game with a three-point lead.

"[We] have to be ready to bounce back," coach Mike Larsen said.

Attorney General Knudsen statement on Keystone XL lawsuit

Citing an amicus brief filed by TC Energy, a federal judge today dismissed as moot a 23-state case filed against President Biden over his decision to cancel the Keystone XL pipeline cross border permit on his first day in office.

In his decision, U.S. District Judge Jeffrey Brown wrote, "...the court takes TC Energy at its word that Keystone XL is dead. And because it is dead, any ruling this court makes on whether President Biden had the authority to revoke the permit would be advisory. Thus, the court has no jurisdiction and the case must be dismissed as moot."

In response, Montana Attorney General Austin Knudsen issued the following statement:

Recent events have made it clear that we need more, not less, domestic energy supply. The Keystone XL or a similar pipeline could have provided that. Instead, Montanans are once again paying the price for President Biden's disastrous energy policies that pander to his coastal elite base without even a perceived environmental benefit.

It's unfortunate that the important constitutional question in this case - if the president can revoke a congressionally approved cross-border permit - will go unanswered because TC Energy inserted itself into the court proceedings unprompted. This also deprived Montanans and residents of other states who would have benefited from the pipeline's jobs and tax revenue of their day in court.

However, it should have never come to this point. Democrats played political games with this project for years, and when his vote mattered and economic opportunity for rural Montana communities was on the line, Senator Tester was a deciding vote against the Keystone XL pipeline.

Bulldog Women Blow Past MSU-Northern

The Montana Western Bulldogs (11-4, 2-2) downed the Skylights of MSU-Northern (7-11, 0-4) 69-41 in their first matchup this season.

The Bulldogs jumped out to a 19-11 lead in the first quarter. In the second, Montana Western put up another 19, while the Skylights only tallied eight.

The Bulldogs continued to rally through the third and fourth quarters, adding another 31 points to the board while MSU-Northern only added 22. Montana Western held the Skylights to a mere 25 percent shooting from the field and 19 percent from the arc. The Bulldogs grabbed 45 rebounds (11 over their average), 17 of which were offensive.

"We had a great energy from the start and really liked how we maintained it at the start of the second half," coach Lindsay Woolley said. "It was great to see Jenni and Mesa bounce back with good performances."

Montana Western Bulldogs

The Montana Western Bulldogs (10-4, 1-2) fell to the Providence Argos (15-3, 2-1) in the first Frontier Conference game of 2022, 57-68.

The Argos led the Bulldogs for over 90 percent of the game. In the first quarter, the Bulldogs only put nine points on the scoreboard; the Argos tallied 16. Montana Western played well in the second quarter, scoring 8-11 from the field, which left them down 26-30 at the half.

The two teams matched points with 19 each during the third. The Bulldogs came within one of the Argos with 5:45 left to play, 50-51, but two 3-pointers and four layups between Providence's Brooklyn Harn and Parker Esary left the unable to recover.

"We weren't hitting the shots we usually hit," assistant coach Tori Anderson said. "Providence did good with pressure and defended our offense really well."

- The Bulldogs shot 24 percent from the arc.
- The Argos out-rebounded the Bulldogs 36-26.
- Brynley Fitzgerald tallied 19 points for the Bulldogs.
- Montana Western's Mesa King grabbed nine rebounds.
- Shainy Mack led the Bulldogs in assists and steals, with three and four, respectively.

Dillon Middle School News for January 10-14

The lunch menu for the week is as follows: Today, Monday, we will have broccoli beef rice. Tuesday, we will enjoy green mac and chix bake. Wednesday, BBQ Pork rib sandwiches will be served with chips and salad. Thursday, chicken teriyaki will be served with rice. And on Friday, it will be beefy noodles served with a biscuit.

We have the results of our food drive that was held before the winter break. Great job to everyone who participated. Our school gathered 2,635 pounds of food, which we then donated to our local food bank. The class bringing the most food per pound per student was Mrs. Broeder's 8th period class. They will be enjoying a pizza party. Second place was Mrs. Bockting's 8th period class, and third place was won by Mr. Anderson's class. Along the way we enjoyed incentives such as: getting out for lunch early, wearing hats to school, playing dodgeball, and eating donuts. For each incentive, the class that brought the most food items per person per pound won the prize. We had a lot of fun along the way and got to be generous to our fellow community members. Thank you Mr. Anderson and Mr. Moreni for the fun food drive.

This week, in girls' basketball, the 6th grade girls will begin their season after school. They will practice in the Parkview lunch room, but will be picked up after practice outside the DMS doors. Parents, you should receive information on a parent meeting coming home from the coach.

For 7th and 8th grade girls playing basketball, pictures will be on Friday. Girls will get both individual and team pictures, and picture packets should have come home with players. If you have any questions, please call the middle school office.

The DMS student council has been in the newspaper business this year. They have published two editions so far. The news paper has had interviews with various students and athletes, a drawing contest, and polls of our student body on their likes and dislikes. So, the next edition will be out soon. Stay tuned.

Healthy families are the cornerstones in a community where all young people thrive. Children develop lasting resilience when raised with consistency. The ACEs Task Force works to nurture and develop resilience in our community. Healthy families build strong communities.
