FINAL REQUEST

By "Swede" Troedsson (MSO '59)

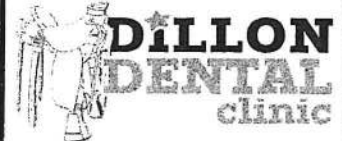

On August 3rd, 1959, eight of us smokejumpers jumped the Fawn Ridge fire above the Salmon River, ID. The next day, after declaring the small lighting caused fire out, we hiked down to Lanz Bar and were transported up river by jet boat to the Corn Creek boat ramp. We spent the night at the Salmon Ranger Station. The next morning (8/5/59) we boarded a Johnson Flying Service DC-3 at the Salmon Airport for the flight to Missoula.

On the flight to Missoula, the word was passed throughout the cabin that two jumpers died the previous day in a fiery Ford Trimotor plane crash in Moose Creek, ID. One of the jumpers was Gary Williams (MSO '59) a good buddy and college classmate of mine. Gary and I had trained together that year. The news brought tears to my eyes.

Shortly thereafter, Ann Kay, Gary's fiancé, came out to the Missoula Smokejumper Base to look me up. She wanted to know how Gary died. I took Kay by the hand and led her into an unoccupied room in the dorm, and quietly closed the door. Struggling to keep my composure, I gently related the circumstances and cause of Gary's death.

When a devastated Ann left, I wondered what the future held for this gorgeous woman.

I found out later that Gary was sitting in the cabin under the aircraft wing. When the plane crashed, gasoline from the wing fuel tank poured over Gary and ignited. Gary, critically burned, dashed out of the plane and collapsed on the ground. *Two jumpers, Roland Pera (MSO '56) and Bob Reid (MSO '57) had hiked into Moose Creek earlier that morning off a two man fire and were waiting to be flown to Missoula. They witnessed the crash and ran over to John Rolf (MSO '57) and Gary, who were both badly burned, to render aid and comfort. Gary died about an hour after the

With almost two months remaining, wolf harvest on par with past seasons

With almost two months remaining, this season's wolf harvest is on par with past seasons in the state of Montana. As of today, 166 wolves have been harvested during the current hunting and trapping seasons, a number similar to that of previous years. The general hunting and trapping seasons are open until March 15.

"I know we've had many people watching Montana's wolf hunting and trapping season this year," said Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks Director Hank Worsch. "However, harvest numbers in the state are very similar to years past. We'll continue to monitor these numbers closely as the hunting and trapping season continues."

After the 2021 Legislature passed legislation requiring FWP to make efforts to reduce Montana's wolf population to sustainable levels, the Fish and Wildlife Commission adopted several changes to the 2021/2022 wolf regulations. These changes included eliminating quotas, increasing the number of wolf trapping and hunting licenses allowed per hunter, extending wolf trapping seasons, and allowing snares for trapping wolves.

While there are no quotas, the commission established harvest thresholds in each of FWP's administrative regions, which total 450 statewide. If harvest meets any of these thresholds, the commission will convene to revisit the regulations and season structure.

Those interested in up-to-date information on the status of Montana's wolf harvest can view FWP's wolf dashboard, which is an interactive map that shows the number of wolves harvested by region and wolf management unit (WMU). The dashboard is updated multiple times per day.

For all wolf hunting and trapping regulations and information, visit FWP's wolf webpage.

CWD Research Gets $100,000 Boost from RMEF

The Rocky Mountain Elk Foundation, a founding member and sponsor of the Chronic Wasting Disease Alliance, provided $100,000 in grant funding to assist three research projects promoting the scientific understanding of CWD.

"Though some advancements have been made, there are many questions surrounding the causes and spread of chronic wasting disease," said Blake Henning, RMEF chief conservation officer. "These studies will help biologists and game managers better develop science-based disease management practices to benefit elk and other wildlife."

Below are brief summaries of projects to begin in 2022.

CWD Prions & Markers of Disease Risk in Fecal Samples (Cornell University)

- intersectional study to advance early detection methods for CWD and host factors of high CWD risk using non-invasive samples

Mitigating CWD Prevalence in Wind River Mule Deer Population (Wyoming Game and Fish Department, U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service & U.S. Geological Survey)

- integrate data on CWD prevalence, habitat and deer density to identify hotspots to help develop effective management strategies

Population Level Impacts of CWD on Arkansas White-tailed Deer (Arkansas Game and Fish Commission & University of Georgia)

- estimate deer abundance, evaluate influences of CWD on demographic and behavior, determine infection rates and develop a model to forecast the effects of management action on future CWD spread

The RMEF grant combines with those of other contributors to total nearly $450,000 specifically for 2022 CWD research.

Chronic wasting disease is an always-fatal nervous system disease found in deer, elk, moose and other cervids. Thus far, scientists confirmed its presence in 29 states and four Canadian provinces.

Veteran's Corner Update #137

By Mike Lawson

Greetings to all of you who read my SW MT veteran update articles. It's the middle of January and things are more on the quiet side, in this part of the SW MT Western Front. Football playoffs are taking center stage with folks staying home to watch them or getting together with friends to cheer their teams. The winter outside recreation folks are well into enjoying the snow sports as well as the ice fishing, on some of our many lakes. What a beautiful part of the world/country we live in. We need to continue to pray for more snow as the snowpack needs to increase substantially to prevent some of the drought conditions we've had for the last couple of years.

Our veteran news continues to be affected by the Covid omicron virus. Masking and distancing helps a lot and also knowing who you are around. Meetings are still happening but cautions are in place to help keep each other as safe as we can. The health officials are hoping we're nearing the peak of this virus, meaning the less it'll affect people, by spring. The American Legion Wednesday dinner in Butte was canceled for this month, as Silver Bow County is getting hit hard with the omicron virus. It's planned again for next month. The veteran funerals continue to happen as some our veterans pass on. Our Veteran Honor Guards Details continue to conduct the ceremonies to honor them at the grave site, the funeral home or their church. This depends on what the family requests. It's now quite common for the veterans who get cremated, to have their families wait until warmer weather, in the spring or summer, to bury their loved ones. The Veteran Honor Guard Detail for that particular location will then do a ceremony for them, at the families request. Call any of the Veteran Organizations in your area and they can get you connected to your local Veteran Honor Guard Detail.

The Southwest Montana Veteran's Home is doing well. I talked with Liaison Ashley Bair who is upbeat about all that's happening there. Last week saw the first female veteran resident be admitted as well as another male veteran. This week will see more veterans admitted with Cottage #3 expected to be completely filled. This is good news and now with the inspections/completion of Cottages #4 & #5 being close to happening the door will open in having the memory impaired Veterans filling these Cottages. It will then fully meet the purpose that this rest home was intended for, being a home for 60 resident veterans. Ashley, with a big YAH, said that no residents have Covid at this time. They are currently following CDC guidelines. With no residents having Covid, the communal dining and activities are not affected and are running normal. Infection control precautions are KN95 masks or higher, eye protection is suggested but not required in all patient areas. Residents are encouraged to wear masks and visitors are required to wear masks. All visitors will check-in at the Community Center, where they will be screened by being asked a few questions, have their temperatures taken and then they will be allowed to go to the cottage where the veteran their going to visit, lives. The staff and residents are continually getting tested per Health Department guidance. I for one, appreciate this kind of caution that helps keep our veterans healthy.

The Art Council is working on art work to put into the Cottages. Hopefully this artwork will be decorating the Cottage's walls, in the very near future.

The VA (CBOC) Medical Center is really moving well. The drywall mud/taping/sanding process on the walls is completed. The next step that's happening this week/next is the texturing and painting. There are many construction steps in completing a building like this and they have to be done in a sequence. Every sequence completion is one step closer to the finished product. Things are really on schedule.

I try to share something that the VA can be of help too, for some of our veterans out there. This week I want to focus on disabled veterans who want to stay home versus going to a nursing home and have a caregiver who can take care of them. Many times a caregiver can be a relative or friend, but need to be paid to provide this care. The VA at Fort Harrison, has a program called "Veterans Directed Care Program" (VDC). "This program offers Veterans and their caregivers greater access, choice and control over the long-term services and supports (LTSS) that help Veterans live at home and remain a part of their community." For some of you Veterans who need help/care and want to have the option of staying home versus going into a rest/nursing home, this might be a good thing for you and your family to investigate. There's a partnership between the Veteran's Administration and the Area II Agency on Aging Veterans Direct Care Program. They have a phone number 406-323-1320 or you can call the Montana VA Healthcare System at Fort Harrison at (877) 468-8387. It could be an answer for some of you.

Those of you traveling this week, drive carefully and use caution around others. We'll be going to Seattle and will wear masks when going into gas stations/restaurants/etc.. This virus is nothing to take for granted. Until next time, take care.
