Roy Franklin Baker

Roy Baker passed away on February 8, 2022 at age 66. Roy grew up in Wisdom, Montana, with his sister, Robin and grandparents Roy and Anna Baker. He had fond memories of his grandmother and loved her baked goodies. He was an avid outdoorsman and hunter from youth. He was also a hotshot on skis and good at football and bowling. He took auto mechanics in school to help his grandfather in the shop.

Roy had many jobs; working on a ranch for the Huntley's in the Big Hole Valley; logged and hauled loads to Valdez, Alaska; Silver mining for a short time in Durango, Colorado; L and S Concrete where he poured the foundations for many houses in the area, until a back injury in 1998 and again in 2004. He did whatever he could do to keep busy after that time.

Roy loved to visit and always had time to talk. He guided elk hunts and made fast friends that he has kept in touch with for over 30 years. He and his buddies loved to hunt, fish and 4-wheel. His favorite local spot to visit was the 4-B's Coffee Shop. Those working there made his day.

You could find him running around on his 4-wheeler in the winter doing sidewalks or helping someone out.

He has a son Justin Krogedal of Wisdom. He also has a daughter Valerie Baker.

He married Deb DeShazo in 1998 and inherited 3 adult sons. He enjoyed teaching them the hunting grounds. He went to Alaska fishing with Jerry and had a great time. He loved to harass them when they didn't catch fish. Of course, Roy could catch a fish out of a bucket in the front yard. He became a grandpa to 11 grandkids over the next 23 years.

Roy enjoyed interactions with Cameron and his family and Jason and his family when they would come to Dillon. Roy looked forward to his sister Robin and Marc's yearly trips to Montana.

He befriended many dogs and had three of his own. You can find dog treats in his pockets and his truck.

Roy is survived by his son Justin Krogedal and daughter Valerie Baker, his wife, Deb. Step-sons Jerry (Angie) Saari, Dracy, Skyla, Kelsy. Jason (Mindy) Saari, Cameron (Fernanda), Jaina, Jaden, Ryan. Cameron (Regina) Haworth, Steven, Zander, Enoch. Sister Robin (Marc) Selover, Nephews Brent (Audrey) Eaves, Hanna, Michael, Bethany, Autumn. Eric (Gina) Eaves. Mother-in-law (Mom) Helen DeShazo. Nieces Sheala (Erik) Perkins, Tatiana, Sequoia and Mason. Adrianna Dahlman Mills and Sonny Dahlman.

An outdoor celebration of life will be planned for May. Please write a tall tale about fishing, hunting, bowling or whatever story to share in honor of Roy.

Dillon Fiddle Contest Presidents Day Weekend

Fiddlers from Montana and surrounding states will once again take to the Old Depot Theater stage in Dillon, MT to compete for prizes in the annual fiddle contest sponsored by The Dillon Junior Fiddlers. The contest was cancelled last year due to Covid concerns but is back with plans for exciting music over President's Day Weekend. Festivities kick off with a jam session at Los Karitas on Friday night, February 18th from 6 to 8 pm. Competition starts at 9:00 on both Saturday and Sunday, the 19th and 20th. Saturday night at 7 P.M., the competitors and their families will entertain with a talent show.

Judges for this year's contest will be Natalie Padilla of Bozeman MT and Tim Hodgson of Idaho Falls, ID. Hodgson has been a favorite competitor since he competed as a teenager in the first Dillon Fiddle Contest. He has returned several times through the years to judge the contest. He is a 7-time Idaho State Fiddle Champion, and 2-time National Men's Champion. He retired this year from the Bar J Wranglers after 34 years of entertaining with this popular chuckwagon attraction in Jackson Hole, WY. Padilla is an accomplished musician starting out as National Small Fry Champion in 1994 and winning other national titles through the years. Steeped in the traditions of Old-Time, Bluegrass and Texas-Style Fiddle music, Padilla also has deep roots in classical violin. She earned a Bachelor of Music degree and has performed with several orchestras and ensembles. She has written, recorded and performed her original music and is in demand as an instructor. Both judges will play throughout the contest. For more information about the contest, call 406-925-3712.

A Saddle Too Far

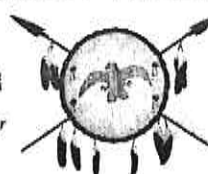

Bryce Angell

I've always had to stretch my legs when climbing to the saddle.
And now my age is telling me, "Each time I'll have a battle."
I've heard it said a man who's short will choose a horse that's tall.
Call it short man syndrome, to cover up for being small.
You see I stand at five feet three, a product of my source.
So, I guess that's why I always seem to ride a dang tall horse.
I've watched my father ride his horse. His choice was tall as well.
He always mounted from the ground, as far as I could tell.
And even though his age has kept him down, but mostly sound, he says, "I'll ride a tall horse till I'm six feet in the ground."
I've used a stump so many times, for sure a rock or two.
And now I wonder should I place extensions on each shoe?
I might as well sport high heels. I'd be the laughingstock.
I guess I'm not clear thinking 'cuz those cowboys sure would talk.
Last week I hung a strap down low with a stirrup at the end, so I'd have an extra foothold to climb up and then descend.
But the strap and extra stirrup snagged a sagebrush, 'bout midday.
Though I'd tied it to the back cinch, tore the strap and cinch away.
My wife said, "Try some yoga. You will limber up the most."
But stretching me proved stiffer than a juniper fence post.
Rodney Yee's new video was more than I'd afford. And I'm sure that namaste translates, "Get lost, you stiff old board!"
I've heard that camels kneel to help their riders to the seat.
Could Cyrus learn to bend a knee, that'd sure enough be sweet.
But Cyrus ain't about to kneel to help someone get saddled.
There ain't no clear solutions and I've never been this rattled!
So once again I find myself back at the drawing board.
I'd welcome your ideas some I haven't yet explored.
And if you see me leading Cyrus, off the beaten track.
I'm not walking for the exercise. I can't climb on his back!

Montana Western Kicks Off Heating Plant Upgrade Project

During the 67th Legislative Session last spring, House Bill 5 appropriated $2.495 million to the University of Montana Western for heating plant upgrades.

This fall, GPD Engineering from Great Falls completed the engineering design and construction drawings. In a competitive bid process, 4Gs Plumbing and Heating from Missoula has been selected as the general contractor by the State Architecture and Engineering Division.

The primary scope of the project is to replace the existing biomass (wood chip) boiler with a dual fuel natural gas boiler. The project scope also includes replacement of ancillary equipment including the deaerator tank, surge tank, feed water pumps, new equipment controls, upgraded environmental controls, and building envelope improvements. This new boiler, coupled with two other existing natural gas boilers, will result in a best-in-class heating plant.

A pre-construction meeting was held recently on campus with the general contractor and numerous sub-contractors. The sub-contractors selected include several Dillon contractors who have been awarded substantial portions of the project. The local contractors include Bridger Creek Development, West Electric, Beaverhead Glass, and Van Marter Interior Finishing.

It is expected that contractors will begin on-site work in early March 2022. Work will continue throughout the spring and summer with expected project completion to be September 2022. Delivery lead time for many of the larger equipment purchases are forecasted as being 25-30 weeks out, so orders have already been placed for these items. A slow-down in on-site work during the May/June timeframe is expected as contractors will most likely be in a holding pattern waiting on equipment deliveries at that time.

Construction activity is confined to the heating plant and the immediate vicinity. This area of campus sees high usage in terms of vehicle and foot traffic. The construction areas will be clearly marked and cordoned off as required with temporary fencing, barriers, and caution tape. Additional updates will be forthcoming as construction progresses.

"This is a very exciting project for the campus. About 95% of the campus heating and hot water needs are provided using steam as the heating medium. This project will provide redundant systems, a high level of reliability, and accommodate a 40% increase in user demand as our campus needs grow," said Montana Western Director of Facility Services, Michael Brown.

For more information about the project, please contact Michael Brown: michael.brown@umwestern.edu or 406-683-7145.

FWP seeks comments on proposed fish barrier near Dillon to protect westslope cutthroat trout Fisheries staff at Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks are seeking comments on a proposal to construct a fish barrier on Reservoir Creek near Dillon. This project would help protect a genetically pure population of westslope cutthroat trout from non-native trout.

Reservoir creek is one of eight streams within the Beaverhead watershed that still supports an unaltered westslope cutthroat trout population. However, the population is only seasonally protected from non-native trout downstream. This proposal includes constructing a wooden barrier that would protect more than 5 stream miles of habitat for native trout.

Once protected, westslope cutthroats in Reservoir Creek could be used to repopulate future fisheries projects, which would help restore the species to more of its historical range. Today, westslope cutthroat trout in the upper Missouri River basin occupy approximately 5 percent of their historical habitat.

A draft environmental assessment has been prepared for this project. To view the assessment, visit go.usa.gov/xtF72.

The deadline for comments is 5 p.m. on March 12. Comments can be emailed to native fish biologist Ryan Kreiner at rkreiner@mt.gov or mailed to:
