Man sentenced to 15 years for human trafficking in Billings after DOJ wins conviction

A New Mexico man who was convicted of aggravated promotion of prostitution last June was sentenced to 15 years at Montana State Prison with three suspended Friday in Yellowstone County District Court before District Judge Donald L. Harris. The case was prosecuted by Montana Department of Justice (DOJ) attorneys following an investigation by the DOJ Department of Criminal Investigation (DCI).

While keeping in contact and directing activities over phone calls and text messages, Lavondrick Terelle Hogues, sent a woman and a 17-year-old girl on a trip across the country to work as prostitutes in 2015, including in New Mexico, Texas, North Dakota, and Montana.

"Our DOJ investigators and prosecutors kept up with this multi-year case and did a great job winning a conviction that led to this sentence. Human and sex trafficking are happening in Montana, and we will continue our work to eliminate these crimes," Attorney General Austin Knudsen said. "It is one of my top priorities as attorney general to fight human trafficking in Montana, which includes finding these predators and holding them accountable."

A DCI agent acting in an undercover capacity found a website posting that offered "escort services." He called the phone number and made arrangements to meet at a Billings hotel. Upon entering the room, he identified himself as a police officer and learned that one of the females was only 17-years old. The woman traveling with the minor was convicted of felony promotion of prostitution in 2016.

An ensuing investigation found that the woman constantly reported her and the minor's location, activities, patrons, and how much money they were making and spending, and sent photos to Hogues. He made comments to the effect that they "better get to making some money." Hogues and the woman also sent money back and forth using electronic and wire transfers.

He was eventually arrested by New Mexico authorities and extradited to Montana and pleaded not guilty to the charges.

Department of Justice attorneys Chris McConnell and Melissa Broch prosecuted the case.

WATERCRAFT INSPECTION STATION SEASON

Several watercraft inspection stations begin operation in early March to check snowbird boat traffic returning from mussel positive areas such as Lake Mead and Havasu. Boat owners coming to Montana must have their vessel inspected for aquatic invasive species at a Montana watercraft inspection station prior to launch.

The stations that open in early March include those near Dillon, Anaconda and Ravalli. FWP works closely with partners for station operation and contracts with the Beaverhead Conservation District for operation of the Dillon station and CSKT for operation of the Ravalli station. Inspections will also be available at the FWP Region 1 office in Kalispell in March.

During 2021, crews conducted 123,000 inspections and intercepted 61 mussel-fouled boats intercepted, which was a record number for the state. FWP warden staff, who provided support at inspection stations to prevent drive-bys, issued 137 citations and 182 written warnings.

Hunting & fishing license year begins March 1

The 2022 license year opens March 1, which means that is the day you can buy new hunting and fishing licenses and begin applying for permits and special licenses. The deadline to apply for deer and elk permits is April 1.

Applications for most species – deer, elk, antelope, deer B, elk B, antelope B, moose, sheep, goat, bison, bear, turkey – can be made beginning March 1.

This spring Fish, Wildlife & Parks will be launching the new MyFWP mobile app that will store and display licenses, permits, and digital carcass tags, known as E-Tags, which can be used in the field without cellular service. The new app will be released soon with more information on how to download and use it. To use the app, hunters and anglers will need a MyFWP account, which is a secure and convenient digital profile that stores licenses, permits and related information.

To create a new account, visit fwp.mt.gov. Users need to make sure to link their ALS number to the MyFWP account to ensure their hunting and fishing licenses are attached to their MyFWP account.

Hunters will also still have the option to print copies of licenses they purchase online or at FWP offices.

If people have questions, the FWP licensing call center will be open from 7am - 7pm from March 1 - April 1; after April 1, the hours will return to 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. The call center can be reached at 406-444-2950. Remember, if you're applying for a special license or permit, you will need to have a valid email address.

Letter to the Editor

Thank you

I want to give a big shout out to Officer Ian Ternes. Friday night he stopped me for having a headlight out. I told him I know it was but I have to wait till the 3rd for my SS.

On Saturday he came to my house and replaced the bulb. He said he didn't want me to have to buy it then find a mechanic to put it in.

He was going to do the other one because he said when one goes out it isn't to long for the other one to burn out. Unfortunately it was stubborn and wouldn't come out. He left it with me.

So a great big thank you to Ian. This is to let people who down talk our officers. Ian is an example of our department.

THANK YOU IAN.

God Bless you.
