Attorney General Knudsen responds to federal mask mandate extension

In response to reports that the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) will extend the federal transportation mask mandate until May 3, Montana Attorney General Austin Knudsen issued the following statement:

"President Biden's mask mandate should have ended long ago. It's an arbitrary assertion of federal power and I'll continue to fight it in court."

Attorney General Knudsen is part of a lawsuit filed last month to eradicate the Biden administration's mask mandate and obtain a permanent injunction against enforcement.

Groups of flight attendants and pilots have also filed lawsuits against the mandate, while airlines have asked the Biden administration to end it.

Montana's Motor Vehicle Division Helps Raise More Than $5.5 million for Montana Non-Profits

The Montana Department of Justice announced that in fiscal year 2021 the Motor Vehicle Division (MVD) helped Montana non-profit organizations raise $5,669,311 million through the highly popular specialty plate program.

Currently, customers can select from more than 200 specialty plates. The wide variety of designs represent organizations ranging from veterans, first responders, colleges and universities, service groups, youth groups, community support initiatives, and a variety of other non-profit organizations across Montana.

"The MVD's specialty plate program is a great way for Montanans to support their favorite non-profits including first responder, veteran, and agricultural organizations," MVD Administrator Laurie Bakri said. "The amount of donations the program sends to charitable organizations each year makes it clear that Montanans care about their communities and we're proud to be a part of that."

During the vehicle registration process, Montanans have the opportunity to select a specialty plate. The donation fee between $20 and $35 is set by the plate sponsor and goes to the non-profit organization associated with the license plate in addition to the $10 administrative cost and $10 production cost.

In 2021, MVD introduced eight new specialty plates

When applying for a specialty plate, an organization must pay an application and administrative fee and submit documentation proving that they are a legitimate, non-profit with good standing in Montana. Organizations must sell at least 400 specialty plates within three years following the initial plate release date and maintain the 400 minimum throughout the plate's existence, or the specialty plate is subject to revocation.

New elk hunting access agreements process implemented Application period April 15-May 15

Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks is implementing a new process for elk hunting access (EHA) agreements to provide more transparency with the public and landowners and allow for a clearer process for Fish and Wildlife Commission review.

EHA agreements were codified in Montana statute in 2001. The agreements were known as "454 agreements" reflecting the bill number of the original legislation. The statute was amended several times in the past 20 years, including during the 2021 session.

In general, EHA agreements allow landowners to receive an elk permit or license in exchange for allowing three public hunters on their property. One of the hunters is selected by the landowner from the list of successful permit or Elk B License applicants for the hunting district where the property is located.

The other two hunters are selected by FWP from the same lists depending on the opportunities outlined in the agreement.

At least three public hunters are required for each landowner permit issued, but other access opportunities can be included in the agreement.

This year landowners can apply for EHA agreements from April 15 through May 15. The details on how to apply are located online at fwp.mt.gov/hunt/landownerprograms/public-elk-access-agreements.

"After several years of low interest from landowners, the changes the 2021 legislature made resulted in more demand for these agreements last year," FWP Director Hank Worsech said. "We saw the need for a clearer and more transparent process for how these agreements are made and what they involve. The changes we've made will ensure that is the case going forward."

The Fish and Wildlife Commission will approve 2022 EHA agreements at their June 23 meeting. The applications proposed for approval will be posted online two weeks prior to the meeting and the commission will take public comments on the applications at its meeting.

This year FWP is proposing to cap additional landowner permits for these agreements at 10% of the commission-approved permit or license quota for the hunting district where the agreement is valid. For example, if a hunting district has 100 permits, 10 new permits would be available for these agreements. A permit or license allocated to a landowner via EHA agreement is valid only on the landowner's property. The permits cannot be sold, transferred or bartered for.

"Capping the number of new permits available for these agreements makes sense given that we expect more landowners to participate than last year, but we're not sure what the interest will be," Worsech said.

If the requests for permits or licenses are more than 10% of the commission-approved quotas, FWP plans to push all commission-approved applications to a random draw.

The EHA agreement will specify what areas of the ranch property will be open to no-cost public elk hunting, the number of public elk hunting days allowed on the property and other factors FWP and the landowner consider necessary. The agreement may include a process or methodology the public hunters identified in the agreement can use to reserve an access opportunity. The landowner reserves the right to deny access with cause to any public hunter chosen by FWP.

For more information, go online to fwp.mt.gov/hunt/landownerprograms/public-elk-access-agreements. Landowner applications will be available on this web address April 15. Applications must be complete to be considered. For questions, call your local FWP office or contact the FWP Parks and Outdoor Recreation Division, 406-444-3750, LndSportRelations@mt.gov.

the VA Survey takes place, sometime this month. Some other interesting veteran news, is some selected art work, is starting to arrive. This particular "Art Work" is by artist's Lynn Haste, Elyssa Leininger and Bruce Park. Liaison Ashley Bair, said some of the pieces are "absolutely stunning". Cottage #5 is still a work in progress, at this time.

The new VA (CBOC) Medical Center, is becoming more complete every day. Furniture is supposed to start arriving this week. The suspended ceiling tiles are installed throughout the building. The finish work takes time, but is going well. The VA had about 15 of their people, do a walk- through last week. They're excited about moving in and getting it operational. The Grand Opening on April 30th, is in the planning stages and as I get more info on that, I'll report it. This will be big deal, with many dignitaries, veterans and news media folks attending. You might consider attending, as it'll be a great event.

Some updated VA Covid-19 news, is that veterans can get the 2nd Covid-19 booster at Ft Harrison. You can also get flu shots or other Covid shots. Call 877-468-8387. Your local Health Departments are also giving the 2nd Booster and other Covid-19 shots are available. My wife and I, got our 2nd booster shot, through our Health Department here in Butte, last Saturday. Another bit of positive news, is that the Fort Harrison VA Medical Hospital was given a 5-Star Patient Experience rating, from Becker's Healthcare. I've been a patient there, 3 or 4 times, and received top notch care, every time. Montana's VA Healthcare is a great system and keeps getting better all the time. When the new VA CBOC opens in Butte, I'll transfer my primary healthcare, from Ft Harrison to this new facility. Those of you veterans, in SW Montana, who are getting your primary healthcare at Ft Harrison, might consider doing the same.

I'll close for now, please take care.

Advance Directives Presentation

Saturday, April 16, on National Health Care Decision Day, Jeanette Producers, a licensed clinical social worker, will give a presentation on advance directives at 11:30 a.m. at the Dillon Public Library, 121 S. Idaho Street. Another presentation will be 3:30 p.m. at the Sheridan Public Library, 109 E. Hamilton Street.

In 2008, Virginia-based healthcare attorney Nathan Kottkamp started National Health Care Decision Day to educate the public about the importance of health care decisions. Annually, events occur across the country on this day to help demystify healthcare decision-making and impart the need for advance care planning.

Over the last 40 years, Producers has worked in a variety of health care settings and has a passion to educate people about the history of advance directives, describe the different types and discuss their importance as well as help empower people to make their health care desires known before an incapacitating illness or accident.
