Headwaters RC&D Announces $1,000,000 Grant
Award to Support Brownfields Development in Southwestern Montana

Headwaters RC&D (HRCD) is excited to announce that the organization is the recipient of an EPA Brownfields grant in the amount of $1,000,000 to develop a revolving loan fund to support the redevelopment of properties throughout Southwestern Montana.

As a new recipient of a Brownfields RLF Coalition grant, HRCD plans to capitalize on a revolving loan fund from which the organization will provide loans and subgrants to support cleanup activities. HRCD will use funds to assist with site cleanups, plan redevelopment, and conduct community involvement activities. RLF activities will focus on the seven-county region in southwest Montana that includes Anaconda-Deer Lodge, Beaverhead, Butte-Silver Bow, Granite, Jefferson, Madison, and Powell counties. Priority sites are located in old, blighted commercial corridors and include former gas stations, auto repair shops, a former hotel building, and a former junkyard located in a federally designated floodplain. Coalition members are the Butte Local Development Corporation and the Anaconda Local Development Corporation.

"We're incredibly excited about this important investment from the EPA to support the redevelopment of Brownfields properties in the Headwaters region," said HRCD Executive Director Joe Willauer. "The Brownfields Revolving Loan Fund for Southwestern Montana is going to provide critical funding for properties that are underutilized and help spur development and investment that will lead to new businesses, new jobs and vibrant economies. We're thankful for the support from EPA, and proud to continue serving the communities of Southwestern Montana."

For additional information please contact Joe Willauer, Executive Director. 406.925.9622 jwillauer@headwatersrcd.org

City of Dillon Web Site.

By: MJ

May 25, 2022, I tried to access the "City Directory" on the city's web site. A message "server error in '/' application" came up and I unable to open the site. I called the city hall and spoke with one of the office personnel. She was gracious and thanked me for letting them know there was a problem. I asked when it would be fixed, and she was unable to give me an answer as she was not the person that would be making corrections. I then asked if I could speak with the person that would be updating the sight and was told that person was not in the office. I then asked for a name or extension number of the person in order that I may contact them later. I was told that it was not necessary for me to have that information. Question: Why is it I can not speak with the person in charge of the city web site? I am not asking for personal information and the person Does the person I am asking to speak with work for or is contracted by the City of Dillon municipality.

PRIORTIES

By "Swede" Troedsson

I helped staff Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks game check stations for about five hunting seasons following my retirement from the U.S. Forest Service in 1994.

In 1997, on the day following Thanksgiving, I was working at a check station south of Alder, MT. Late in the morning several hunters, who were heading home, stopped at the check station. They had been camped near the Forest Service Divide Cabin while they hunted the upper Ruby River drainage. They told me that the Divide Cabin had burned down Thanksgiving eve, and they had assisted the couple who had been run out of the cabin by the fire. Mark Petroni, who was the Madison District Ranger at the time, provides much of the details.

A couple from Ennis, MT, had rented the cabin in order to hunt in the area. On Thanksgiving eve, they were preparing to go to bed. A wood fire was burning in the cabin heating stove. They had placed a five gallon propane bottle in the cabin's open sleeping loft and connected a rubber propane line to a lantern suspended above the wood stove. They could smell propane gas, so the husband shook the hose which immediately became disconnected. Not only was there a rush of leaking propane, but the lantern was extinguished as well. The escaping gas began to fill the cabin. Fumbling in the dark, the husband grabbed his rifle, his spendy Swarovski spotting scope, and his wife (speculation has it that it was in that order), and they both charged out of the cabin. The cabin was immediately consumed in fire, leaving the couple standing in the snow in stocking feet and underwear.

Fortunately, the hunters who were camped nearby, ran over to assist the couple. The couple's pickup was close to the cabin and in danger of igniting from the radiant heat. One of hunters asked the husband where the truck ignition keys were located. The hunter pointed to the burning cabin and said they were in his pants pocket! They broke a window in the truck in order to put the transmission in neutral so they could push it to safety.

That night the hunters drove the couple to Chick's Bar in Alder so they could arrange for a friend to come and return them to Ennis.

The cabin was a total loss. The following summer a loader was borrowed from the nearby Red Rock Lakes National Wildlife Refuge to excavate the ruins. A cinder block foundation was constructed and lodgepole pine logs were obtained for a new cabin. The new cabin was built by volunteers at Vigilante Station, located about ten miles north of the Divide Cabin site. The manufactured logs were moved to Divide in 1999. Construction was completed in 2001.

After this episode the district started providing small propane cylinders and asked renters not to bring their own propane. This was later followed by the Beaverhead-Deerlodge National Forest requiring renters to provide small propane cylinders for the cook stove and gas lights.
