Grand Opening

Indigenous Peoples of Southwest Montana - An Archaeological History

A grand opening of a new exhibit at Beaverhead County Museum in Dillon, Indigenous Peoples of Southwest Montana - An Archaeological History, is scheduled for Friday and Saturday, June 24 and 25, 2022. The exhibit, two years in the making, was inspired by the book, Six Hundred Generations: An Archaeological History of Montana, by Carl M. Davis, Dillon native and former Regional Archaeologist for the U.S. Forest Service. To help tell the story, this exhibit uses artifacts from many eras of Indigenous Peoples that have been donated to the museum.

At the end of the last Ice Age 12,000 years ago, major changes in climate set the stage for the migration of Eurasian people into the western hemisphere. Visitors can learn how the major extinctions of mammoths, giant bison and other megafauna required people to adapt to the changing environment and plant and animal species. Exhibits cover an extensive time period, from a 13,000-year-old spear point found locally to tiny arrow points discovered at nearby buffalo jumps. Highlights include mammoth bones uncovered within Dillon's city limits in 1906 along with one of the largest mammoth tusks to be exhibited in any museum. A beautiful atlatl (throwing spear) made for this exhibit is a "must see" item. Viewers will gain a new appreciation of the resilience, creativity and adaptability of people who lived and thrived in this area from their first arrival at the end of the Ice Age until they were displaced by Euro-Americans 100-150 years ago.

Ticketed events on June 24th begin with an afternoon tour of the Wheat Bison Jump. The evening reception offers an overview by the exhibit's curator, Ron Loge, and a talk about the archaeology of Beaverhead County by Carl M. Davis. Saturday events include free access to the exhibit at the Depot Museum, atlatl skill talks and throwing demonstrations, flintknapping, bison hide processing, fire starting and other presentations. Davis' talk on archaeology will be presented again. Additional ticketed tours to the Wheat Bison Jump will be offered at 10 AM and 3 PM on Saturday. Tickets are $5 for adults. Children 13 and under are free. To assure transportation to the site, reservations made by June 15th. For tickets or more information, call the Beaverhead County Museum (406-683-5027).

Notice of Annual County Transportation Meeting

The Beaverhead County School's Annual transportation committee will meet at 10 am on Wednesday, July 20, 2022 in the commissioners' Room of the Beaverhead County Courthouse. The purpose of the meeting is to approve, disapprove, or adjust bus routes and isolated individual contracts for the 2022-2023 school year.

No Bake Lemonade Pie

Crush 1 package Girl Scout Lemonade Cookies (set back 2 or 3 if you want them on top) Mix cookies with 1/3 melted butter. Press in a 8 by 8 pan. Mix with a mixer- 16 ounces softened cream cheese, 2 cups powdered sugar, lemon juice to taste (I used the juice of 2 whole large lemons). Fold in a small tub of cool whip, pour over crust. For the top I swirled in a little yellow food color.

Chill for 2-3 hours, garnish with the cookies that you set aside.

(Stop in Womack's Printing Place, 126 N. Montana St. and pick up a pack or two of Lemon Cookies and try this recipe.)

ARTIFACT

By "Swede" Troedsson

In August, 1967, I was dispatched to the Trapper Peak Fire. This fire was on the Bonners Ferry Ranger District, on the Kaniksu National Forest, in northern Idaho.

My assignment was as a Crew Boss supervising a crew of approximately 21 Pueblo Indians from Az.

Our sector straddled a deep draw with steep banks. There were three pump emplacements in the draw, one of which presented a difficult climb in order to get up onto the hose line.

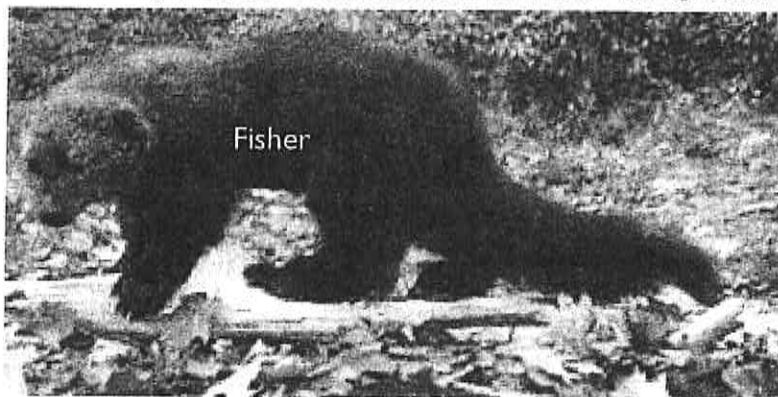

The first day I had the crew, they disappeared for a while and returned with a log on which they had chopped steps into so that they could more easily ascend the steep bank above the one pump emplacement.

I called the crew boss over and expressed my admiration of their ladder. The crew boss said this was what they used in AZ to climb up into their pueblos.

I also instructed the crew boss that when they were done using their makeshift ladder they should chop it up into small pieces and scatter it over the land. My concern was that an archeologist might later discover this Pueblo artifact in northern Idaho and get historians excited over his discovery!

Later, while we were taking a break, we saw a beautiful weasel cross our fire line. The weasel was about the size of large cat. It had brown fur with a rust hue, and had black legs. None of us knew what kind of weasel this critter was.

When I arrived back home I looked up the weasel and found out it was a fisher. I notified the Bonner Ferry Ranger District of our sighting. They informed me they had planted some fishers in the area for porcupine control.

National Atlatl Master Highlights Museum's Grand Opening Activities Day.

National champion atlatl thrower and educator, Jim Ray, is highlighting the activities day as part of the grand opening events of the Beaverhead County Museum's new permanent exhibit Indigenous Peoples of Southwest Montana: An Archaeological History. Family fun and educational activities are scheduled on Saturday June 25. The new exhibit housed in the old Union Pacific Depot will open and is free to the public with hourly docent tours by the exhibit's curator, Ron Loge beginning at 9 AM.

Local flintknapper, Eldon Weekly, will demonstrate stone tool making. Bison hide processing will be shown by Billie Maxwell. Participants will get to try their hand at scraping a fresh bison hide and learn how to work the hide using traditional methods. Twine making using the stem of a local shrub, dogbane, will be taught. Steve Morehouse will teach fire making without matches. He will be cooking up beavertail and bison tongue for your culinary experience.

The atlatl, the important weapon used by all our ancestors, is a throwing board that launches a long dart, which in experienced hands, is accurate to 40 yards and can be thrown 200 yards. It was used to bring down game of all species including ice-age mammoths. Participants will have the opportunity to try their hand at sticking a mammoth target with a real atlatl.

At 1 PM Carl Davis, Dillon native and former regional archaeologist for the US Forest Service will present a talk, "Archaeological History of Beaverhead County," providing an overview of the basis of the new exhibit.

Two guided tours of the nearby Wheat Bison Jump will be led by Davis. Transportation to the site will be by bus. Departure from the Depot will be at 9 AM and 3 PM. This is a ticketed event ($5 per adult, children 13 and under are free). Call 406-683-5027 to reserve a seat by 6-28-2022.

LIVE MUSIC ON JUNE 18 AT BANNACK STATE PARK

Live Music will be featuring Phil Page, an artist who plays Cowboy Tunes, and will be from 6:00 pm to 9:00 pm at the Group Use Shelter at Bannack State Park.

2 people injured in Big Sky moose encounter

Two people received relatively minor injuries Wednesday in a surprise close encounter with a moose in Big Sky.

A group of seven people were walking between Turkey Leg and Sitting Bull roads at Big Sky Resort about 10 a.m. when they were charged by a cow moose. Two people in the group, a woman and a man, received relatively minor injuries.

A game warden with Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks responded and interviewed several people who had previously seen a cow moose and a calf in the area recently. It's likely the moose was acting in defense of the calf, which is normal. FWP staff will monitor moose activity in this area, but no further management action is planned at this time.

Moose are common in southwest Montana and can be defensive and dangerous in surprise close encounters with people or dogs. This is especially true of cow moose with calves. Keep these precautions in mind to avoid negative encounters with moose:

- Be aware of your surroundings and be especially careful around creeks and in areas with dense brush.
- Travel in groups whenever possible and make noise to alert animals to your presence.
- If you encounter a moose, give it lots of space and don't approach it. Always keep dogs under control.
- If a moose charges or chases you, take cover behind something solid, such as a tree.
- In some situations, bear spray has been known to be an effective defense tool in moose encounters.
