Secretary of State Christi Jacobsen cuts fees for Montana businesses

Montana Secretary of State Christi Jacobsen is proud to announce registration fees for Montana businesses have been cut in half.

"Due to increased efficiencies in our office, we are able to lower fees for our Montana businesses. Those businesses are the backbone of our great state and cutting fees in half is one step to help them achieve their goals," said Secretary Jacobsen. "Thousands of businesses will benefit in the estimated savings of more than a million dollars each year."

Effective July 1, the Secretary of State's Office cut fees in half for new Montana business registrations, including Domestic Limited Liability Companies (LLCs). Approximately 29,000 Domestic LLCs were created in Montana in 2021 according to the Montana Business Economic Report.

Several other fees have been waived entirely.

An estimated 34,580 businesses will benefit from the reduced or eliminated fees each year, resulting in an estimated $1,139,825 annual savings for those businesses based on the three-year average of the affected filings.

Montana has experienced record growth in new business registrations over the last two years, and, in addition, the online business filing system implemented in December 2020 provides efficiencies that reduce the review and processing time by the Secretary of State Office's staff.

"We want Montana businesses to know they are supported and appreciated," said Secretary Jacobsen, "and we look forward to seeing our record business growth continue for years to come."

The Coldest July Bryce Angell

I saddled up one morning, 'twas a warm and gentle breeze.
And being mid-July I never thought I'd almost freeze.
My father walked up to me said, "Your raincoat ain't tied on."
I gazed up to a clear, blue sky. Then mounted. I was gone.
I'd only worn a t-shirt, but my hat was pulled down tight.
My hat would keep the rain off. Heck, I knew I'd be alright.
If I'd only known what really lay ahead of me that day.
I'd have heeded all my father's words. I darn sure had to pay.
At noon I hopped down off old Stretch. My mind kept telling me. Find a place for shelter, build a fire. Just wait and see.
There were no dark clouds in the sky. The sun was baring down.
I weren't about to build a fire, look like the dumbest clown.
But by afternoon the sky turned black, for sure the dankest cold.
I knew I was in trouble. Wished I'd done what I was told.
The cold dark clouds soon emptied out. They soaked me head to toe. The weather turned to hail and then the wind began to blow.
I knew if I climbed off my horse and set a steady pace,
my body would maintain some heat and walk me off this place.
My mind was still coherent. I recalled what dad had said.
"Your horse will throw off heat. Just snuggle up.
You won't be dead."
So, I wrapped myself around old Stretch. The heat was coming through. My saddle horse had saved me.
Didn't have to say adieu.
Just then I heard a tree branch snap. I saw my father's face.
He came riding in on Shortcut and I yelled out words of grace.
He didn't have to say a word. His look plumb pierced my soul.
He tossed a coat and slicker. Didn't offer an earful.
Well, that was fifty years ago. It seems like yesterday.
Now I always tie a raincoat even on a sunny day.
'Cuz the coldest that I've been was 1969 July.
The mountains ain't forgiving and I dang near said,
"Goodbye."
And when the other cowboys say, "You carry too much gear."
I don't worry what they say. It's Mother Nature that I fear!

BE SAFE ON MONTANA'S WATERS THIS SUMMER

Montana has experienced six boating fatalities this year alone due to high water and cold temperatures. Even with summer temperatures, Montana has cold water year-round and it's important to remember that cold water can be deadly.

If you are recreating on or around water, remember to wear a life jacket and always tell someone where you are going and when you plan on returning.

Here are the phases of cold-water immersion:

Cold Shock (initial entry to 5 minutes): Gasping for breath and hyperventilation are natural reactions to cold water. Try to get your breathing under control and avoid panicking.

Cold Incapacitation and Swim Failure (5 to 30 minutes): During this time, you will lose dexterity and grip strength. Cooling of arms and legs impairs the ability to swim. Even the best swimmers cannot continue to function in cold water.

Hypothermia: Cooling of the body's core temperature eventually results in loss of consciousness. How quickly hypothermia sets in depends on the water temperature, body type, clothing and behavior. Always seek medical attention right away.

High water is dangerous

Montana is experiencing extremely high water, so if you plan to float on the lakes and rivers this summer, always remember to wear a life jacket. Accidents on the water can happen much too fast to have time to reach and put on a stowed life jacket. Make sure your life jacket is U.S. Coast Guard approved, appropriate for your water activity and fits properly. A life jacket that is too large or too small does not do a good job of keeping you safe. Also remember that just wearing a life jacket does not protect you in all circumstances. Always know the conditions where you are heading, be prepared, and consider other locations as needed.

Check the weather, including the water temperature. Know the latest marine weather forecast prior to going out and keep a regular check for changing conditions. Always dress for the weather, wearing layers in cooler weather, and bring an extra set of clothes in case you get wet. Carry safety gear and know how to use it. Boating unprepared can have dangerous consequences. Sometimes it's just better not to go; boat another day.
