Bit of fun history on Big Sky Cinema and the movie Top Gun

A young manager, Stan Smith, opened the original Top Gun May 16th, 1986. He had created a fun and very successful promotion for its opening with live radio, two newspapers present and several contests throughout the day. 800+ folks from Dillon and surrounding towns including Butte lined up at noon for 4 showings at 1:00, 4:00, 7:00 & 9:00. The large auditorium had 250 seats at the time. With the line of movie goers formed from the front doors, underneath the A&W drive-in canopy to the parking lot where McDonald's would one day be built, everyone in attendance were entertained by events Stan and crew put on for the entire wait, making it quite a spectacle for a town of 4000+ population.

The first night of a six week run was so successful Stan recieved an award for the top promotion of the year at the National Association of Theatre Owners convention. At the time Top Gun was the longest playing film in Dillon history. As an encore, Stan brought the biggest film of 1986 back in October for another six week run. This highly successful promotion and 12 week playdate got the attention of the big production companies during a time when movie theatres faced mass closures due to the wave of cable tv, video stores and changing economics nation wide. Proving that with showmanship and a strong sense of what his audiences wanted, Stan gained a "First Run" status for Big Sky Cinema and Dillon. Meaning, this community of 4000 citizens had a competitive theatre opening films "day and date" with larger city multiplex cinemas.

Stan recently opened the new Top Gun Maverick with similar flare. This time in 7.1 surround sound and DLP digital projection. Making the presentation far advanced of the older 35 mm projection and mono sound the theatre used until going fully digital in 2011.

Such a successful opening playdate run, Stan brought it back for an encore. With this particular film the little twin cinema has come through a rough couple years of covid shutdowns and broken theatrical release schedules as well as competing with streaming services to prove once again the showmanship of its longtime manager and the love this community has for their movie theatre.

The owners had planned to update and replace seating and equipment in the fall of 2020, but covid changed that and now, with hard work and persistence of Smith they are looking to do some improvements in a year or two as the economy strengthens. New seating, marquees and equipment updates will happen. The last renovations were in 2000.

Stan is currently planning a big 50th anniversary celebration for the Big Sky Cinema this October and soon

FWP seeks public comment on Eurasian watermilfoil eradication project in Nilan Reservoir

Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks is seeking public comment on a proposed project to use an herbicide treatment to eradicate Eurasian watermilfoil (EWM) on 1.15 acres in Nilan Reservoir, west of Augusta. EWM was discovered in the area in 2021 and subsequently treated with an herbicide last fall. The treatment injured the plants and slowed their growth, but further sampling shows well established plants throughout the bay.

EWM has the potential to outcompete native aquatic plant species. It can also negatively impact recreation access and opportunities and have negative economic impacts on irrigation and agriculture activities.

Application of the herbicide would occur in the small bay between the two FWP boat ramps. The reservoir is at historic low levels so the amount of water that will need to be treated is very limited.

A draft environmental assessment is available on the FWP website.

Comments can be emailed to FWPfishcomments@mt.gov or mailed to Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks, Attn: Craig McLane, P.O. Box 200701, Helena, MT 59620-0701.

The deadline for public comment is July 29.

Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks is proposing to install a portable toilet dumping and cleaning station known as a SCAT machine at the Eden Bridge takeout site on the Smith River and has prepared an environmental assessment (EA) for the project.

In May 2022, the Parks and Recreation Board approved the proposed change to the Smith River Biennial Rule requiring human waste pack-out using a department approved portable, self-contained toilet system. Installation of a SCAT machine would provide floaters a convenient and sanitary means of solid waste disposal at the conclusion of their float trip.

Development would consist of installing the SCAT machine within a precast building. An additional passive waste disposal system would be constructed adjacent to the precast building that will serve as a "backup" to the SCAT machine in case of a breakdown. Two 5,000-gallon holding tanks would be buried approximately 10 feet deep to contain the wastewater from the SCAT machine. A one-way, 25-foot-wide graveled ingress and egress road would be constructed, to allow vehicular access to the SCAT machine for the public and access to the buried holding tanks for a pumper truck.

To review the EA, go to <https://fwp.mt.gov/public-notice/news/2022/jul/0706-smith-river-scat-machine-and-solid-waste-disposal-system-ea>

FWP will accept comments on the proposed project until 5 p.m. on Aug. 8.

CONCERTS: YEA OR NAY?

Tyrades! by Danny Tyree

Believe it or not, my wife and I haven't attended a concert in nearly 25 years.

(Elton John's January 1998 appearance at Nashville Arena was our last outing.)

I realize such an admission strikes a discordant note with most "normal" people. "Don't you want to be able to say that you saw (fill in the blank) in person?"

Get serious. Most of the applause at concerts is lavished upon songs celebrating substance abuse, promiscuity, adultery or anti-establishment violence. If you can approve the other naughtiness, why not tell a few white lies about concerts you didn't, technically, attend? ("Yeah, Garth called us onstage. But the CIA made the TV crews delete the video; so, alas, there's no record of it. Yeah, that's the ticket.")

The major obstacle to our attending more concerts is that my wife is particularly bothered by loud noises and flashing lights. Granted, this meshes with the "more decibels, please" concert mantra "I... wanna rock and roll all night, and suffer migraines every day." Music is supposed to change the world, not rewrite your genetic code.

I realize we could bring earplugs and dark glasses, but that's like dining at a 5-star restaurant after laminating your taste buds.

Things are looking up for us financially, but concert tickets have traditionally been a low-priority budget item. More power to the people who think nothing of enriching ticket scalpers, but I would lose sleep over it. Music hath charms to soothe the savage breast, but it doesn't cut much ice with debt collectors.

I doubt I am the only person who dreads the hassle of concerts: tickets, hidden fees, traffic, parking, security, etc. If you do enjoy hassles, an economical compromise might involve staying home and putting together a backyard swing set ("some assembly required") while your spouse bites the head off a bat.

It's especially hard to get enthusiastic about bands that have undergone one lineup change too many. You know, where the backup cowbell player has somehow obtained ownership of the name and is the only remaining original element. Here's an idea: I could just ship my baby teeth to the venue and say I attended.

Spare me the legendary artists who attempt staying relevant. ("I know you came to hear a selection of my 56 chart-topping hits, but first here's a new 45-minute stripped-down dirge about my angst over the banking system in Lithuania.")

Two down-to-earth guys (my father and my wife's grandfather) influenced us not to get too starstruck. I enjoy the radio and my MP3 files without pursuing closer celebrity relationships. I mean, I appreciate the work of the time-and-temperature lady on the phone, but I don't feel obligated to see her in an arena or buy the T-shirt. ("Forecast: tomorrow you'll feel like a total fool. But with the heat index, you'll feel like a 110 percent fool.")

I do get wistful about a handful of missed opportunities (I wouldn't mind seeing Barry Manilow perform someday), but then I get on with my life.

Regrets? I've had a few, but then again, too few to mention. I did what I had to do and saw it through...

Hey, that reminds me. Did I ever tell you about the time Elvis and Sinatra regaled me with stories of getting John Philip Sousa so wasted he threw up in 76 trombones? Pull up a souvenir seat cushion...

Veteran's Corner Update #159

By Mike Lawson

Greetings to those of you who read my SW MT Veteran update articles. I have just watched our 3rd of July evening, annual fireworks display. It was very good up until the end when there was a big explosive fire flash. I hope no-one was hurt. I'm not sure about the rest of our SW MT communities, but fireworks are a big part of the Butte culture on every 4th of July weekend. Tomorrow night, on the 4th, Anaconda will have their fireworks display. We always go to my daughter's house there, every 4th of July evening for a big BBQ and watch the display. In Butte, on the 4th, the parade is always the highlight of the day, with the population increasing significantly, that come to watch the parade. As I continue this article, it's the 4th and I pulled the Toys For Tots Float this morning. The crowds were friendly and the kids, who were with the float, gave out candy and enjoyed themselves. This time of year is a time people come together in the spirit of patriotism and have a sense of what a great country we live in. The other observance I noted was seeing the different veterans dispersed throughout the parade. Most were watching in a somber watchful way and waved as we went by. They all knew that they had served in the military and were part of keeping our country free and also contributed to our way of life, that we are able to freely enjoy today. It really hits home when I see the Ukrainian people losing so much because of the Russian invasion. Too many folks take what we are blessed with, for granted. Our military and veteran population are less than 1% of the population, but are the ones who've kept us free and continue to do so. They are the deterrent against countries like Russia and China who would like to make us less than we are.

Across SW MT the fireworks, parades, etc. are part of the celebrations and the veterans in those communities have been at the forefront of many of these community activities. Recognize and thank them for their service.

The SW Montana Veteran's Home had their Van in the parade with three resident veterans riding in it. That was good to see. The Vet Home Foundation will meet on the 11th of this month at the Vet Home Community Center, at 1:00 PM. We should get some good information for any new updates.

The last Metal of Honor winner, Hershel W. "Woody" Williams died on 29th of June and is laying in state at the U.S. Capitol. He was a WWII Veteran and served in the Marine Corps for 20 years. He led a great life and was a founder and advocate for the Gold Star Families, who were immediate family members of fallen service members. His obituary is an interesting read for those of you who might be interested in reading it.

A couple of interesting VA facts before I bring this article to a close. The VA's Veterans Health Administration is the largest integrated health care network in the United States, with 1,255 health care facilities serving 9 million enrolled Veterans each year. Another fact is that the National Cemetery Administration provides dignified burial services for Veterans and eligible family members by maintaining 142 cemeteries as national shrines and providing lasting tributes that commemorate their service and sacrifice to our nation.

I'll close for now. Until next time, take care.

By "Swede" Troedsson

In early June, 1988, I was dispatched to Duluth, MN, to advise the Superior National Forest in managing their aviation activities. The Forest was experiencing numerous fires.

The Superior NF is the only forest in the National Forest System that has DeHaviland Beaver aircraft. The forest, in 1988, had three of these beautiful single engine air craft. In the summer they were on floats. These aircraft had a 70 gallon tank into which they could scoop water to drop on fires. In the winter one was on skis in order to patrol the Boundary Waters Canoe Wilderness Area to detect Canadian and American snowmobilers operating illegally in the wilderness area. These aircraft were based in Ely.

In order to get a handle on the aviation program I spent several days in Ely so that I could fly with each of the pilots.

One day while I was a passenger in one of the Beavers, the pilot got a radio call notifying him of a nearby fire. The pilot informed me he could not scoop water with me on board. He would drop me off at a nearby lake, and return to pick me up when he was finished dropping water.

We arrived over a lake that was ringed with summer cabins. I asked the pilot to circle the lake once to see if there was a party going on at one of the cabins. It was too early in the season for parties.

The pilot landed and taxied up to the shore. I jumped from a float onto the shore, and the pilot departed to perform his water drops.

A gentleman came down from one of the cabins carrying a HUGE glass filled with an alcoholic drink. He appeared sloshed. He offered me a drink. I denied his offer because I was on duty, but told him I would be happy to accept a soda pop. He brought me a can of Pepsi, and we sat and visited while the pilot was dropping water. After about a half an hour the pilot returned and taxied up to the lake shore. I thanked the gentleman for the Pepsi, climbed into the aircraft, and we departed the lake.
