Bookstore is hosting local author Ray Marxer

The Bookstore is hosting local author Ray Marxer to celebrate the release of his book "Cowboy in a Corporate World: 37 years of life and lessons on Koch Industries Beaverhead Ranch on October 15th from 2:00-4:00. Ray began his career on the Matador in 1974. The 240,000 acre ranch had been owned by Koch Industries since 1951.

For Marxer it was a job that was a dream come true. He went on to become the ranch manager, taking the Matador to new heights of environmental and economic excellence. A 4th-generation Montana agricultural producer he worked 37 years for Koch Industries, Inc. As the ranch manager for 21 of those years, Ray's innovative approach to business guided the ranch to consistent annual profit and a record 11-year tenure average for employees.

A champion of innovative management, Ray was recognized with six national-level environmental stewardship awards including the National Cattleman's Beef Association Environmental Stewardship Award, and the International Association of Fish and Wildlife Agencies Private Lands Stewardship Award. Ray served on several Governor-appointed boards for wildlife, land use, and animal health, as well as many organizational committees and boards.

The realization that much of the history of an iconic Montana ranch would die with him inspired Ray to write this memoir as a legacy for his children and to share his experience with those seeking to achieve profitability and sustainability in their ranch businesses. active in community and industry organizations. Ray and his wife Sue stay engaged in the beef industry with their ranch services business and a small place near Sheridan, Montana, where they run just enough cows, horses, and hay to pass along the benefits of living close to the land to their five grandchildren.

Woven through out this memoir of family, faith and work you will find nuggets of wisdom and valuable secrets for anyone planning a career in ranching or corporate management. The photographs in the book were taken by Susan Marxer. This book will appeal to lovers of the American West, history fans, ranchers and anyone who ever wanted to be a cowboy.

"Just as knowledge without practical application is worthless, so is experience never shared." Ray Marxer --

It is all happening at the Bookstore located at 26 North Idaho Street on Oct. 15th. If you would like reserve copies of the book or have any questions please call 683-6807

FWP to host virtual bear safety training events for hunters

Human-bear conflicts increase in fall as bears gorge in preparation for hibernation and people take to the woods for archery and rifle hunting seasons. Elk and deer rifle season opener is Oct. 22, and Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks is hosting two virtual bear safety training events, followed by two bear spray give-away opportunities in Bozeman and Helena.

The virtual bear safety events are focused on bear awareness for hunters and will cover bear safety, biology, conflict prevention, responding to bear encounters, handling carcasses in bear country, and how to use bear spray. The two events will be held Oct. 14 and Oct. 24 from 6 to 7:30 p.m. Virtual presentations are free and open to anyone. Each event will cover the same material.

To attend the virtual training on Oct. 14, click here:

mt-gov.zoom.us/j/83855743707?pwd=dUNvOEo4eGZEaTZqQzQwOWljT1BiZz09

To attend the virtual training on Oct. 24, click here:

mt-gov.zoom.us/j/81115473564?pwd=dWFOMW5VRTBXR21yN2ZUYm55VmhiQT09

If you are interested in learning more about hunting safely in grizzly bear country and can't make it to one of these events, you can watch a recording of the "Bear Safety for Hunters" presentation here: youtu.be/tihgSHMHVhA

Hunters can expect to see grizzly bears in the western half of Montana. Preventing conflicts with bears is easier than dealing with them. Storing food and other attractants properly helps keep you safe and bears away from camp. Prepare for bear country by carrying bear spray and knowing how to use it. Learn what to do if you have a bear encounter and communicate with your companions about how to respond if you have a bear encounter.

More bear safety information can be found on the FWP website: fwp.mt.gov/conservation/wildlife-management/bear/be-bear-aware.

With election season upon us, it is vital to take a hard look at the issues on the ballot. Too often, proposed legislative actions are presented as black and white issues. Morally right or wrong. Unfortunately, nothing is black and white. Laws can be interpreted and applied in many unforeseen or overlooked ways. While proposed legislation may seem straightforward, each of us must consider all of the consequences.

One such issue is the Born-Alive Infant Protection Act (LR-131). Montana law already protects babies born alive that are able to survive outside of the mother. The proposed legislation forces all babies born to be resuscitated under all circumstances. Unfortunately, there are many conditions that mean a baby may be born alive, but cannot stay alive. We need mostly developed lungs, a brain, hearts, and other organs to survive. A baby can be born without functional organs and survive momentarily from what was provided by the mother, but cannot continue to survive on their own despite medical advancements or the best efforts of doctors.

Under this act, medical providers would be required to take all possible actions to keep a baby alive even if it is guaranteed it will not live. As a mother, I can imagine nothing worse than giving birth to a baby with no chance of survival, having them taken from me, intubated, taken by helicopter to another city, only to die there instead of passing away peacefully in my arms. Nobody wants to lose their child moments after birth, but sometimes nothing can be done. It is up to us what those few moments will be.

Careful consideration must also apply to all candidates. It is easy to get swept up in political platforms, ads, and hearsay. It is up to us to look into each candidate's background, and make a decision based on their actions, not what is said or done by anybody else. This takes time, but is so important. Our votes affect everyone in our communities. We each make our own decision, and that decision can have far reaching impacts.

Nobody is an expert on everything, but we are fortunate to have resources to find out what we need to know. Talk to your doctor, ask a librarian, do a careful (determine if a source is credible) internet search. We all know the current political climate. Do some digging, find out more. There are always pros and cons, nothing will be perfect. We need to make the best decision possible by being fully informed. Please, take the time. We cannot continue making decisions based solely on the words or lives of a few, but need to consider our whole community. Our constitution guarantees our freedom, and everyone else's.

WHY ME?

By "Swede" Troedsson

In the 1980s as a volunteer EMT on the local ambulance in Dillon, MT, I was dispatched to the Metlen Hotel to pick up a patient who had collapsed on the hotel lobby floor.

When I arrived at the hotel, I observed a gentleman lying unconscious on the lobby floor. A woman, who appeared to be of Native American descent, was laying her hands on the patient and mumbling that this was her Uncle.

After my attendant and I loaded the patient on the ambulance cot, I turned to the woman and asked her if she wanted to accompany us to the hospital here in town. She accepted the offer and got in the front seat with me.

Upon arriving at the hospital, we wheeled the patient into the emergency room (ER). The woman wanted to accompany the patient into the ER, but was told by the no-nonsense nurse to wait out in the hall.

After stabilizing the patient, the nurse and I wheeled him into the elevator so as to transport him into a room on the second floor. The woman accompanied us in the elevator.

As we were wheeling the patient into a room on the second floor, the woman tried to follow him into the room. The nurse, by now thoroughly exasperated with this woman, refused to let her in the room. The woman said "At least give me his boots." The nurse turned to me and said "Swede, please get this woman out of here." I turned to the woman and offered to give her a ride back to the ambulance garage downtown. She accepted the offer and slid into the ambulance front seat NEXT to me, putting a hand on my lap.

As we traveled back to the garage, the woman told me she was staying at the Metlen Hotel, and she suggested I come visit her. She also mentioned that she had just been released from a hospital. When I inquired as to whether she had been in a vehicle accident, she replied "No, in a knife fight." I thought to myself "God, why me?"

As we traveled downtown I saw a police car pass by me headed towards the hospital. (The nurse had earlier called the police about this woman.) I picked up the radio mike and said "18-10, follow me back to the garage." In the rear view mirror I watched the patrol car execute a U-turn and begin to follow us to the garage. The woman asked "What's going on honey?" I replied "I was just saying hello to the police."

When we arrived at the garage, I jumped out of the ambulance and told the policemen "Take her!"

I found out the woman had served time in prison, and was on probation. She was in possession of the patient's wallet and ring. I suspect she wanted the patient's boots so she could hock them at Gracie's second hand store. The patient was not her uncle.

Hunter attacked by grizzly bear near Choteau

A 51-year-old hunter from Washington state sustained non-life threatening injuries when he was attacked by a grizzly bear on Tuesday afternoon in Teton County.

The hunter and his wife encountered the bear around 1 p.m. while hunting for upland birds in a creek bottom east of Choteau. The bear charged out of thick brush at close range. The hunter fired at the bear with a shotgun and handgun, wounding the bear and stopping the attack. The hunters and their dogs left the area and notified authorities of the attack.

FWP bear management specialists, game wardens, and Teton County deputies returned to the site and located and euthanized the bear later that afternoon after consultation with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

The 677-pound adult male bear had no known previous history of human conflict and had never been handled by bear managers. Evidence at the site suggested the attack was the result of a surprise encounter.

To guard against surprise encounters and remain vigilant and safe in bear country, which includes most of the western half of Montana:

- Carry bear spray in an easily accessible location and be prepared to use it immediately.
- Look for bear sign and be cautious around creeks and areas with limited visibility.
- Hunt with a group of people. Making localized noise can alert bears to your presence.
- Be aware that elk calls and cover scents can attract bears.
- Bring the equipment and people needed to help field dress game and remove the meat from the kill site as soon as possible.
- If you need to leave part of the meat in the field during processing, hang it at least 10 feet off the ground and at least 150 yards from the gut pile. Leave it where it can be observed from a distance of at least 200 yards.
- Upon your return, observe the meat with binoculars. If it has been disturbed or if a bear is in the area, leave and call FWP.

For more information and resources on bear safety, visit <https://fwp.mt.gov/conservation/wildlife-management/bear/be-bear-aware>.
