Moving On

By: MJ

The time has come when Covid needs to be something we learn to live with. It is not going away no matter how many people receive the vaccine. Note: Vaccinated and Unvaccinated can get Covid as you can the Flu or Colds. If Covid comes your way you may be a person that is on your death bed or a person that just has the sniffles.

The vaccine does not stop the virus, it only lessens the severity of virus if you become ill with it. Here in-lies the question. Question: What does the vaccine along with many boosters do to your natural body immune system? In a few years is the population being set up to be victims of an invading organism due to the loss of natural antibodies in our bodies to fight?

Check out some of the NY laws that are up for possible enactment in the 2023 legislature like" Assembly A8378, A7820/S6495, A2240/S45...

Let's get rid of our personal opinions that are formed from social medias, gossip, friends... Educate yourself with data from scientists and other professionals. Ask questions and demand answers from your health care providers.

Look at the entire picture of who and who has not been vaccinated. Millions of immigrants have not been vaccinated and they are also bringing into the U.S. diseases from their native countries that are foreign to the U.S. Example: In 1800± the white man introduced smallpox to the Native American tribes and caused 30± percent death rates in the tribes.

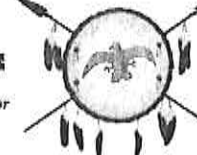

Honor the right of others to have freedom and make their own decisions regarding their own bodies and health. Get our freedoms back, by disallowing government, big pharma, corporations, personal private investors to capitalize and destroy human's health by using fear mongering and false propaganda to make billion/trillions of dollars. If we could spread love as quickly as we spread hate and negativity, what an amazing world we would live in.

Yes, the vaccine saved many lives and took many lives. It caused hardships via loss of jobs, family income, loss of homes, setbacks in children's education (pushed U.S. education to 25th in the world position), closure of businesses, allowed individuals to reject and divide causing much anger and supporting horrible violence against humans...

Change is a part of life. Illnesses are a part and will always be part of that change. When we complain, wish things were different and fight to make things fit our opinions, go our way we may be missing the best course right in front of us. The things we push will push back against us.

Question: Do we need an attitude change? Note: A bad attitude is like a flat tire. You can't go anywhere until you change it.

22 states file petition to repeal vaccine mandate for healthcare workers

A coalition of 22 states, led by Montana Attorney General Austin Knudsen, formally called on the Biden administration to withdraw its vaccine mandate for healthcare workers and all related guidance. Even though vaccines have proven largely impotent in preventing COVID transmission, studies have shown increased health risks associated with the vaccines, and the justification for the rushed mandate has disappeared, it remains in force.

The coalition filed a petition under the Administrative Procedures Act requesting the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services and the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services take immediate action to repeal its Interim Final Rule (IFR) and State Surveyor Guidance, which require participating healthcare facilities to "develop and implement policies and procedures to ensure that all staff are fully vaccinated for COVID-19." The mandate has violated the rights of healthcare workers and worsened staffing shortages in that sector, especially in rural and frontier states like Montana.

The IFR regulates over 10 million healthcare workers and suppliers in the United States. Of those, CMS estimated that 2.4 million were unvaccinated when it issued the IFR.

As a result, states will further lose frontline healthcare workers, providers, and suppliers and ultimately, America's most vulnerable populations will lose access to necessary medical care. CMS itself has already admitted there are "endemic staff shortages for all categories of employees at almost all kinds of healthcare providers and suppliers."

The vaccine mandate violates the states' sovereign right to enact and enforce their laws and exercise their police power on matters such as compulsory vaccination and it fundamentally changes the deal under which they agreed to participate in the Medicare and Medicaid programs. Additionally, the IFR is arbitrary and capricious, structurally defective, and exceeds CMS's statutory authority.

Attorneys general from Arizona, Louisiana, and Tennessee helped Attorney General Knudsen lead the effort. Attorneys general from Alabama, Alaska, Arkansas, Florida, Indiana, Kansas, Kentucky, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, New Hampshire, Ohio, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Texas, Utah, Virginia, and Wyoming also joined.
