Charles "Bucky" Johnson

Bucky was born January 14th, 1952 to Al and Helen Johnson in Idaho Falls. He is survived by his wife, Robin, son Will, daughters Brooke and Amber, their husbands Clint and Rob; the three pig eyed twirps, Brearoni, Kaylie, and the Jakester, his brother Rawhide, sister Bev and their spouses Rena and Steve. He is also survived by Robin's mom, Darlene, and her siblings Glynis, Tina (Dave) and Dan (Deb).

Growing up on the Green River in Wyoming he spent his days running like a wild coyote pup, hunting arrow heads and small game, doing chores, and home schooling. Everyday was special. There was so much freedom. Bucky had the best stories from these days, most not appropriate to share. Some might have thought they were living in the past with no water and no power but even though there was work to do, the days were easy. On a boring day you could find him hitching the milk cow's calf to his little red wagon which might have landed him in the manure pile on an occasion. Bucky liked Wyoming because there were no boundaries, no trees cluttering up the scenery, he could ride all day and never come to a fence.

Bucky spent some time at ISU in Pocatello. During this time he lived with his cousin, Roger. They weren't too sure that they would have a lot in common but during their year as roommates they found they had pretty similar views for a ranch kid and a city kid. They became fast friends and brothers for life. Between the liberal professors and the terrible Pocatello traffic, Bucky decided that he was more destined for the ranch life than the college life.

Bucky and Shawna Walker were married in 1973, during the six years of their marriage they had one son, Will. Bucky spent a lot of this time working for Jim Hagenbarth on the ranch. Will was always happy to tag along whether it was long days riding or work trips spent in hotels eating junk food. Bucky was great at making work days fun and it never hurt that after a long week you could always look forward to a drive to the store to use the phone and buy candy.

Bucky and Robin started their life together with Will in 1980. Their early years were spent splitting their time between their two favorite places; The Sheridan Ranch in Kilgore and Hamer City Home. He spent these years buying and selling cattle for Taylor Lawrence. A highlight of his time on the Sheridan Ranch was getting to meet President Carter, not too many cowboys can say they took a helicopter ride with the president. In the spring of 1988 they decided to call Hell MT home...oh we mean Lima. The wind blew hard and there were some cold winters but they had some good years turning their place into a home with their girls, Brooke and Amber. He cowboied for a lot of local ranches, was a water wizard and in his spare time built a barn with his helpers, Amber and their favorite cat Tiger. He trained quite a few good horses in that barn. After the barn was built, he went to work managing the Feedlot for Blaine Larsen. He had a lot of good years with a lot of good buddies working at that feedlot and appreciated the opportunity to get some work out of the kids. Several years after the feedlot sold, Bucky had the opportunity to go back to work for the Larsen Family buying and selling hay for Richard and helping run the hay shed. Once again he made a lot of good friends; he was good at that. After his cancer diagnosis, Bucky found strength in going to work everyday and with the support of Richard and his crew; he was able to work up to his last days. During this time he also found the energy to continue his night job, makin' stirrups. Bucky believed that work was some of the best medicine.

His greatest joys in life were simple things. Any time with the grandkids. Shooting pistols in the pasture. Pop time with Robin. His old 58 Chevy, Black Bart. And brandy time with friends.

Bucky passed away peacefully in Idaho Falls surrounded by family on December 13, 2022. Services will be held at the Lima Community School's multipurpose room on Sunday, December 18th at 1:00. The family would like to invite Bucky's friends to tell stories and reminisce over a potluck meal at the Peat following the memorial.

Gallatin Gateway

Wildlife health staff with Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks recently detected chronic wasting disease in a white-tailed deer buck that was harvested by a hunter in hunting district 304.

This marks the first detection in hunting district 304. The deer was harvested near Gallatin Gateway, along the hunting district's eastern border with hunting district 309.

CWD is a contagious neurological disease that infects deer, elk and moose. It is always fatal, and there is no known cure. It was first detected among wild cervids in Montana in 2017. The disease is known to exist in other parts of southwest Montana, including the Paradise and Ruby Valleys, as well as in other areas of the state.

FWP has conducted rotating surveillance for CWD throughout the state for several years. Hunting district 304 is within this year's priority surveillance area.

Hunting is the primary tool for sampling and managing CWD in Montana. Several hunting license opportunities remain valid through Jan. 15 for harvesting antlerless white-tailed deer in adjacent hunting district 309. Hunters who harvest deer or elk in the Gallatin area are encouraged to submit samples for testing to help further FWP's understanding of CWD prevalence and distribution.

FWP pays for the testing, making it free for hunters. FWP has provided resources to help hunters collect and submit samples for testing on their own. These resources can be found at fwp.mt.gov/cwd. Hunters can also call a regional FWP office to schedule an appointment if they need help collecting a CWD sample.

CWD is not known to infect humans. However, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention recommends that people not eat meat from infected animals and have their harvested animals tested before eating them if they were taken from an area where CWD is known to exist. For more information on CDC recommendations, please visit go.usa.gov/xAcnc.

Off the Leash: Series 7 Holidays With The Dawgs Event A Success

In a continued effort to showcase Montana Western current and former student-athletes as more than just a number on a jersey, UMW Athletics continues on with its regular web series titled "Off the Leash". You can view the collections of stories as they are released by clicking here.

Holidays With The Dawgs: The Montana Western Association of Student-Athletes (ASA) recently hosted their first annual Holidays With The Dawgs event on December 8 in the Keltz Arena. This event was open to all ages of the community and provided a chance to get to know the current student-athletes at Montana Western. The event also featured a variety of activities for all ages to participate in alongside the current Bulldog student-athletes.

"The main goal ASA had when organizing this event came from asking ourselves 'how can we as student-athletes be more involved with our community?' It also allowed the community to see us as student-athletes in a different way and connect with the people that support us through our sports." Senior ASA President Mesa King said. "As a whole the turnout was great, even better than we imagined! We had lots of student-athletes that made an appearance and were amazing help in preparing for this event. We had a great number of families from the community come to see Santa and check out what our event had to offer. We look forward to seeing how we can make it better and better each year!"

About UMW ASA: The UMW ASA is a student-athlete led organization focusing on enhancing the student-athlete experience at Montana Western. Aligning with the NAIA's Champions of Character mission, the UMW ASA is committed to developing leaders of character and integrity through modeling of servant leadership, while also addressing changes in rules and regulations, organizing community service events, and building a positive image for collegiate athletes.

Attorney General Knudsen leads coalition demanding Apple and Google correct TikTok age rating

Montana's Attorney General Austin Knudsen and 14 other state attorneys general today called on Apple and Google to take immediate action and correct their application store age ratings of TikTok by the end of the year. The change will help parents protect their children from being force-fed harmful content online.

In a pair of letters to Apple CEO Tim Cook and Google CEO Sundar Pichai, Knudsen and the joining attorneys general outlined the deceptive nature of the current ratings for the social media application in their story. They said that without the rating corrections, the states reserve the right to take legal action against the companies for the misrepresenting TikTok, up to and including litigation and civil penalties.

"We've known for a long time how TikTok acts as a Chinese Trojan horse, feeding kids to harmful content to children. It exposes kids to harmful content that promotes drugs and alcohol use, glorifies eating disorders, and encourages illegal and dangerous 'challenges,' whether they are searching for it or not. Drug cartels have even used it to recruit teenagers to join them," Attorney General Knudsen said. "Parents are the first line of defense, but their job is being made more difficult by ratings that misrepresent the true content found on the platform. It's past time for Apple and Google to do their part in helping parents keep their kids safe online and increase their TikTok ratings."

The current ratings of "T" for "Teen" in the Google

Play App store and "12+" in Apple's App Store facilitates the deception of consumers on a massive scale and falsely represents the objectionable content found and served to children on TikTok. While TikTok does have a "restricted mode" available, it is also aware that many its users are under 13 and have lied about their age in order to create a profile on its platform.

The TikTok app contains frequent and intense alcohol, tobacco, and drug use or references, sexual content, profanity, and mature/suggestive themes. TikTok users can search for hundreds of thousands of hashtags related to these topics, which each return thousands of videos in these categories—instructional videos about drug use, descriptions of drinking games, recipes for cannabis edibles, demonstrations of vaping tricks, pole dancing routines, and millions of videos set to songs with explicit lyrics, which TikTok makes available to users in its music library.

TikTok not only allows users to find this content, but it suggests it to users through its "autocomplete" search function and by offering this type of content to users on the "For You" page – including for accounts registered to 13-year-old users.

"Parents depend on the accuracy of age ratings," the letters said. "When parents are deceived into letting their kids download TikTok, there are real consequences. Exposure to drug, alcohol, and tobacco content on social media makes kids more likely to use or experiment with those illicit substances in real life. And exposure to sexual content on TikTok can lead to pornography addiction and even the sexual exploitation of kids by online predators."

Attorneys general from Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Indiana, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Dakota, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Texas, Utah, and Virginia joined Attorney General Knudsen's letters.

Attorney General Knudsen launched an investigation of TikTok in February, making Montana the first state to do so. That investigation is ongoing.

Bicentennial Incorporated Host Senior Dinner & Presentation of Grant Awards

Jeremy Crawford • Southwestern Montana News

Bicentennial Incorporated hosted the senior appreciation dinner on Friday, December 9th at the Frontier Events Center. The dinner was a way of saying thank you to the area's senior citizens. The meal was a traditional turkey dinner with all the fixings and a dessert to follow.

The dinner started out with the song God Bless America followed by the invocation. Marlene Stonelake gave a presentation on the history of the Bicentennial apartments. People were able to enjoy their meals while Jim McIsaac introduced the Board of Directors.

After the meal was wrapped up, they gave a presentation on the Grant Awards, the money given was raised by the interest that was collected on the loan from the sale of the Bicentennial Apartments back on June 6th.

The committee looked to give the money to 501C organizations and organizations that help the seniors in our community, all together the grand total was $125,000

- The award recipients are as follows
- American Legion $3,000 to replace a Hot Water Heater and New tables
 - Youth Challenge Foundation $3000 Scholarships
 - Dillon Friends of the Library $2,000 Large print books
 - BVHD County Museum $10,000
