Update on the Michael Fontz missing person case:

Due to the circumstances surrounding the case, this update is in hopes to shed some light to the community, family, and friends of Michael. Michael's Vehicle was located next to the Big Hole River near Melrose. As a result of the evidence that was collected and the ice conditions of the river it is a high probability of an ice/water related accident. The entire area surrounding that section of river has been greatly canvassed by Beaverhead County Search and Rescue. The open water portion of the river including parts of the ice shelf were searched by the brave men and women of the Ruby Valley Search and Rescue team. At this point all attempts to recover Michael Fontz have been unsuccessful.

The area surrounding this search has been closed off by the Beaverhead County Sheriff's Office. We are asking the community to stay out of this area for safety and evidence integrity reasons. Continued attempts and strategies to recover Michael are being worked through by a joint agency effort. I would personally like to thank the community that has been of great assistance to the search effort, as well as Beaverhead County Search and Rescue, Ruby Valley Search and Rescue, Bureau of Land Management, U.S. Forest Service, and Beaverhead County Sheriff's Office.

If you have any further information regarding this case, please call (406)683-3701,

Joel Stewart
Asst. Chief of Police

Fitzgerald's Three Point Buzzer Beater Lifts Bulldogs Over Rust College

The No. 18 ranked Montana Western women's basketball team overcame a season high of 21 turnovers this afternoon in their defeat of Rust College (Miss.). Brynley Fitzgerald hit a game-winning three-point buzzer beater to seal the victory.

"It was a wild ride today. I thought Rust made some great adjustments late and our kids were able to overcome my bad coaching to make enough plays down the stretch. Unbelievably proud of our ability to hang around and stay together versus a good team." Head Coach Lindsay Woolley said after the win.

How it Happened

A big first quarter from Jordan Sweeney boosted the Bulldogs at the start of the matchup as UMW took a three-point lead at the end of the quarter. Sweeney was a perfect 4-4 from the field across the first 10 minutes of the game. With 5:19 remaining in the half, Emily Cooley's layup stretched the Bulldog lead to seven at 21-14. Despite the lead, the Bearcats paced the Bulldogs in the final minutes in the half and the Bulldogs struggled to overcome a quarter-high of seven turnovers. UMW went into the half holding a slim 28-23 lead over Rust.

The Bulldogs started out hot from the half as they went on a 10-2 scoring run, helping to stretch their lead over the Bearcats to 12. Holding onto a nine-point lead heading into the fourth quarter, the Bulldogs were up 44-35. Despite trailing for much of the game, the Bearcats clawed their way back into the game and took their first lead behind a fast break layup, drawing a foul from the Bulldogs for the and one. Sweeney drained a three-pointer to flip the score back in favor of UMW with 3:14 remaining in the game. After another Rust field goal, Cooley overcame her 0-3 start at the line and made a pair of free throws count and helping to reverse the score back in favor of the Bulldogs. With 58 seconds remaining, the Bearcats drained another jumper to take a 54-53 lead. The Bulldog defense got a big stop and Fitzgerald snagged a defensive rebound. After getting the ball across half court, the Bulldogs called a perfectly timed timeout with seven second remaining in the game. The Bulldogs inbounded the ball and Fitzgerald drained a deep three-pointer at the buzzer to win the game for Montana Western.

"They were a high-pressure team and forced a lot of turnovers on us today. We were lucky to get the ball in bounds and once we got it in, basketball just started to happen. It was a great win against a great team and I am really proud of our effort today." Senior Brynley Fitzgerald said after the win.

Notables

- The Bulldogs are now 3-1 against ranked or receiving votes teams this season following yesterday's win over Vanguard University and today's win over Rust College.
- The Bulldogs shot 42.3 percent in comparison to the Bearcat's 34.4 percent from the field in tonight's matchup.
- Montana Western racked up a whopping 21 turnovers in the game, allowing the Bearcats the opportunity to score 19 points off of turnovers.
- Brynley Fitzgerald nailed the game-winning three-point shot at the buzzer. She had her third double-double of the season with 14 points and ten rebounds. She also added three steals.
- Jordan Sweeney led the Bulldogs in scoring with 22 points, six rebounds, and three assists.

Up Next

The Bulldogs move to 9-2 on the season and will finish out a long road-trip with their fourth game in six days against the Benedictine-Mesa Redhawks. The Redhawks enter the matchup with an overall 2-8 record. They are 0-1 in the Cactus Classic after they lost to Rocky Mountain by 42 points. Game time is at 12pm MST at Chandler-Gilbert Community College.

FWP completes 829-acre addition to Mount Haggin WMA

With help from several partners, Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks this month completed the purchase of an 829-acre addition to Mount Haggin Wildlife Management Area.

The new parcel, known as the Willow Creek addition, is about 4 miles south of Anaconda and shares 2.5 miles of boundary with the WMA. It contains winter range that mule deer and elk use heavily, as well as high-quality pronghorn fawning and summer range.

"We're thrilled to see the Willow Creek addition be conserved with the rest of Mount Haggin WMA for the perpetual benefit of Montana's wildlife, fisheries and outdoor enthusiasts," said Vanna Boccadori, FWP's Butte-area wildlife biologist. "We're grateful to the conservation-minded landowners, Rocky Mountain Elk Foundation, and the many interested publics and organizations who have contributed to the success of this endeavor."

FWP published a draft environmental assessment on the proposed purchase in early 2022 and solicited public comments, which showed broad support for the acquisition. The property was purchased this month using funds from Habitat Montana, Pittman-Robertson Federal Aid in Wildlife Restoration, the Montana Fish and Wildlife Conservation Trust, Heart of the Rockies, and Rocky Mountain Elk Foundation. The selling landowners also donated significant improvements to the property.

The Willow Creek addition will be managed as part of Mount Haggin WMA. Because it is located on big game winter range, it will remain closed to all public access during the WMA's seasonal closure that lasts until May 15.

FWP staff offer their sincere thanks to all involved, especially the Rocky Mountain Elk Foundation and the previous landowners for their hard work and dedication to conserving this land in public ownership.

Happy Birthday

"Happy Heavenly birthday Bonnie "The Rattlesnake Wrangler" Reed! I miss stopping by on my way to work, or you flashing your porch light to say hi when I was running late, and stopping to check on you on my way home! We miss you like crazy! Give Carmel a big hug from us!"

RMEF Announces Major Montana Public Access Victory

The Rocky Mountain Elk Foundation is pleased to announce it helped conserve and open public access to 5,668 acres of prime wildlife habitat in central Montana.

RMEF successfully worked with Shodair Children's Hospital (SCH) to acquire and then convey the property to Montana Fish, Wildlife and Parks (FWP) which will be now known as the Big Snowy Mountains Wildlife Management Area.

"Plain and simple, this was an organizational priority for us this year," said Kyle Weaver, RMEF president and CEO. "This is a big win for elk and other wildlife. It also marks a significant victory for habitat, conservation, hunting, public access and a win for all sportsmen and women, all while honoring Montana's long-time agricultural traditions."

The transaction opens new access to the property but also improves public access to more than 4,300 acres of adjacent public land in a part of Montana where access is challenging.

"The state has a vested interest in seeing land conserved for wildlife habitat while also keeping ranchers on the landscape for the benefit of our communities," said Montana Governor Greg Gianforte. "We married those two interests in this agreement, keeping the land available for cattle grazing while opening access for hunters to pristine wildlife habitat in the Big Snowies. This is a win-win for Montana."

"We're grateful for all the efforts our partners and FWP staff have put into this project," said FWP Director Hank Worsech. "When this new wildlife management area opens, hunters and recreationists will have some incredible opportunities in an amazing part of our state. All while protecting wildlife habitat and preserving cattle grazing operations for generations to come."

The property features a mixture of high-quality grasslands and meadows, mature forests, aspen stands and several mountain springs and intermittent streams.

SCH is a youth psychiatric hospital in Helena, Montana.

"We're a nonprofit hospital, and our mission for the last 126 years has been taking care of Montana's most vulnerable kids," said Shodair CEO Craig Aasved. "Last year we saw patients from 52 of Montana's 56 counties, and 99 percent of our kids are Montana residents. This sale helps fund construction of our replacement hospital building to help us serve even more Montana children, but we also wanted this gift to benefit Montanans in general. That's why we chose this path."

Project partners include hunters thanks to Pittman-Robertson excise taxes, Habitat Montana, Bass Pro Shops & Cabela's Outdoor Fund, and the Montana Fish and Wildlife Conservation Trust. RMEF also committed $250,000 to help FWP with set-up and future property management improvements including fencing, invasive weed control, water developments, signage and maps.

"We greatly appreciate our partners, volunteers and members, the Montana Land Board and both the immediate community for its support and the greater outdoor community for helping to push this project across the finish line," added Weaver.

The new WMA, which like other WMAs linked to winter range habitat remains closed until spring, is near RMEF's Red Hill project that opened the door to 18,000 acres of public access in 2013.

GONE!

By "Swede" Troedsson

During the 1990s, both before and after I retired from the Forest Service in 1994, I was hired on weekends by the Montana Department of Fish, Wildlife and Parks (MFWP) to assist wildlife biologists at a few of the local big game check stations. There, we would document hunter success, or lack thereof, check harvested game for proper tagging and ask hunters if they had observed wolves or other animals of interest to the agency.

One Saturday I was assisting MFWP biologist Bob Brannon at the Ruby River check station, located about 15 miles south of Alder, Montana. Around mid-afternoon a hunter in a pickup truck with Montana plates approached our check station. In the bed of the pickup were two cow elk. I asked the driver, who said he was from Whitehall, MT and who had properly tagged his own cow elk, where was the hunter who had tagged the second cow elk.

He explained that a pair of out-of-state hunters had told him that they did not have room to carry their cow elk in their camp trailer, and they asked him if he would transport their elk to Whitehall, where they'd been staying at a motel. He stated that they should not be too far behind him, as they were also on their way out. I asked the Whitehall hunter to "stay put" until we had a chance to interview those two out-of-state hunters.

Shortly thereafter, a pickup truck towing a camp trailer approached our check station. Two large men got out the truck and approached me, while Bob was busy interviewing other hunters.

The two hunters, who smelled strongly of liquor, stated they were Alaska fishermen. I inquired which of them had shot and tagged the second cow elk that was being transported in the Whitehall man's pickup. One of the hunters stated it was his. I then asked that hunter if he had shot that cow elk in the Ruby River drainage, and he said "yes" he did. I then asked the hunter if he had a "cow permit" for that elk. The hunter blurted out "My elk permit said ELK , and BY GAWD that's what I shot!" I calmly explained to him that in the Ruby-Red Rock Hunting District hunters are required to have a special cow permit in order to harvest a cow elk.

I then called over biologist Bob Brannon to handle this tense situation. After a short, heated discussion, Bob told the man he would have to seize the elk as evidence. Then Bob asked me to load that illegal elk into his state truck while he was needing to hurry over and interview another truckload of approaching hunters.

I turned to the Alaska hunters and asked them if they would kindly assist me in loading the confiscated elk into Bob's pickup. They rudely denied my request. (Expletive deleted)

Where upon I turned to the Whitehall hunter and calmly explained to him that he could be cited for transporting an illegally harvested elk. HOWEVER, I quietly commented to him if he would be so kind as to help me load that illegal elk into Bob's truck we would be willing to overlook his violation. The hunter was all too willing to cooperate with me, as he hastily helped me transfer that elk from his truck into Bob's truck.

Then he was GONE!
