Carolyn Jo Page

Carolyn Jo Funk Page passed away peacefully on Friday morning, December 23, 2022, at The Community Hospital of Anaconda at the age of 80 while surrounded by her family.

Carolyn was born on June 26, 1942, in Bentonville, Arkansas to Martin and Catherine Funk. Her family moved to California where she met Clifton G. Page, while going to High School in Willits, California. She married her high school sweetheart, Cliff on December 28, 1959. They would have celebrated their 63rd wedding anniversary on Tuesday. They made their home in Woodland, California where they raised their 3 children.

Carolyn was a devoted wife and mother and she also worked in the medical billing field for many years. She was a gifted seamstress who enjoyed sewing clothes for her daughters and her home. In 1984 she moved with her husband to Wise River, Montana. Together with their son, Chuck, they owned and operated Pioneer Outfitter, a hunting and fishing outfitting business. While being a successful businesswoman, she was also a teacher's aide for many years at the Wise River School where she got much joy and fulfilment.

For the last 20 years, she courageously battled Parkinson's Disease. She had many challenges and obstacles and never spoke of giving up. Her last 3 years she lived in a convalescent home where she fearlessly continued her fight.

Carolyn is survived by the love of her life of 62 years, Cliff of Wise River, Montana and children; daughter Cathy Tsutsui and husband David of Woodland, California, daughter Connie Page and husband Lonnie Le of Visalia, California, and son Chuck Page and wife Shawna of Wise River Montana. She is also survived by her 9 grandchildren; Crystal, Christopher, Caitlyn, Chase, Jeremy, Joshua, Christiane, Deonna and Casawndra and her 10 great-grandchildren; Cole, Lucas, Liliana, Eizai, Kylie, Nathan, Kennady, Landon, Zaiden, and Jayda. As well as by her sister Bonnie Lucille Sher and husband Brian of Woodland, California.

Services will be held on Thursday, December 29, 2022, at 1 p.m. at Church of the Big Hole, 215 School House Road, Wise River, with Pastor Mary Davis officiating. Carolyn will then be laid to rest at the Dewey Cemetery. Online condolences may be left at www.wayrynen-richards.com.

Donations can be made to The Michael J. Fox Foundation for Parkinson's Research in memory of Carolyn at www.michaeljfox.org.

2022 FOOD TRENDS: LOVE THEM OR HATE THEM?

Tyrades! by Danny Tyree

As I write this year-end essay about 2022 trends in food and dining, I must confess that I'm playing catch-up.

I have obligations and hobbies, so I wasn't technically paying attention (i.e., giving a rat's rump) as 12 months of decadent delights, culinary controversies and avocado abominations unfolded. ("Homo sapiens still ingest food? What about that crazy 'opposable thumbs' fad? How long did THAT last?")

Okay, I was narrowly focused on one aspect of food. I spent several months attempting to update George Carlin's "7 Words You Can't Say On TV" routine to include the really dirty words: "portion control."

(To clear my head, I threw on my relaxed-fit jeans and rented a stretch limo for a joyride; but the deceptively named monstrosity stretched in all the wrong places!)

Still, mostly, it boils down to the fact that I'm a simple man – a “well, only if the escargot is on the value menu” man. I don’t need to keep tabs of chef migrations or counterintuitive sauces or balsamic gamechangers.

I can still muster a childlike sense of wonder concerning foods that other people long ago became jaded about. (“Wow. Potato chips in a canister! What will they think of next? No, wait – don’t tell me. My heart can’t take it.”)

This simplicity is a throwback to my childhood. I would spend weeks and months poring over menus and brochures in preparation for a family vacation and the exotic cuisine that it would entail. Invariably, once we reached an eatery, I would look up at my father and ask, “Can I just order a hamburger?”

(Surely it was only my imagination that Dad muttered, “Can I just order a paternity test?”)

More power to all the foodies in search of the Next Big Thing, but sometimes I think we’ve gotten too soft. Back when men were men and pronouns were the evil twin of sentence diagramming, you heard people stoically declaring “My arteries are 90 percent blocked” or “My lone remaining kidney is failing.” Now you can’t toss a rock in a crowd without hitting someone who is whining, “My taste buds are under-titillated.”

I’m sure I would be hanging on every word of a food influencer if I hosted dinner parties, but I don’t. My apron doesn’t say “Kiss the cook”; it says, “Phone me up and give me a short description of YOUR meal as we each enjoy our blessed solitude.”

I see that “climate-friendly” food has been a major trend this year. Vegan, plant-based diets. Meat-and-dairy-free “cheese” and “butcher” shops. (I’m leery of foods that come wrapped in quotation marks. What’s next? “Fry me up a piece of that iambic pentameter, Bubba”?) Sustainable seafood. Sigh In the old days, the only sustainable part of a good meal was a sustainable belch.

I noticed that a large percentage of the food trends were exacerbated by TikTok videos. So ... a Chinese video-hosting site sucking up user data like a bumpkin slurping his soup is America’s “go to” place for gastronomic advice. I don’t think that’s the way Americans used to do things. (“Honey, why don’t you call up Joe Stalin and ask him how to make the casserole?”)

Thanks for letting me vent. I realize I may have to eat some of my words in 2023.

But if I smear my words on a butter board first...

ANTIQUITIES ACT

By "Swede" Troedsson

In 2022 I ran into an archaeologist in a local grocery store in Dillon, Montana. In the course of our conversation I mentioned that I had written a book titled Smokejumper & Other Stories. She seemed interested, so I retrieved a copy from my car and showed it to her. After she purchased the book I showed her the picture of a sarsaparilla bottle displayed in my book. I had found the bottle sixty years ago while stationed on the Skykomish Ranger District, in WA, and had it on display on my mantelpiece.

The archaeologist said I should have left it in place. I smirked and replied that I may have found the bottle before the Antiquities Act was passed.

When I got home I Googled the Antiquities Act and found out that it was signed by Teddy Roosevelt in 1906!

A few weeks later I saw the archaeologist in a local brewery. She was sitting with other friends, one of whom was also an archaeologist. I showed him the picture of the sarsaparilla bottle in my book. The woman archaeologist muttered "I'm going to let this one go" I thought "Oh, boy!"

Feeling somewhat guilty, I described on a map where I had found the bottle, and included the map, the bottle, and a cover letter in a package, and delivered it to the archaeologist. In the letter I stated I was about to downsize, and it was better that she have it rather than the bottle being sent to the landfill.

The archaeologist sent me the sweetest thank you letter in which she offered to hire me! She later told me that the bottle sits on top of her book case in her office, and she thinks of me every time she looks at it.

You've got to love that woman!
