Help for Parents of Children who Stutter is as Close as Your Library

Thanks to some generous donations, the Stuttering Foundation has donated a DVD, entitled Kids Who Stutter: Parents Speak, to public libraries across the country.

In this 16 minute DVD, parents and speech-language experts talk about how to promote easier talking as they interact with their children. The professionals offer simple tips that parents can follow easily.

The DVD features some of the world's leading therapists with children who stutter: Lisa A Scott, Ph.D. of the Florida State University's School of Communication Science and Disorders; Ellen Kelly, Ph.D., of Vanderbilt University School of Medicine; speech-language consultants Frances Cook, MBE, MSc, Willie Botterill, MSc, and Elaine Kelman, MSc., from the Michael Palin Centre for Stammering Children in London.

"This is an important tool for families and teachers of children who stutter," added Jane Fraser, president of the nonprofit Stuttering Foundation. "Our latest DVD is designed to give parents and teachers the tools they need to play a vital role in the process of helping children who stutter."

For more information about stuttering write the nonprofit Stuttering Foundation, PO Box 11749; Memphis, TN 38111-0749, call 800-992-9392, or visit www.stutteringhelp.org.

Since 1947, the nonprofit Foundation has provided free materials to public libraries nationwide. A library that will shelve them can download a request form at <http://www.stutteringhelp.org/libraries-information>, email info@stutteringhelp.org or call 800-992-9392.

By "Swede" Troedsson

In the 1980s I was serving as a volunteer EMT on our local ambulance in Dillon, Montana. One late spring day, another EMT and I were dispatched to a local ranch where a ranch hand had been injured.

It had been raining several days prior to the accident. A pair of ranch hands had been sorting yearlings and calves in a corral. Many of the calves were suffering from scours, causing them to defecate loose poop that was a mixture of stinky green, yellow and brown poop. The cattle had been milling around all morning in the muddy corral, which had become a deep soup of mud thoroughly mixed with poop.

The ranch hands had moved the yearlings into an adjoining corral. When one ranch hand was closing the corral gate, something spooked the yearlings. The yearlings panicked and pressed hard against the gate, breaking the gate latch and causing the gate to snap open, hitting the ranch hand in the face and cartwheeling him into the mud.

As we approached the corral, the uninjured ranch hand started to pick up his injured partner. Seeing what appeared to be a broken nose I shouted to the ranch hand not to move his injured partner. My concern was that the injured man might have fractured his cervical spine, which could potentially be a very serious injury.

Using a scoop stretcher, we carefully scooped up the patient, taking care to immobilize his head and neck. As we scooped up the patient, some smelly brown, yellow and green mud was also scooped up.

In the hospital emergency room, when we split the scoop stretcher to release the patient onto the examining table, a large wad of stinky, colored mud also fell onto the examining table. Nurses turned their heads and closed their eyes, wincing as they removed the patient's stinky mud-caked boots and coveralls.

A nurse later quipped to me we should have run that patient through a car wash before we brought him in!

Subsequent examination of the patient revealed that he did indeed have a fracture of his cervical spine. Because he was a veteran, he was transferred to the Fort Harrison Hospital in Helena for treatment of his broken neck.

Bulldogs Stretch Win Streak To Six Games Following Win Over Dickinson State University

The Bulldogs Women's basketball team extended their win streak to six games after they defeated the Dickinson State University (N.D.) Blue Hawks 69-43.

"It was a choppy start, but that is credit to Dickinson and their energy to start. Our bench gave us a great lift to finish the first quarter. Hopefully we got the careless turnovers out of our system as we head into tomorrow's game." Head Coach Lindsay Woolley stated after the win.

How it Happened

The Bulldogs worked well together and were able to go up 36-20 at the end of the first half after posting 48.3 shooting percentage in the first two quarters. Despite being outscored in the third quarter 16-15 by DSU, the Bulldog defense held the Blue Hawks to just seven points in the final 10 minutes of the game. The Bulldog women went 7-15 from the field, along with a huge push from senior Brynley Fitzgerald who scored 12 points in the fourth quarter alone to finish out the game with UMW on top 69-43.

"It was nice to have a little reset break for a few days, we all got to see our families. But today, we got right back to work. I thought we moved the ball really well as a team, found the open people, and improved on our help side defense today. We have another one tomorrow to get ready for and I look forward to seeing all the improvements we can make heading into conference time." Senior forward Mesa King said following the game.

Notables

- The Bulldogs held the Blue Hawks to a 24.4 shooting percentage while shooting 47.5 percent across the entire game.
- Dickinson State totaled 22 turnovers in the game that the Bulldogs were able to turn into 25 points.
- Brynley Fitzgerald led the Bulldogs on the day with 23 points, seven rebounds, an assist, and a steal.
- Mesa King followed with 10 points, five rebounds, two blocks, and two steals.

COLD ENOUGH FOR YOU?

Tyrades! by Danny Tyree

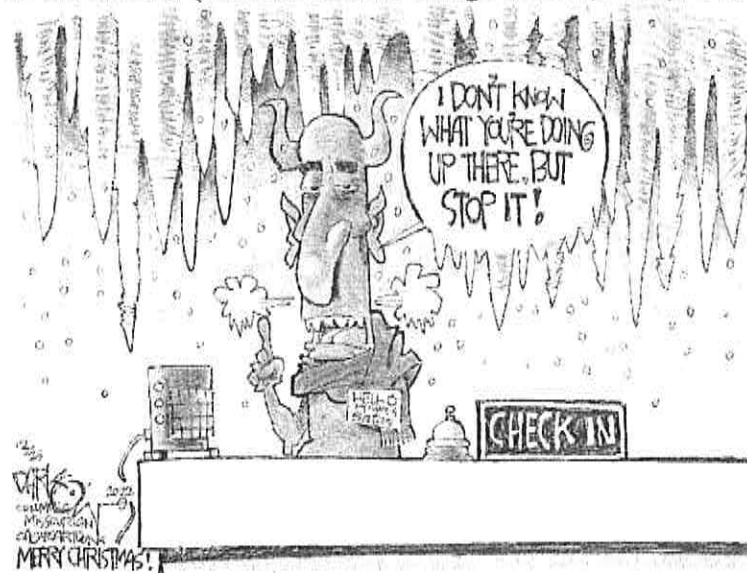

I won't hazard a guess as to whether it achieves immortality like "grassy knoll" or "hanging chads," but surely the phrase "bomb cyclone storm" will remain in the public consciousness of those who endured its cruelties.

We'll laugh about this someday, but right now an awful lot of Americans have a "single digit" they'd like to give right back to Mother Nature.

And we're not exactly chummy with 2022, which on its way out is taunting us with, "Bet now you wish you had bought the extended warranty!"

Yes, I mourn for those who lost their lives due to the recent winter weather event (event as in "One... night... only! Well, two nights only! Would you believe three or four nights only? Tell a buddy, bring a flame thrower!"), but those of us who survived will be talking about dead automobile batteries, industrial-strength windshield de-icer, "rolling blackouts" and other inconveniences for a long time. Assuming our tongues aren't still stuck to a lamppost in the summer of 2027.

I'm still waiting for the other snow-covered shoe to drop, but so far there has mercifully been only muted politicization of the blizzard (vis-a-vis climate change debates). Okay, I did overhear one social justice warrior protesting the term "once-in-a-generation phenomenon" because (duh) it's offensive to mayflies.

I know meteorologists gave the citizenry several days' notice of the potential hazards, but folks really should have been paying closer attention earlier in the year. For instance, when woolly worm caterpillars replaced their familiar dark bands with patterns of Four Horsemen. (Nice job of burying the lede, almanac editors!)

Catastrophes like this bring out our resourcefulness and teamwork, but they are also a grim reminder of human frailty and mortality. Granted, wearing layer upon layer upon layer of clothing makes us let our guard down concerning firearms-related mortality in particular. ("Is that all you got, punk? You sure that's not an assault peashooter?")

Canceled flights, curtailed bus routes and treacherous backroads caused many families to cancel, reschedule or scale back their celebrations. The weather conditions forced travelers to progress rather quickly from Plan B to Plan C. ("I'll be home for Christmas, if only in my dreams – assuming I get any sleep with all the &^%$# snoring at the terminal!")

Alas, even some of the intrepid souls who made it through the snow and slush to celebrate the holidays with their loved ones became disoriented upon arrival because of the absence of familiar landmarks. (Statistics are still being compiled on how many lawn gnomes declared, "Forget this! I'm MOVING to Nome!")

Other frostbitten travelers got turned away at the front door, because they were mistaken for Blue Man Group. ("Now, if Cirque du Soleil had come knocking on the door, we'd have fetched them some eggnog, right, Ma?")

Some families redoubled their efforts to spread joy and goodwill despite the blizzard, but others made a calculated decision to tick off their neighbors. ("Did you see the price of propane, honey? We need all the free flaming sacks of dog poop we can get!")

I'm grateful that residents of the handful of states that escaped the direct impact of the winter storm have sent thoughts, prayers and good vibes our way.

They empathize because, while they dodged a bullet this time, they realize their time will come for wildfires, earthquakes, floods or ...a hundred-year infestation of smart-aleck columnists!
