Orville Lovaas

Orville Lovaas was born on July 4th, 1952, in Princeton, Minnesota, to Emil and Dora Lovaas.

He was united in marriage to Patty on March 18, 1971.

Orville used his USMC Veterans benefits to become an ASE Certified Mechanic from the Vo-tech in Brainerd, MN before moving out to Montana in 1982. He worked briefly as a mechanic before starting his own automotive repair shop in Missoula, MT, which he owned for 10 years before selling and turning his attention to the family business, Elkhorn Hot Springs Resort, which the family owned and operated the next 21 years before retiring.

In retirement Orville enjoyed spending his summers back in Onamia, MN, visiting with family and friends, then heading south to Arizona, spending the winters with his girlfriend Velma who has been by his side the past 6 years. He especially liked to spend his time at the family farm, now operated by his younger brother Julius and his family, when he was back home in MN.

Orville is survived by his:

Sons: Brian (Kristen) Lovaas and Paul (Alison) Lovaas

Brothers: Marlow (Sarah, deceased), Julius (Evelyn) and Elroy Lovaas

Grand Children: Brandi, Kit, Taylor, Madison, Bridget, Emma, Disa and Landon

He was preceded in death by his:

Father Emil and Mother Dora

Wife Patty

Brother Darrel (Judy) Lovaas

Service will be held in Onamia, MN April 7th at Bethany Lutheran Church for family and friends

Congress Delivers Big Win for Deer, Elk and Hunters

Critical financial help is on the way for researchers and game managers dealing with chronic wasting disease (CWD). Congress included the Chronic Wasting Disease (CWD) Research and Management Act within the Omnibus Budget Bill that passed prior to adjournment of the recently completed 117th session.

"This funding to fight CWD was a 2022 legislative priority for the Rocky Mountain Elk Foundation, and is vitally important for the future of elk and other ungulates, CWD research, wildlife management and hunting," said Kyle Weaver, RMEF president and CEO.

RMEF worked with the Boone and Crockett Club to organize a coalition of conservation and wildlife organizations that worked together for a year and a half leading up to the legislative victory.

"This took a lot of heavy lifting and work behind the scenes," said Blake Henning, RMEF chief conservation officer. "RMEF met with lawmakers, staff and members on Capitol Hill to get bipartisan sponsors and secure votes for passage."

The legislation bolsters CWD research to develop testing methods, enhance detection efforts, better understand genetic resistance and assists with management by prioritizing funding for state and tribal wildlife agencies that have the highest incidence and greatest risk of CWD.

Congress appropriated $19.5 million for CWD efforts in 2023.

CWD is a progressive, degenerative and always fatal nervous system disease found in both farmed and free-ranging deer, elk and moose. It may be transmitted through direct animal-to-animal contact, contact with saliva, feces or carcass parts of an infected animal, and may also spread through soil contaminated with any of the above fluids or tissues. So far, scientists confirmed its presence in 30 states, five Canadian provinces and two countries overseas.

County and State Spelling B

The University of Montana Western will play host to elementary and middle school spellers from around the county on Thursday, February 2nd at 1:30 pm in the Small Auditorium in Main Hall. Students from all the grade schools, plus those from Dillon Middle School and local home schools will contend for a trip to the Treasure State Spelling Bee on March 11th in Bozeman.

County Superintendent of Schools Mike Miller is serving as the director for this year's contest.

"The six rural schools, Lima's Elementary School, the area home schoolers, and the schools in Dillon have all been invited to send spellers to challenge for a trip to Bozeman in March," said Miller. "We may have as many as 30 area spellers entered in the contest this year, although some schools may choose not to take part."

Trophies for the top two spellers and certificates for all participants will be presented at the conclusion of the event along with donations from local financial institutions to help defray the costs for travel to Bozeman. Three local judges have volunteered, and Dr. Laura Straus, an Education Department professor from the University of Montana Western will be pronouncing the words.

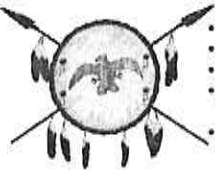

The Treasure State Spelling Bee, now in its 59th year, is conducted along the rules of the Scripps National Spelling Bee organization which furnishes the spelling list used at local and state spelling bees. "A least one speller from each county can be entered in the state bee, while counties with much larger population are allowed more spellers. But it is expected that 60 spellers will converge on the campus of Montana State University at the Strand Ballroom for this year's contest," reported Miller. Only students from schools which are enrolled in the National Scripps organization are eligible to participate in the state bee, although registration is not required for the county bee.

The Montana Television Network sponsors the event and journalists from the network will serve as judges. Radio and newspaper columnist Chrysti "The Wordsmith" Smith will be pronouncing.

PONCHO'S GOAT

By "Swede" Troedsson

In October of 2022, as I was leaving the Den Restaurant in Dillon, Montana, I met Poncho and Bev McCoy at the door. I hadn't seen these dear friends for over 20 years. They were currently living in Oregon. In the course of a quick conversation Bev informed me that their son-in-law was married to a former smokejumper.

I quickly returned to the restaurant to gift a book to the McCoy's. I had written the book titled Smokejumper & Other Stories.

While I was signing the book, Poncho reminded me that I had directed him into a mountain goat.

In the early 1990s, I met Poncho checking out of a ranch supply store. He informed me that he had a goat permit for the East Pioneer Mountains, west of Melrose, Montana. I informed Poncho that when he finished checking out of the store I would meet him at the local sporting goods store where he would purchase a USGS topographic map, and I would place an X on the map where he could shoot a goat.

At the sporting goods store, Poncho purchased a copy of the Mount Tahepia topographic map. On the map I placed an X on the south slope of Sharp Mountain. I informed Poncho that I had seen mountain goats in that area from a Forest Service aircraft while on a fire detection patrol. I also informed him he could unload his horses at the Mono Creek campground, then ride up the Jacobsen Creek trail to Tahepia Lake where he could set up camp and picket his horses. Tahepia Lake is only a mile south of Sharp Mountain.

About a week after the opening of the goat hunting season, Poncho called me to inform me he had shot a mountain goat on my X with his bow! The goat broke off a portion of one horn when it fell. However, there was enough length on the intact horn that the goat made it into the Pope & Young record book!

AG Knudsen statement on State of the State address

In response to Governor Greg Gianforte's State of the State address, Attorney General Austin Knudsen issued the following statement:

"Governor Gianforte is right: Montanans are better off now than we were two years ago, but the threat of crime and drugs continues to grow after previous administrations ignored the issue for years. I appreciate his continued support for law enforcement and the needed resources for the Montana Department of Justice's Highway Patrol, Division of Criminal Investigation, prosecution bureau, and MMIP task force to hold criminals accountable and keep Montanans safe."

Picturesque Elk Habitat Conserved in Wyoming

A stunningly scenic 507-acre swath of rich wildlife habitat in southern Wyoming is conserved thanks to a collaboration between a conservation-minded family and the Rocky Mountain Elk Foundation.

"We recognize and appreciate Dennis and Cathy Faerber, long-time RMEF partner-landowners, for entering into this voluntary conservation agreement to protect the wildlife values of this incredible property," said Kyle Weaver, RMEF president and CEO.

About 20 miles southwest of the small community of Encampment, Aspen Alley is an inholding within the Sierra Madre Range of the Medicine Bow-Routt National Forest. It is well-known by locals and featured by photographers and artists alike due to its towering aspen stands, especially during the colorful fall foliage.
