skiing at Mammoth Mountain where both instructed. They lived in the Los Angeles area where their two daughters, Sharon and Karen, were born. Leaving city life, the family moved to Lewiston, Idaho and on to Lolo, Montana.

After her divorce in 1974, Dorothy began another chapter raising and showing Tarentaise cattle. She was instrumental in establishing the breed association and registry in North America. That adventure took her to Sunburst, Fairfield, and Sheridan, Montana. In Sheridan she worked as a local ditch rider and got to know many folks in that area. After many successful years and having developed lifelong friendships, she dispersed her cattle herd and semi-retired to Dillon, Montana.

Dorothy loved staying busy, engaged in her community, and was always looking for a way to give back. She served on many boards and helped with multiple community projects. Most recently, she enjoyed helping at the Beaverhead Food Bank. An avid reader and historian, Dorothy spent many years researching her family and places they had lived. She loved her work at the Beaverhead County Museum researching, archiving, and helping others in their own research. Dorothy was passionate about genealogy which led to several fact-finding trips overseas. As an active member of the Beaverhead Hunters Genealogical Society, she enjoyed sharing her knowledge and investigative skills with others. Dorothy loved her dogs and was happy to match many rescues with kind homes which led to her service at the Beaverhead County Humane Society. She was especially fond of Saint Bernards and Australian Shepherds. Her last doggie companions, Bristol and Lucy, gave her lot's of comfort and companionship these last few years.

Family and friends were particularly important to her. In Dillon, Dorothy had a close knit group of cherished friends with whom she enjoyed staying in close contact. Their adventures included theater tickets, lunches, hour long phone calls, travels, and home visits. Dorothy's grandchildren were very dear to her heart, and she took them, during their childhood, on a one-on-one "granny trip" of their choosing. These trips were a highlight for her.

Dorothy is survived by her daughters Sharon Teague (Randy) and Karen Helle (John); grandchildren Jackie Teague Jones (Kevin), Matt Teague, and Evan (Sara) Helle, Nathan (Jessie) Helle, Weston Helle, and Claire Helle; great grandchildren Bristol Jones, Jack and, Ben Helle, and Daxton Helle. Also surviving are brother Rusty Davies; nieces Cammie Miller and Wendy Deans; and nephews Matt Davies, Jim Davies, and Doug Davies.

Dorothy was preceded in death by parents RC and Anita, brother Jim Davies, and grandson Mark Teague.

Donations may be made in her honor to the Beaverhead County Museum, the Dillon Public Library, or the Beaverhead Humane Society. A family memorial will be planned in the spring.

Hunter Education class scheduled in Belgrade

A Hunter Education class is scheduled to take place in Belgrade this month.

The classroom course will be at Belgrade Middle School on Feb. 24 and 25. The field day portion of the class will be at Logan Gun Range on Feb. 26.

Preregistration is required. Students can sign up for the class online by visiting <https://register-ed.com/events/view/193971>.

Students must be at least 10 years old to take the class. Priority will be given to students who reside in Belgrade. Hunter Education classes in other communities, including Bozeman, are being scheduled for the coming months.

Hunter and Bowhunter Education classes are taught by skilled volunteer instructors and offer hands-on learning experiences, mentoring opportunities and the ability for students to ask questions of experienced hunters. Students learn how to handle firearms and archery equipment safely, basic survival skills, hunting ethics, wildlife management, game identification, landowner-hunter relations, and Montana hunting laws and regulations. All in-person classes are free for students.

Montana law requires that anyone born after Jan. 1, 1985, complete a Hunter Education class or qualify as a youth apprentice hunter before purchasing a Montana hunting license. All first-time bowhunters must complete a Bowhunter Education course or show proof of a prior year's archery license from another state or province.

Other Hunter and Bowhunter Education classes are being scheduled throughout the state. To see what classes are happening near you or to sign up for a class, visit fwpmont.gov/hunt/education. The web page will be updated as more classes are scheduled.

Put Out to Pasture

Bryce Angell

The young men teased when he entered the room. The years had passed him all too soon. His twisted fingers held the cane that propped him up through years of pain.

He sat down at the breakfast table. His chair he'd claimed for years. His duties now were bunkhouse guard. A job made by his peers.

He looked the part of old cowboy, his dark and weathered hide. With week long grayish whiskers showing off his senior side.

His cold, dark eyes could tell a story, if you looked on in. But no one seemed to bother. All they saw was old and thin.

The young cowboys would say to him, "You're dang near old as dirt." He'd try to laugh it off but always felt the pangs of hurt.

His nature was to answer fast. "Now hold your tongue. I ain't yet passed. Your time's a comin' so don't you fret. From here to there the years are set.

"Old Mother Nature will steal your youth when you're feeling young and spry. Hang on to your saddle and be aware. She does it on the sly."

And then he said, "The good you've done; well don't forget that time erases that aspect of life's hard work on everyone.

"Your young eyes see us obsolete. From that regard I'll accept the seat. My years of toil have earned this place. Being put to pasture ain't no disgrace.

"This winter when it's ten below, your rope won't toss and it sure won't close. Your fingers will think they're under ice. My toasty fire will sure feel nice.

"You young ones want a love affair? She'll break your heart, but don't despair. Hard work will keep her off your mind. No better cure you'll ever find.

"While on the trail and asleep at night, the cold hard ground will be your plight. My soft, warm bunk's right by the flame. A bed that's mine and carries my name.

"When our breakfast's through you'll be in the saddle. You'll have the cold north wind to battle. I'll be in this bunkhouse nice and warm. You'll be out there bravin' another storm. Your wool pants frozen to your legs. And, by the way, could you pass those eggs?

"What you will do, I've done before. So many times, I can't be sure? Your cowboy way heads my direction. If it ain't for you, better make that election.

"So call me fossil, if you must. But one thing you can surely trust. Though my body's worn from years of cold, I've earned this place that you call old."

Senator Welborn's Weekly Report

First I'm happy to report some progress out of Washington on delisting of the Grizzly Bear.

Grizzly bear recovery has been a conservation success in the areas surrounding Yellowstone and Glacier National Parks. As we've been advocating in the Montana Senate for years, it's time to recognize this conservation win, remove grizzly bears from endangered listing in those ecosystems, and return management of the bears to the state of Montana. I'm glad to see this step in the right direction from the federal government, now they just need to follow through.

Another item we are working on this session, is for Montana to join the National discussion of our foreign adversaries owning Agricultural land and critical infrastructure in Montana.

Senator Ken Bogner, a Miles City Republican is proposing legislation to do just that.

Senate Bill 203 will had its first hearing last week in the Senate agriculture committee, which I sit on.

China especially has shown a concerning interest in acquiring lands and resources in our country that could help them with spying efforts, economic competition, and gaining the upper hand in any conflict with the United States. Foreign adversaries and corporations acting at their behest have no business owning or leasing any part of Montana that is important to our national security.

Critical infrastructure is defined in Montana law as systems and assets, whether physical or virtual, so vital to the United States that the incapacity or destruction of the systems and assets would have a debilitating impact on security, national economic security, national public health or safety, or any combination of those matters.

Senator Bogner has agricultural production land in this proposal both because food security is essential to national security and because of the importance of agriculture to Montana's economy. I also believe that In the Treasure State, agricultural land is critical infrastructure.

Recent news reports have identified increasing concern at the federal level about China and Chinese Communist Party affiliated corporations buying up agricultural land in the United States, including near strategic military facilities in North Dakota and Montana.

While introduced specifically with China in mind, the provisions of SB 203 also include Russia, North Korea, and Iran as foreign adversaries identified by the federal government that would be banned from critical infrastructure and agricultural land in Montana.

Our adversaries are becoming more sophisticated in how they compete with and threaten the United States economically, culturally, and militarily. While national security is primarily the responsibility of the federal government, keeping our adversaries from buying up critical parts of Montana is something we can achieve at the state legislature with Senate Bill 203.

Please stay in touch on any issue that you feel is important. Have a great week.
