Bryce Angell

We were on our fourth day camping, in Southern Utah, and the weather had been cold all four days. With a winter storm coming, we decided to load up the horses, throw in the camp gear and head for home.

The Ford F-550 got us out of the campsite, and onto the freeway, in short order. The driver set the speed at 80 mph which would insure us to be home in seven hours.

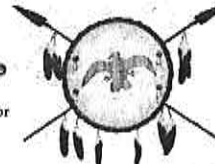

The seven hours of driving time wasn't the issue. We had pulled our horse trailers to Southern Utah so many times the trucks could probably drive themselves. The issue was during the four days of camping and riding, no one took a bath. Bathing usually consisted of pouring water over your head, soaping down and rinsing off with the rest of the water. But, everyone was too chicken to get wet in the cold weather.

After a few miles down the road, Galen, riding shotgun leaned over and cranked the heat up to three notches above high. It didn't take long with the combination of the truck heater, blasting hot air, and four days of unshowered bodies, to make the cab of the truck smell like something had crawled inside and died. My eyes were even watering.

I attempted to roll down the window, but snow and sleet flew in with a vengeance. Back up went the window and once again a pungent body odor smell in the cab. Even the hungriest of grizzly bears would be holding his nose and shaking his head. We continued driving down the road with a challenge of who can hold their breath the longest.

Now mind you, we left camp hell bent for leather to beat the winter storm. In the rush, two coolers were not roped down but covered with a tarp and hastily secured.

While sitting in the seat, holding my nose and breathing through my mouth, I heard a flapping noise coming from the back of the truck. Sure enough, the tarp came loose and was whipping in the wind. There was an empty spot where the coolers used to be, and to make matters worse, blue lights were flashing, at the rear of the horse trailer, coming from a Utah State patrol car. In panic, we immediately made our own exit to the side of the road and waited anxiously for bad news to come to the window.

The highway patrolman stood back a few feet then said, "I clocked you at 91 mph. You in a hurry?" For a moment no one said a word expecting him to ask about the two coolers stuck in his windshield. Our driver got his wits about him and told the officer we were on our way home from a snowed out camping trip. The patrolman stepped up to the window, attempting to look in, and immediately recoiled back with a pained look on his face. I'm sure I heard him gag or choke a little. He added, "How long were you cowboys out there without a bath?" We then answered, "Only four days." I swear he shook his head in disbelief.

Then he said, "Today is your lucky day. Get this ripe smelling rig back on the road and please drive the speed limit!"

He was right. It was our lucky day. We got on the road before any mention of the missing coolers.

Furthermore, I believe the smell in our cab stopped him from stepping any closer and prevented us from getting a healthy speeding ticket. About the coolers, that's a mystery.

LEGISLATIVE UPDATE

REP TOM WELCH MT HD 72

We reached the mid-point of Montana's 68th Legislative Session on March 3rd. Much work was accomplished but much remains to be done in the following weeks.

Among our accomplishments, we passed a package of eight Bills which addressed our Budget Surplus. These Bills dealt with Income Tax rebates-HB 192, Business Equipment Tax exemption increases-HB 212, revising long term Capital Gains Taxes-HB 221, Property Tax rebates-HB 222, a Pay Down of Montana's existing general obligation debt-HB 251, investing millions of dollars into a Highway Construction fund that will provide access to Federal matching funds-HB 267, reduced the Individual Income tax rate-SB 121, and lastly, revising the apportionment of income regarding Montana's corporate income-SB 124. All the above-mentioned Bills have been transmitted to the Governor for his signature in coming days. I am proud to say that I successfully carried two of these Bills, HB 221 and HB 222, on behalf of the citizens of Montana.

Among the work remaining includes addressing School funding, funding nursing homes and rural hospitals adequately, keeping mental health facilities open, providing additional options for students including those interested in the trades, and improving access to attainable housing.

A tremendous amount of work has been and is still underway with respect to Montana's Budget for the next two years. The Appropriations Committee is working diligently to right size Montana's budget. Initial reviews reflect a Budget slightly below that of the Governor's proposal. The entire Legislative body will have our first in depth look at this preliminary Budget in the next couple of weeks.

This Legislative session has been good to me. In addition to the two Bills mentioned above awaiting the Governor's signature, I have had three Bills already signed by the Governor. My other five Bills which deal with topics such as HB 379 Revise Laws Related to Pharmacy Benefit Managers and HB 129 Revise Fees for Special Mobile Equipment, remain alive and working their way thru the Legislative process.

Disappointments also come with the successes. A group of Legislators from both sides of the isle have joined together to derail Bills, for now, that would provide for school maintenance, teacher health care, and Conservation District funding.

I continue to support all of these currently stalled Bills in their present form and am hopeful that we can successfully move these Bills forward in the 2nd half of this Legislative Session.

I will wrap up with some statistics and general information from the Session to date. Nearly 1450 Bills have been introduced so far with 850 plus of these in the House. Staff tells me that they have never seen as many government in peoples lives, or erodes local control, freedom of personal expression, and religion, to healthcare access, and private property rights, less Government in our lives means just that. With that being said, the headlines of modern culture wars, overshadow, the positive news stories about how the 2023 Montana legislature has fared on kitchen table issues, that often get missed.

That's unfortunate, because at this point in the legislative session, we have seen significant, and often bipartisan progress on important issues that impact the daily lives and pocket books of all Montanans:

Regarding Tax relief:

The 2023 Legislature has already sent a package of bills to Gov. Greg Gianforte's desk representing the largest tax cut in Montana history. These measures deliver nearly a billion dollars in tax relief to Montanans suffering from heightened inflation by permanently reducing the income tax rate, providing income and property tax rebates, and dropping nearly 5,000 small businesses from the business equipment tax rolls. These tax measures are the fruit of the Legislature's past commitment to fiscally conservative budgeting, which made room for this historic tax relief.

Regarding healthcare:

The Legislature has advanced at least eight proposals aimed at addressing healthcare workforce shortages by eliminating occupational licensure red tape. HB 152 from Rep. Bill Mercer, the signature 2023 bill of the Governor's Red Tape Relief Initiative, streamlines the entire occupational licensure system to make it easier for licensed healthcare professionals coming from other states to get quickly licensed to work in Montana. SB 112 from Sen. Tom McGillvray and HB 313 from Rep. Jodee Etchart will leverage Montana pharmacists and physician assistants to fill gaps in our healthcare system, especially in rural underserved areas, by providing them with greater authority to treat and care for patients under their license.

On Education Policy:

The Legislature has advanced several proposals to empower parents with more choice in their child's education. Also are proposals on better and more efficient reporting requirements with The Office of Public Instruction. We have also passed funding for educational opportunity for students entering career level educational opportunities aside from traditional higher ed.

From my perspective the Montana Legislature is quietly delivering on serious, mostly bi-partisan policies of fiscal responsibility, economic freedom, and red tape relief.

Amendments as have been brought forth this year. Legislative trackers reflect that I have taken 1198 House floor votes related to Bills so far while only missing one House Floor vote. House of Representative members spent 25 hours in Session over a 2 day span this past Thursday and Friday working on the House floor in order to get our needed work done before taking our Transmittal break. These days started at 8am and ran past 9pm with in House meals being provided—yes long days!

Thank you for allowing me to be your Representative

Senator Jeff Welborn's Weekly Report

HELENA:

First, some interesting legislation we have been working on regarding how aerial attack fire fighting is being done, and a new tool to help in that effort. People who fly the drones over wild land fires could soon face criminal penalties under a bill gaining traction at the Montana Legislature. Unauthorized drone flights over wild land fires frequently leave fire managers no choice but to suspend aerial firefighting operations. The genesis behind this bill culminated last summer when a curious fire watcher drone, grounded critical aerial firefighting aircraft outside of Helena. Not only was this a significant risk to aviators, but severely limited our fire suppression capabilities when they were needed most. State Sen. Willis Curdy, a Democrat from Missoula, says civilians using drones to monitor or photograph wild land firefighting operations currently face the possibility of getting slapped with civil penalties. Senate Bill 219 intends to raise the stakes. It now would make the infraction a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of up to $1,500 and six months in jail. An amendment tacked on in My Senate Natural Resources Committee, would permit law enforcement to "use reasonable force" to disable a drone. Lewis and Clark County Sheriff Leo Dutton supports the bill and says that he particularly appreciates that amendment if it leads to saving lives and property. The bill passed the Senate last month with a 37-10 vote. The House Natural Resources Committee Wednesday took no action on the bill.

Now from a more high level look into what is happening overall this session, i'd like to share some perspective. Recently in major news papers, and social media in Montana, much of the coverage of our legislative session, seems to be dedicated to pulling together headlines that stirs the viewer's biases. Make no mistake, I have colleagues on both sides of the aisle who feed these culture wars, offering what I call "red meat" policies, aimed less at solving a problem, and more at provoking a lawsuit. While I typically vote against any policy that inserts more
