all cumulative state contest placings, the Beaverhead FFA placed 3rd in the overall state team sweepstakes.

State FFA Degrees: The State FFA Degree is the highest level of membership an FFA member can attain while still in high school. In total, 187 Montana FFA members earned their State FFA Degrees. This year 12 Beaverhead FFA members received this honor. Recipients were: Jackson Benzon, Trapper Doering, Patsea Farrow, Gavin Garrison, Dillon Hansen, Tel Holland, Kyle Jones, Ashton Knapp, Jon Peterson, Ryleigh Plovanic, Parker Rieber, and Josi Ward. Senator Steve Daines was the keynote speaker for the State FFA Degree ceremony.

State Star Farmer: Gavin Garrison was chosen as the 2023 Montana FFA State Star Farmer. Out of all 187 State FFA Degree recipients and three other finalists, Gavin was selected as the individual with the most outstanding agricultural production project and record book. This is an outstanding honor reserved for the best of the best, and Gavin is Beaverhead FFA's second State Star Farmer in the last 10 years.

State Proficiency Awards: This year three Beaverhead FFA members applied and were recognized for excellence in their FFA projects. Members receiving recognition were: Emily Matamoros - Beef Production - Bronze Award, Tel Holland - Swine Production - Bronze Award, and Katie Johnson - Sheep Production - Gold Award.

State Star Chapter Award: For an unprecedented sixth consecutive year, the Beaverhead FFA was named the 1st place Star FFA Chapter of Montana. This award takes into consideration all of an FFA chapter's activities throughout the year, and the top 10% of chapters from each state can apply for further recognition at the national level.

Many thanks to our dedicated bus driver and motivational speaker Mr. Robert Harrison for his expert driving and last-minute pep talks.

Thank you all for your continued support of the FFA and these great students!

Personal Plumber

I feel the struggle, more with age, while climbing in the saddle.
I never thought that getting old could turn to such a battle.
Though some of us are getting old, we still enjoy a ride.
But each year my horse seems taller as I'm standing at his side.
Getting old sure ain't for sissies. But it's one we all must do.
A man is blessed when friends are there to see that he gets through.
Thank heaven for our good friend who's along for every ride.
He's a doctor of urology, well known both far and wide.
Our doctor friend says when a man gets to his golden years,
he urinates more frequently and grows hair in his ears.
A man can pluck his ears, but with a hefty sized prostate, his bladder fills to full and feels like someone closed the gate.
If sitting in the saddle with an over filled-up bladder, it's a painful situation. One I'd rather feel much flatter.
While riding in the desert, one frosty early morn, my horse commenced to buck. I landed on the saddle horn.
With teeth clinched tight I slobbered, "Will this pain soon go away?"
He answered, "Yes, but you will sing soprano from this day."
His gentle sense of humor never leaves one to object.
Everyone agrees that he's the master of respect.
So when we're riding on the trail and far away this summer.
We can proudly say we brought along our cowboy personal plumber.
Our plumber's kinda quiet. Doesn't have a lot to say.
But when he offers his advice it's in the kindest way.
Yes, our personal plumber keeps an eye on all of us old men.
He never thinks about himself, sorta like a mother hen.
He tells us, "Drink more water. You'll feel better all around."
You'd think that we would listen as we tank our sodas down.
He wore a suit and tie all day and scrubs for surgery.
But now retired, a pair of boots and wranglers you will see.
Not everyone's as lucky as the men who ride with him.
His attitude is positive, all filled up to the brim.
And the best advice he's given me, I'd like for you to know.
"A healthy prostate is when you can pee your name in snow."

"Over the Top" Challenge

Montana Western Announces Stockman Bank "Over the Top" Challenge

After publicly launching a $13 million fundraising effort earlier this year to fund scholarships, academic programs, and student wellness and athletics facilities, the UMW Foundation has announced that Stockman Bank is contributing a $50,000 matching gift to the Experience One Campaign for the "Stockman Over the Top Challenge."

"We recognize the significant contributions that the University of Montana Western brings to our community, and are excited to help make all of these important projects a reality," said Shane Puyear, Stockman Bank branch manager. "Stockman Bank is invested in Dillon, and the University is such an important part of the community."

The dollar-for-dollar match of the next $50,000 in gifts will support Montana Western's new Sports & Activities Complex project. This gift is in addition to an earlier $65,000 gift to the same project.

"Montana Western Athletics is grateful to Stockman Bank for their generosity and are excited for the impact the new Complex will have not just for our student-athletes, but for all students and the community of Dillon. We highly value the relationships we have with the community and want to thank all of our donors who are helping us make this goal a reality," said UMW Director of Athletics, Michael Feuling.

Over $11.8 million has already been committed to the comprehensive campaign, of that, about $4.5 million will be directed to the Complex project. Approximately $8.5 million is planned to be divided among the other three funding priorities of the campaign including substantially increasing support for student scholarships, adding a Wellness Center to the campus to support the mental and physical health of UMW's students, and investing in the Fund for Experience One to increase experiential learning opportunities for students and faculty. Montana Western hopes to secure the remaining funds needed for the campaign over the next twelve months.

"Stockman Bank and the Coffee family have deep Montana roots and understand the impact that Montana Western has on our region and across the state," said UMW Foundation Executive Director, Roxanne Engellant. "Their support is also a call to action that now is the time to bring the Experience One Campaign over the finish line."

For more information about Montana Western's fundraising efforts or to support the Experience One Campaign, please contact the University of Montana Western Foundation at 406-683-7305, email roxanne.engellant@umwestern.edu, or visit tinyurl.com/X1-campaign.

Performing Arts Series

Written By Hailey Briggs for SWMT News

The Bank of Commerce Performing Arts Series has been a highlight of this community for years, and the much anticipated production of Puffs or Seven Increasingly Eventful Years at a Certain School of Magic and Magic was no exception. The small auditorium on the University of Montana Western campus was the place to be on opening night, Friday, March 24. With only a handful of empty seats, those performing had to feel the pressure to deliver. And deliver, did they!

Upon entering the foyer of the auditorium, you were greeted by the cast and crew, already in-character. The concession stand provided some refreshments for the performance, as well as a bowl to place a slip of paper with your favorite flavor. (Although there were moments of crowd participation, don't fear if you're on the shyer side. The cast was good at integrating both spontaneity, as well as sticking to a fun, endearing script that had the crowd laughing nonstop.)

Although we've been awe-inspired by the set from plays of the past, never before has it been more apparent and impressive how the cast and crew utilized this smaller space to tell such a large story. Every nook and cranny were utilized in this production, thrusting the audience into a very immersive experience.

Whether you're a true Potterhead, a casual viewer, or have never partaken of the original stories, there is something for you. This off Broadway script written by Matt Cox is so unique and witty that it envelops you on a journey through the seven school years. The familiarity of how real teenagers would view the experience of attending a wizard school touched on the basic humanity that might not have been relatable with the original wizard franchise. It was refreshing to see this other perspective, while being treated to easter eggs Harry Potter fans didn't see coming.

Usually with lengthier plays like this, there are one or two breakthrough stars. However, this production illuminated the power of a phenomenal ensemble cast. No one character or actor stood out from the rest, as they were all very memorable and held their own on stage. The talent really shone through with the plethora of characters, as well as the different roles for each actor. One might think that would get confusing, but the little nuances and quarks of the differing characters really helped move the storyline forward without any distractions.

The story and the performance, while entertainingly hilarious, had a lot of heart when all was said and done. The message of unlikely heroes rising to the occasion bridges the gap between reality and fantasy, and the narrator's guided messages throughout the entirety of the play really catapulted this performance into something that will live in your mind long after you leave.

So, if you're looking for a fun-filled few hours, there's no better option than Puffs, showing now through April 2 at the small auditorium on UMW campus. Showtimes are Wednesday-Saturday with 7:30 pm shows, as well as a matinee on Sunday at 2:30 pm. You won't be sorry!
