Veterans Military Exchange

University of Montana Western has many hidden jewels. One, the VMX or Veterans Military Exchange, has been in operation for about 12 years, carrying on the tradition started in 1946, providing support to veteran students and their dependents when the GI Bill brought a welcome flood of students to campus.

As veterans we are used to having someone in the unit/platoon/ship/crew we can turn to for answers. Moving on as a civilian may bring problems. Who can I ask? Where can I go? What is a good phone number? The VMX can help with answers to your questions so you can help yourself access services and other assistance. Share your expertise with fellow veterans. Listen to 'sea' stories (they start with once upon a time in civilian life) and feel the warmth of veteran comradery.

Located in the Student Union Building and operational between the hours of 0730 and 1730 (7:30AM to 5:30PM) all veterans from the community are invited to drop in for coffee, perhaps to use a computer, and certainly to enjoy the company of fellow veterans.

SNOWY CONDITIONS ON MONIDA PASS

Jeremy Crawford, Southwestern Montana News

Saturday April 1st I-15 Southbound MM1 slushy and snowy conditions on Monida pass caused a multi vehicle pileup. A car attempting to pass a semi-truck hit 4 inches of slush causing the vehicle to be pulled into the semi-truck. The vehicle came to a stop after colliding with the semi, another vehicle was unable to see the stopped car and rear ended them. A few moments later a dodge truck pulling a trailer swerved to avoid the two cars and ended up coming to a stop stuck in the median. The roads currently are slushy with 4 to 6 inches of either slush or snow on them along with high wind making visibility extremely poor.

Winter of 1931

Bryce Angell

I was complaining of how many times I've plowed snow this winter, and how the snow just won't let up. The long, frigid winter is now into April.

And then my mind went back to a story Grandma Angell related to me many years ago. Grandma said the year was 1931 and she and Grandpa were living at Staley Springs, on Henry's Lake. Winter had been a force to reckon with. March 21 had come and gone and still no sign of winter leaving.

The late March day started out like any other day. Morning chores always before breakfast and then a hearty meal of bacon, fried potatoes and hot cakes to start the day with a full stomach.

Grandma's three oldest children attended school two and a half miles away from home. The weather appeared to be clear, so Sunshine and Moonie, the team of horses, were harnessed and hooked up to the sleigh. The sleigh was big enough to accommodate at least 8-10 people and had a homemade burn barrel in between the benches to at least keep your hands warm. The oldest son drove his sister and brother to school. Grandma said she waved goodbye and didn't give a second thought as to the possibility of a winter storm.

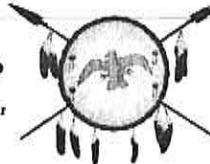

About midday she began to feel uneasy, looked out the window and saw a nasty blizzard blowing across Henry's Lake and toward their home.

The one room schoolhouse would be toasty warm with the potbelly stove burning an abundance of lodgepole pine and quaking aspen. Grandma knew the children would be safe as long as they stayed put in the school house. If they started back they might not make it through the blizzard.

Grandpa determined he needed to warn the kids at school. He bundled up with layers of wool, newspapers wrapped around his shoes and then slipped on his overshoes. That particular practice was used to keep your feet warmer. He then slipped on his snowshoes, hugged Grandma and ventured out into the blizzard.

Visibility was almost zero so he walked alongside a barbed wire fence, hand over hand on the wire for the two and a half miles until he reached the school safely. He said he didn't dare let go of the fence for fear the intense blizzard wind would blow him off course and be lost.

The children at the school were instructed to stay at the school house for the night and not attempt to go home. The schoolmarm and her mother would see to their needs. The horses had shelter in the barn so Grandpa threw them a couple extra flakes of hay.

As soon as he knew everyone and everything was safe he bundled up again and dared the two and a half mile walk, hand over hand on the barbed wire fence until he arrived safely at home to the rest of the family. Grandma told me while Grandpa was gone, those hours were the longest of her life.

After recounting Grandma's story I realized I have never had it so good. When I get cold, sitting on the tractor, I go inside, throw another block of wood on the fire and warm up. I don't believe I have the constitution of my grandparents yet, I have never been so blessed. It is time for me to stop complaining.

Devotional - Personal Growth Book

Local author, Mark R. Worden's book, "HE IS! Knowing God through Fifty Scriptural Meditations" was a winner in the 2023 Ames Awards in the Devotional - Personal Growth Book Category as announced online by Kerysso Press on March 31st, 2023.

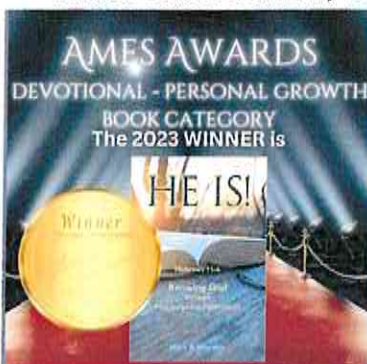

Signed copies of Mark's book are sold downtown at The Bookstore. We encourage book lovers to shop local!

Mark encourages those who read his book to not pass over the front matter in the book where he thanks those who influenced him for good in his life in the Acknowledgements. He gives some history of how he came to write the book in the Preface as well as sharing part of his faith journey. Mark testifies that if it were not for the support of the Thursday morning Vineyard men's prayer fellowship that the book would probably never have been finished and published. He is thankful for the local support in his devotional writing.

Contact Mark by email at heis50sm@gmail.com to ask for a free PDF version of his book for your devotional reading. He is giving this version of his book away during his Birthday month to those who would like to give it a read digitally.

Former Dillon resident, Darla Lamb, publicly posted on Facebook

last Friday when she shared the announcement: "Hey...just wanted to share this because this book is excellent. He was our pastor when we lived in Dillon, MT. And this book is good for those who are searching to know who God is and don't believe in Jesus and for those who know God and believe in Jesus. Jesus said, "I am the way, the truth, the life. No one comes to the Father but through me." John 14:6.

Senator Welborn's Weekly Report
HELENA:
 This week I want to take a deeper dive into a couple proposals that myself and others have been working on this session. As of this past week both measures have been blended into one bill.
 Senate Bill 442 from Senator Mike Lang (R-Malta) the idea to use marijuana revenue to create a long term and stable funding source to maintain County Roads, was amended in our Senate Finance and Claims on March 30th to also restore funding for Montana's premier conservation program, Habitat Montana, as well as expand the Wildlife Habitat Improvement Program passed in 2017. The amendment also supports the HEART fund, which helps people and communities deal with drug addiction issues, provides increased benefits for veterans and their spouses, increases funding for criminal justice programs and provides a new, stable source of funding for county roads, which arguably are more stressed, with our ever increasing outdoor using public.
 This bill as currently amended is worthy of broad support and should be recognized as an important bipartisan compromise. SB 442 brings Montanans together to keep our communities whole, improves the condition of the land, protects our hunting and fishing opportunities for future generations and offers support and recognition to the heroes and their spouses who served America in the armed services.
 This is a once in a generation bill that meets the needs of many Montanans. This concept is two worthwhile ideas that come together, I appreciate a bi-partisan willingness to work with all sides to arrive at a legislative fix that invests in rural Montana, and the people who call it home.

For our own purposes, the restoration of the Habitat Montana funding through a new Habitat Legacy Account is both innovative and critical for Montana's hunting and angling traditions. It shows that hunting organizations are just as invested in the ongoing maintenance, stewardship, and restoration of private and public lands as we are invested in creating new opportunities to hunt and fish. SB 442 provides a new funding tool to improve landowner tolerance of wildlife and help landowners respond to the challenges of prolonged drought, invasive weeds and other environmental changes.
 I believe SB 442 is an opportunity for hunters and rural landowners to collectively improve our land stewardship and showcase Montana's strong land ethic. It protects funding for traditional habitat tools and establishes new tools to improve the condition of the land, improve the distribution of wildlife across public land, reduce conflicts between wildlife and livestock and help ensure better outcomes for hunters, anglers and landowners.

Historically, the Habitat Montana program used big game license fees for habitat conservation and to protect public access, safeguarding hundreds of thousands of acres in Montana since it was established four decades ago. Most recently, it enabled the purchase of the Big Snowy Mountains Wildlife Management Area, protecting critical winter range for elk and deer while unlocking access for hunters by acquiring easements. It has also created more fishing access sites on rivers and lakes.

The amended version of SB 442 unanimously passed out of the Senate Finance and Claims Committee on March 30.

Again, I think we've made some pretty smart changes here that are intended to invest in rural Montana's roads, lands and hunting opportunities while providing support for our veterans and a growing need for drug treatment. At the end of the day we want to give our local counties and local people the tools and resources they need to improve the conditions of the land and be good stewards of Montana.

In the span of 24 hours, the list of proponents advocating on behalf of SB 442 has grown rapidly to include a diverse coalition of more than two-dozen hunting, fishing and conservation groups, livestock and general ag organizations, who are now poised to square off against another measure gaining momentum in the Legislature that completely dismantles the intended funding created through marijuana revenue. Time will tell.

In Closing, we will be taking up HB2, then State's Budget Bill, as it comes over from the House, as we start deliberating in Senate Finance & Claims. I will have a more comprehensive report as we work our way through that.

Have a great week.
