Sharon Stocks Stoll

1934-2023

Sharon Stoll, 89, passed away May 26, 2023 following a brief illness. Dixie Sharon Stocks was born on April 12, 1934 in Rigby, Idaho to Wallace "Wad" Stocks and Melba (Prophet) Stocks in the spare bedroom of her grandparents farm house. She had two siblings, Doyle and Brett Stocks.

The family would later move to Washington for a brief period and on to St Ignatus, Montana for a short time where she had some of her best childhood memories. When Sharon was eleven they moved to the Big Hole Valley near the town of Jackson. She would attend Jackson Elementary and one year at Beaverhead County High School.

Sharon loved to dance and one year she and seven other young people from the Big Hole Valley won the State Championship square dance competition. They danced on the exhibition stage at the Columbia Gardens in Butte, MT.

Her first "official" job was at the Jackson Mercantile working for Roy and Ginger Jackson. She was there for six years and then would marry Gene Hall. They would settle at Monida, Montana and owned the Sportsman's Bar. From this union they welcomed their son, Wayne. Later they would divorce and she would marry Ray Stoll and have two more children, daughter Leslie and son, Shawn.

She would assist Ray with many aspects of ranch life in the upper Horse Prairie and Big Hole Valley, as well as logging, fencing, home building and raising her family. She was very proud of her ability to run the log jammer. She was an excellent cook throughout her life and would later work at several ranches/resorts in Wyoming and Alaska. She dabbled in real estate for awhile and enjoyed buying homes, fixing them up, living in them for awhile and then moving on to the next one.

She is preceded in death by her parents, Wad and Melba Stocks, brothers, Doyle and Brett Stocks, husband, Gene Hall, husband, Ray Stoll, and son, Shawn.

She is survived by her son, Wayne (Kay) Hall (Hot Springs, AR), daughter, Leslie (Scott) Lula (Jackson, MT), grandchildren, Ethan (Ally) Lula (Trego, MT), Elora (Scott) Peters (South Heart, ND), Christopher (Aimee) Hall (San Antonio, TX) and great grandchildren, Weston and Branch Peters, and Evie and Noel Hall.

Her wishes are cremation and no services. Memorials may be made to the donors favorite organization or charity.

She is loved and will be missed by family and friends.

What did the mother buffalo say when the baby buffalo ran away, "Bison"

On June 1, 2023 at 7:27 am the Dillon Police received a complaint about a baby buffalo laying in a yard at Legget St and Johnson St, in Dillon, MT. Dillon Police Officers, Beaverhead County Sheriff Deputies, Montana Live Stock Inspector and Montana Game Wardens responded to the area. It was determined that the baby buffalo is a domesticated animal not a wild buffalo.

The buffalo was captured without injury by the officers and deputies. The buffalo was reunited immediately with the owner.

Heritage Month

As Asian American and Pacific Islander (AAPI) Heritage Month comes to a close, we'd like to share stories and accomplishments of members of the Montana Western Community that were shared on our Instagram account throughout the month of May.

Kenai Liua

"Samoan culture is rich in traditions and customs, with a strong emphasis on family and community. Music, dance, and art play a significant role, and the Samoan language is an important part of the culture."

Wrapping up his junior year, Kenai Liua has implemented the values of his culture into his experience at Montana Western.

"Growing up on an island, in the middle of nowhere, you have to learn how to get along with everyone. My culture has taught me many life lessons on how to survive like my ancestors and about life at sea."

Although moving to Montana after growing up on an island is a big adjustment, it's one that Kenai has successfully navigated.

"The community of Dillon has been a big help in the adjustment from Hawaii to Montana. The people here are welcoming and always willing to help. The professors are passionate, the staff seems to never have a bad day."

As a football player and a member of the Polynesian Club, Kenai has been able to make connections with other students from similar backgrounds.

"Although I may be the only Samoan student here at Western, I am not the only Polynesian. Our little 'village', as we like to call it, likes to gather and talk about how life was back on the Island."

Ho'okipa Sakalia

"Our heritage provides evidence to our past and how our society developed. It helps us look into our history and traditions and allow us to develop a recognition about ourselves. It helps us understand and explain why we are the way we are."

By integrating his culture and heritage at Montana Western, Ho'okipa Sakalia, an anthropology/sociology major and Bulldog Football student-athlete from Lahaina, Maui, has created a second home thousands of miles away from his family.

"I keep in touch with my loved ones at home a lot, and the connections I've made with some of the other students from Hawaii definitely made it a lot easier to adjust to being far away from home. Having coaches from Hawaii also helped because they've been through the same experience," Kipa said.

Although Montana culture and traditions differ from life in Hawaii, Kipa is enjoying his education and experiences in the state.

"The community of Dillon is very supportive in everything: a small town with big hearts."

Jaden Amasiu

"The Hawaiian culture is really interesting and unique in its own way. We are deeply rooted in love and respect for friends, family, and whoever we may encounter. Sharing the aloha spirit is what makes us different from everyone else in our own special way."

Jaden Kekainui Amasiu, a senior studying kinesiology, is from Kailua, Oahu. When speaking on his heritage he said, "honoring my culture is important to me because it keeps me grounded to where I have come from. It always reminds me of who we are as a people and what we preached to the keiki. It gives me a sense of identity and belonging, helps me connect with friends, family, and community. Also, it gives the people here from Montana a taste of Hawaii."

They and Junior Mata'afa

Two years ago, Junior and Sheynoa Mata'afa, alumni from the Class of 2013, made the decision to move from Hawaii to Montana for the second time in their lives to raise their family in the community they fell in love with 15 years ago.

"We visited Dillon in 2017 for an alumni event on campus. We told each other we would love to move back and let our kids experience it like how we did. We've been back for two years and don't have a single regret. We love the small town feel as it reminds us of home. Dillon is home for us just like Hawaii is."

Though Montana is now home for the Mata'afa family, their initial move to Dillon, in 2008, was not without challenges.

"Thinking back, it was hard leaving family and friends at home. I remember feeling sad, scared and excited. We lived in the on-campus family housing, attended school, and had our two older kids in daycare. We joined the Polynesian Club and met some of our best friends whom we call family now. We shared our culture with everyone through dance, music, and food. We had potlucks and would cook all our favorite meals from back home. It didn't seem like we left Hawaii, as we had so much support from our family, new friends in Dillon, professors, advisors, and community members."

Knowing what it's like to make such a big move, the Mata'afa's understanding and support provides current Polynesian students with a home-away-from-home. Doing so allows them to honor and celebrate their culture, and has brought exciting opportunities—such as the ability to share knowledge and traditions of the Pacific Islands with the reestablishment of the much-loved Polynesian Club.

"While going to school I remember having to explain how to pronounce my name and share where I'm from. Being away from home has taught me to appreciate home and my different cultures. I keep who I am and where I'm from very close to my heart. It's important that my kids remember who they are and it's my responsibility to teach them. Some ways are cooking the foods we grew up with, playing the ukulele and dancing the hula. I am the advisor of the Polynesian Club, and we are excited to teach others about the Polynesian Islands. We have been able to perform a few times within Dillon and we look forward to more," said Shey.

Now, a decade after they graduated, both Junior and Shey are working at Montana Western. Junior, a former member of the Bulldog Football team, now coaches the teams' running backs and also works for Yellowstone Boys and Girls Ranch. After six years of teaching eighth grade English, Shey is now utilizing her strengths as an academic advisor by helping guide Montana Western students in their educational pursuits.

Descended from Samoan, Hawaiian, Korean, and German ethnicities, Junior and Shey honor their heritage by teaching the importance of cultural traditions and holidays to their five children. Fully settled into their life in Dillon, the Mata'afas spend their time attending their children's various sporting events and adventuring in the Montana outdoors.

Marcus Lombard

"Honoring my culture and heritage is important because we were raised to take pride in our culture and to not hide it. I want to live in a way that would make my grandparents proud."

Marcus Kelepi Lombard, a mathematics major going into his senior year, is from Laie, Hawaii. Marcus describes his heritage as "mainly Tongan mixed with Irish and German." Coming from a strong cultural background, as is common in the Pacific Islands, Marcus has made Montana feel like a second home by continuing cultural traditions while in school.

Like others, Marcus experienced an adjustment period after moving so far from home.

"Some things I did to adjust to my new surroundings included learning to cook the foods I had when I was back home and make a lot of new friends."

"I enjoy that Dillon is a small country town where people are kind to each other, because that's what my hometown was like."

Madison Richtmyer Named Assistant Women's Volleyball Coach

DILLON, Mont. - Head Coach Katie Lovett has announced the hiring of Bulldog Volleyball alumni Madison Richtmyer as the new Assistant Volleyball Coach.

Richtmyer joins the Bulldogs from Whitehall, Mont. where she most recently served as the Head Volleyball Coach at Whitehall High School. She led the Trojans as the head varsity coach for the last two seasons and made an appearance in the district tournament. She has also coached in the Mountain One Volleyball Club organization.

"We were fortunate to bring Coach Richtmyer into the Whitehall coaching staff on the coattails of her collegiate career at Western. Her experience as a player was of great benefit to our high school program. Now, I am very happy for her to come full circle and return to her alma mater as an experienced coach (though I am sad to see her leave our coaching ranks here). She will be a great addition to the Bulldogs' team." Whitehall Athletic Director Brian Beebe stated.

Richtmyer began her collegiate career at Montana Western in 2016. She played in a total of 55 games as a setter, totaling 598 assists, 268 digs, and averaged 4.4 assists per set across her career. Prior to becoming a Bulldog, Richtmyer was a 2016 graduate of Helena High School where she was a two-time second team all-conference selection and a second team all-state selection.

Home Run Derby

Hand N Hand preschool is hosting a Home Run Derby for their annual fundraiser June 4th, from 12-4pm. This fundraiser provides the preschool the opportunity to offer scholarships to families who may need assistance paying for their child's tuition. The Home Run Derby is open to all ages, even adults! The cost is $10 for 10 pitches.

There will be prizes per age group for those who hit the most home runs that were generously donated by local businesses in our community. Lunch will also be offered from 12-2pm for $5, which includes a hamburger or hot dog and a drink. To help include the younger kids, a duck pond will also be included for $1 a pick- ensuring a little prize for even the little ones! Last but not least, there will be a chance to dunk a local (even our very own preschool teacher) with a dunk tank!

We hope those in our community will come support Hand n Hand preschool and have a funtime!!!

Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks Corner Crossing

In light of the recent U.S. Federal District Court Decision in Wyoming pertaining to the issue of corner crossing, Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks Deputy Director Dustin Temple issued the following statement:

"Corner crossing remains unlawful in Montana, and Montanans should continue to obtain permission from the adjoining landowners before crossing corners from one piece of public land to another," Temple said. "Wardens will continue to report corner crossing cases to local county attorneys to exercise their prosecutorial discretion."
