Donna Kay Cherry, 76

Donna Kay Cherry, 76 passed away on May 23, 2023 at Barrett Hospital and Healthcare in Dillon, MT. Donna was born in Rosebud, MT on August 2, 1946, to Arven C Mooer and Catherine Eva (Bromley) Mooer. She spent her youth in the Rosebud/Forsyth area and attended school in Rosebud.

On May 17th, 1981 Donna was united in marriage to John "Dee" Cherry, Jr. Dee and Donna were married 27 years. She always said that despite the age difference (Dee 55, Donna 34) and challenges, it was the happiest time of her life. And Dee was often quoted as saying "the best thing he ever did was marry Donna." They lived in the Lima, Mt area during their lives together.

If you were well acquainted with Donna you knew that these were some of her favorite things: her agate wedding ring, her dog Cinnamon, the color of lilac, butterflies, old-time country music, coca-cola, playing cards and board based games "but no poker" (her words), doing embroidery, potato soup, Christmas cactus plants, moss roses (because Grandma had them) and being an avid fan of the Lima Bears sport teams.

Donna was a member of the Lima Community Church and helped with AWANAS for many years. She was preceded in death by her husband John "Dee" Cherry, her parents, brothers Gary Mooer (killed in Vietnam), and Ron Bromley.

Donna is survived by a special first cousin Don Polich and wife Heather, special sister in law, Sydna King, and other more distant relatives, and MANY friends, who were often recipients of frequent but brief phone calls.

Graveside services will be tentatively planned for early fall under the direction of Brundage Funeral Home. A notice of the date and time will be published prior to the service.

Memorial donations can be made to the Lima Community Swimming Pool, the Lima Rural Volunteer Fire Department and Ambulance, or the Beaverhead County Animal Shelter in Dillon, MT.

Item added to Parks and Outdoor Recreation Meeting

During its virtual meeting on June 12, the Montana State Parks and Outdoor Recreation Board will discuss administrative rulemaking for the Smith River bonus point system. The meeting begins at 1 p.m.

Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks is proposing rules to establish a Smith River bonus point system in the Administrative Rules of Montana (ARM) pursuant to House Bill No. 846 enacted by the 2023 Legislature. The bill requires the rules to be adopted for residents and nonresidents. The bill also limits the number of Smith River permits that nonresidents may buy to not more than 10 percent of available permits.

Public comment was taken during the consideration of HB 846 in the 2023 Legislature. If the State Parks and Recreation Board approves the department's proposal to initiate rulemaking, the next step would be for the board to consider proposed language from the department. This step would occur at the August 2023 board meeting and include opportunity for the public to comment on the proposed language to the board.

For more information, go to the State Parks and Outdoor Recreation Board webpage.

Trout decline: FWP proposes new regulations, invests in research and monitoring

Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks today announced new investments to research and monitor trout population declines in southwest Montana. The department is also proposing temporary angling restrictions on the Big Hole, Beaverhead and Ruby Rivers to the Fish and Wildlife Commission.

"Trout populations in many streams in southwest Montana have seen decline in recent years, and research continues to point to perennially low stream flows and high water temperatures as contributing factors," said Eileen Ryce, fisheries division administrator for FWP. "Though we don't yet know all we'd like to about what's happening in some of our most iconic rivers in southwest Montana, we can say that it starts with the amount of water in the river over the course of a year, and how warm that water is."

High temperatures and low flows cause stress on fish, which in turns makes them more susceptible to disease impacts. Additionally, it makes recruitment from year to year more of a struggle.

"Coldwater fish like brown and rainbow trout really struggle in low, warm flows, particularly when this happens during spawning or after the eggs hatch," Ryce said.

To limit additional stress on trout, FWP is marshalling resources to assess the impacts of angling on some of the rivers in southwest Montana. The new, in-depth effort will look closely at mortality and any performance or behavioral responses.

With the investment, FWP will also assess what is known about the contributions fish and habitat in tributary streams make to the mainstem waters and how those impact population numbers.

"FWP is committed to bringing more resources to bear to protect trout and get to the bottom of population declines in southwest Montana," said Quentin Kujala, chief of conservation policy for FWP.

In the short term, FWP is proposing new angling restrictions on the Big Hole, Beaverhead and Ruby rivers to the Fish and Wildlife Commission. Broadly, these restrictions would limit angling during the brown trout spawning season, as well as limit take in some stretches of water. Some of the proposals deliberately establish regulation differences across multiple stretches to aid our comparative assessment of impacts.

Underlying these new and additional efforts, FWP will continue fish monitoring efforts around the region, which include sampling of dead and dying fish, as well as streamflow and temperature monitoring.

Researchers Announce OpenAI's GPT-4 Matches or Outperforms Humans in Creative Thinking Tests

A team of interdisciplinary researchers, including Dr. Christian Gilde, Professor of Business at the University of Montana Western, Dr. Erik Guzik, Assistant Professor of Management at the University of Montana, and Dr. Christian Byrge, Professor of Business Creativity at Vilnius University, shared their findings during the University of Southern Oregon's Conference on Creativity from a recent study focused on the creative capabilities of AI. For the first time, OpenAI's GPT-4 scored in the top 1% on the Torrance Tests of Creative Thinking (TTCT), matching or outperforming humans in the creative abilities of fluency, flexibility, and originality.

The research team first met during an innovation and creativity workshop held in 2013 at Boise State University where Dr. Gilde and Dr. Guzik attended a workshop facilitated by Dr. Byrge. The researchers discovered their mutual interest in understanding, promoting, and evaluating creativity.

"As business faculty and researchers, all of us shared an interest in applying technology to business education and development. As we began to explore AI, especially ChatGPT, it became clear the benefits for business applications would be significant. The introduction of ChatGPT creates new opportunities in just about every field and industry, but especially those that depend on creativity, or the ability to generate new and novel ideas that have value," said Dr. Gilde. "This development also forces society to revisit some of the most fundamental questions about creativity, including what the nature of human creativity is and whether creativity is an ability that uniquely separates human beings from machines. Overall, this could prompt a reevaluation of how we define, assess, and develop creativity in education, organizations, and society."

For their latest research project with GPT-4, the researchers were interested in evaluating its creative abilities compared to human creativity.

"GPT-4 was tested eight times through ChatGPT using two variants of the TTCT, the gold standard for researchers assessing creativity. Using the TTCT, we asked GPT-4 to demonstrate its creative abilities by asking questions, guessing causes, contemplating potential consequences, generating ideas for product improvement, envisioning new alternative uses for existing products, and imagining future scenarios," said Dr. Guzik.

The AI's responses were compared to those of humans by Scholastic Testing Services, a third-party evaluator of the TTCT. All eight tests saw GPT-4 score in the top 1% of all human responses for fluency — the ability to produce a large number of responses to each activity.

For flexibility, the ability to produce a variety of ideas and to shift from one approach to another, three tests scored in the top 1%, two in the top 2%, and the remaining three in the top 7%.

"Perhaps most significantly, all eight tests saw GPT-4 score in the top 1% for originality, the ability to produce uncommon or unique responses that defy the commonplace and established norms. This is the first study to show any form of AI as capable of generating original responses that match or exceed the current threshold of human creative abilities," said Dr. Guzik.

The research team predicts that every component of the entrepreneurial process, and business in general, will be affected by AI in the next five years — including identifying unique opportunities and significant problem areas, generating novel solution ideas, improving products, producing new marketing strategies, and imagining future scenarios and outcomes.

"The impact on the launch of new startups and small businesses, important generators of overall economic activity and growth, will be significant. The exceptional creativity exhibited by GPT-4 marks a new phase in AI-driven brainstorming and solution development, which could revolutionize the way startups and small businesses function, innovate, and stay competitive. The typical resource limitations startups and small businesses face, which restrict their ability to employ a large team or invest in comprehensive market research, could be significantly assisted by the creative capabilities of AI. The inventiveness, adaptability, and originality showcased by GPT-4 could serve as an indispensable innovation tool for humans," said Dr. Guzik.

The team's findings, including further research into training GPT-4 to improve its creative abilities in specific domains such as business innovation and entrepreneurship, is planned for publication later this summer.

For more information, please contact Dr. Erik Guzik: 359248@email4pr.com or 406-243-6053.

KENNEL CLUB SPAY/NEUTER CLINICS

The Kennel Club is a group of seven members whose sole function is to provide FREE spay/neuter clinics for dogs and cats belonging to low income families in our community. Though the clinics are free to pet owners, Spay Montana, our mobile provider, has costs we must pay for. Kennel Club works hard throughout the year to bring in the $10,000-$12,000 needed for each clinic. We cannot do this alone, donations, in any amount, will help us continue this much needed service into 2024 and beyond.

Kennel Club is a 501(c)(3) on-profit, and has an account at Stockman Bank. Thank you for nay help you can provide.
