Celebrated Poet Coming to Dillon

Michael Czarnecki will be reading from his vast collection of poetry on Saturday, July 15th at The Bookstore. The event will be from 2:00-4:00 and after Michael does his reading we will be opening up the floor to local writers for a poetry jam. Czarnecki is a poet and publisher. He wrote his first poem more than 56 years ago when he was a junior in high school. He was encouraged by Mr. Kerr, his English teacher and he hasn't stop writing since. He holds fast to the belief that the most important thing we do in our lives is to create - whether it be poems, stories, artwork, music, children or love.

In 1985 he gave first public reading of his work. Since then he has done hundreds of readings throughout the United States. In 1990 he began working in schools as a poet-in-residence and has worked in scores of schools across the country. That was work he did on the side after making a living selling wine for a local winery. It was in 1995 that he could no longer face his job selling wine for a local winery and quit to pursue his writing dreams. He had to face that his day job was draining him, emotionally, physically and spiritually. He knew what he wanted to do - he was a poet and he chose a life as a person that was creative with words. He has never looked back and has been making his living as a poet, publisher, oral memoirist and encourager.

He is very clear about his life sharing this: "Now my work is my life - there is never a moment when I wish I was doing something else. I'm healthier and happier. Maybe not richer in money, but there are other types of wealth not measurable in dollars and cents."

Please join us at The Bookstore on Saturday. If you have any questions please call us at 683-6807

Bannack State Park Bannack Days July 15-16

Bannack State Park's signature event, Bannack Days, is scheduled for the third weekend in July, with many traditional activities, displays and re-enactments celebrating Montana's first territorial capital. Bannack Days are scheduled to happen Saturday, July 15, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., and Sunday, July 16, from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Admission is $5 for individuals ages 6 and older, or $20 per family. Admission is free for children ages 5 and younger. Food and drinks can be purchased from vendors during the event.

There will be a free bus service from the fairgrounds in Dillon to Bannack, with service going to Bannack at 9 a.m. and 11 a.m., and returning to the fairgrounds at 3 p.m. and 5 p.m.

Tyrades! by Danny Tyree

"Have you seen everything you want to see?"

"Yeah. You?"

"Me too. Let's go back home."

That's a paraphrased version of my parents' conversation midway through their honeymoon in 1958. Unimpressed by the hype of an out-of-state adventure, they chose to hightail it back to the real world.

(The real worlds of 1958 and 2023 are strikingly different. Today's "reality" is that your new father-in-law offers to chest-feed any future babies. And pull a bitcoin from their ear.)

How many of the people who giddily tied the knot in June have already settled for the humdrum?

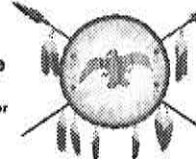

Folks who were all lovey-dovey during the courtship phase are suddenly growling, "You could write wedding vows in the form of an Elizabethan sonnet, but you can't write 'milk' on the shopping list?"

The partner who was with them on Cloud 9 is suddenly, sadistically emitting thunderous noises.

People who were on their best behavior are now letting it all hang out. ("You did a good job of faking things. Well, I've been faking having a work ethic!")

A few ultra-realistic couples may have scrubbed "Just Married" off their car and replaced it with "Just Waiting for the Sweet Embrace of Death."

Like Johnny and June Carter Cash, many of these people got married in a fever. It's only once the hoopla dies down that they realize, "Your lousy health insurance policy treats fever as a preexisting condition!"

Most couples grudgingly admit that the honeymoon is over once they've returned to work and the million-and-one responsibilities of daily living rear their ugly heads. ("There's one rearing its ugly head now. No, wait – that's just your great-aunt Agatha.")

Communication is a big problem for many newlywed couples, although some do remarkably well reading smoke signals. ("Hey! You've got the credit cards smoking!")

Some people experience a smooth transition from romantic love to mature love, but others are blindsided because they were so busy Being in Love with Being in Love. They never got around to discussing whether to have children, which family to spend the holidays with, which relatives to co-sign a loan for, the division of chores, etcetera. ("Hey, I never noticed you have a conjoined twin with a swastika birthmark on their forehead...")

I encountered an online article listing ways to keep the romance alive in a marriage. One pearl of wisdom was "Spend at least 10 minutes a day facing one another with concentrated eye contact." There's quite a bit of incentive there, because the first one to blink has to fill out all the "thank you" cards for wedding gifts!

Even newlyweds who cohabitated for years before finally making it official know that the status quo will change, however subtly. They know that their delightful eccentricities and quirks will become fodder for Dear Abby. You can recognize these men and women at social events because they're the one who always introduces themselves with greetings such as "Hi! I'm Frank (not his real name)."

But you'll occasionally meet seniors who have been wed to their soulmate for 50 or 75 years and swear they're still in their honeymoon phase. I never know how seriously to take these sweethearts.

"We HAVE to stick together, because we've been holding Elvis, Bigfoot, Amelia Earhart and Jimmy Hoffa hostage in the basement. Did you say you're a Tyree? Ah, the Tyrees – the ones who got away..."

Bulldog Volleyball Claims USMC/AVCA Academic Award

The United States Marine Corps and the American Volleyball Coaches Association announced today that 1,333 collegiate and high school volleyball teams have earned the USMC/AVCA Team Academic Award this season. The Montana Western Volleyball team has earned this honor for the fifth time in program history.

The award, initiated in the 1992-93 academic year, honors volleyball teams that maintain a year-long grade-point average of 3.3 on a 4.0 scale or 4.1 on a 5.0 scale.

"The commitment our coaches make to help their student-athletes pursue the best versions of themselves is evident in the academic accomplishments highlighted today," said AVCA CEO Jaime Gordon. "Achievement on the court has always been closely tied to success in the classroom which is reflected by the number of championship programs honored."

About the United States Marine Corps Our long-standing partner, the United States Marine Corps, extends its support to AVCA's administrators and coaches. Just as you make every effort to help your student-athletes succeed, the Marine Corps strives to help every Marine reach their potential. Whether engaging local Marines to work with your athletes or recognizing and referring high-achieving students, your support as an influencer ensures the success of our youth and the future of our nation. For more information about the Marine Influencer Program please visit us at connect.marines.com. About the AVCA The AVCA, an educationally based nonprofit headquartered in Lexington, KY, is the largest and most diverse volleyball coaches' association in the world. With a broad mandate to develop the sport, the AVCA provides leadership, recognition, advocacy, and professional development opportunities to over 8,200 volleyball coaches. Members include college, high school, club, and youth coaches, and well as a wide variety of product and service providers. Further information is available at avca.org.

Missouri Headwaters State Park's Summer Speaker Series presents talk on the life of Lucy Meriwether Lewis Marks

Missouri Headwaters State Park's Summer Speaker Series will host a free Montana Conversations program featuring guest speaker Mary Jane Bradbury, who will present "A Mother's Journey: The Life of Lucy Meriwether Lewis Marks."

The program will begin at 7 p.m. on Saturday, July 15, behind the park office. There is no cost to Montana residents. An $8 entrance fee applies at Montana state parks for all nonresident vehicles. Visitors are encouraged to bring their own chair and bug spray. S'mores will be served afterward.

The story of Thomas Jefferson's Corps of Discovery is engrained in the history of our nation and is essential to our understanding of the past. The story of Lucy Meriwether Lewis Marks—the mother of Meriwether Lewis—remains largely unknown, yet it offers critical insight into our understanding of the intrepid explorer.

Join historical interpreter Mary Jane Bradbury as she unveils the story of this remarkable woman and the indelible impact she had on one of the key players in United States history.

About the speaker

Mary Jane Bradbury is a storyteller and historical interpreter who has traveled the Rocky Mountain West for more than 30 years, bringing history to life for audiences of all ages. She is a member of the Humanities Montana and Colorado Humanities speakers bureaus and is an artist in residence for the C.M. Russell Museum and the Montana Historical Society. Before moving to Montana in 2014, she was an interpreter and re-enactor for the Denver Museum of Nature and Science. She lives in Helena.
