Electric fence workshop

Electric fence workshop scheduled in Red Lodge
August 19

Free workshop will educate public on effective bear deterrent

Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks, in partnership with the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service (USFWS) and the U.S.
Department of Agriculture, is hosting an electric fence workshop in Red Lodge on Aug. 19. The workshop will be held at the Roosevelt Center, located at 519 S. Broadway Ave., from 9 a.m. to 12 p.m. and is free to attend.

Properly designed electric fences are effective at protecting various attractants from bears of both species.
Vulnerable livestock (chicken, goats and sheep), beehives, gardens, fruit trees and barbeque grills are among the many common attractants that can be secured with electric fencing.

Participants in this workshop will learn how to build effective electric fences and how these can be used on their own properties. Livestock electric fences are typically different designs than bear-deterrent electric fences. Area livestock owners, landowners, ranchers and farmers are encouraged to attend, especially those that have observed bears on their properties. Those attending the workshop will have the opportunity to win a set of fence-building equipment.

Grizzly bears in all lower 48 states are federally protected under the Endangered Species Act. Though the USFWS has ultimate authority on the management of grizzly bears, multiple agencies, including FWP, work collaboratively to manage the species.

For those not able to attend the workshop but are interested in electric fencing as bear deterrents, contact Daniel McHugh at 406-850-1131 or visit: [fwp.mt.gov/
binaries/content/assets/fwp/conservation/wildlife-reports/

My Grandson's Loan

Bryce Angell

This year our grandson stays two weeks and time is flying fast.

A nine year old can steal your heart. I wish the days would last.
We finished planting fence posts. It was time to head on in.

We grabbed a stack of grandma's cookies from the cookie bin.
My grandson chomped a cookie down before I took a bite.

And then he asked a question he'd been trying hard to fight.
He took a chair right next to me. Said, "How about a loan?"

I told him that my pocketbook was dang near skin and bone.
He prob'ly knew I had a little money tucked away.

I save for those emergencies we call a rainy day.

I quizzed my grandson 'bout the loan. "How much you got in mind?"

He said, "I'd like five dollars please. I'm kinda in a bind."

As grandpas do, I told him, "I can float you extra cash."

Let's go find Grandma's Bible. That is where I keep my stash."

I slipped him five new dollar bills, plus five more Ones to boot.

I told him I was cleaning out our Bible filled with loot.

My grandson's smile was almost like he'd won the lottery, or maybe like my silly mug when eating bakery.

But then I told my grandson. "Back when I was nine years old.

We didn't have much money, but our life was rich as gold.

"Each morning we were up at five and out to milk the cows.

And some of us were sleepyheads, not easy to arouse.

"We fed the horses, gathered eggs, then caught the bus to school.

We always ate a breakfast. Even now it makes me drool.

"We never had allowance, but we had a horse to ride.

And bullets for the .22 my father would provide.

"So, no one gave us money. We all learned to do without."

That's when I said, "Oh by the way, what is this loan about?"

He said, "You're needing brand new socks. Your toes are sticking through. That's why I needed cash to get a pair of socks for you."

I gazed down at my grandson. Now his purpose came to light. Said,
"Let's head on down to Merckle's. We'll have ice cream floats tonight."

License required for training bird dogs using birds not raised in captivity

Training season with wild birds on public lands begins Aug. 1 for residents

Anyone training bird dogs using game birds not raised in captivity needs to hold a bird dog training license, whether on private or public land. If you are training dogs with captive-reared birds, a license is not required.

These licenses can be purchased online through the FWP Online License Service, any FWP regional office or any license provider. The license is $5 for residents ages 18 and over and $10 for nonresidents 18 and over. For residents and nonresidents ages 12 to 17, the license is free.

Bird dog training season with wild birds on public lands begins Aug. 1 for residents and Aug. 15 for nonresidents and ends March 31, 2024.

The license is a new requirement that came from the 2023 Legislature. While the license requirement is not included in the printed 2023 Upland Game Bird Regulations booklet, it is included in the online version. Please contact your nearest FWP office for questions about dog training relative to this new license requirement.

For those commercially training bird dogs on state trust land, a special recreational use license (SRUL) is required from the Department of Natural Resources and Conservation.

FWP to work with partners to determine cause of trout declines on rivers in southwest Montana

Studies to focus on fish mortality, origins and health

Dead trout. Sick trout. Trout with fungus on their skin. What is going on with the fish of the Big Hole, Beaverhead and Ruby Rivers?

Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks in partnership with the Montana Cooperative Fishery Research Unit (MCFRU) at Montana State University wants to find out. Together, they are launching three studies to determine what is affecting fish abundance in these streams. A fourth study, conducted by FWP, will look at fish health and building capacity to sample fish for diseases.

The public can participate in fish health monitoring by reporting dead and sick-looking fish on the new web portal fwp.mt.gov/sickfish.

As part of the study, fish biologists Matt Jaeger and Jim Olsen are developing adaptive management plans that will inform fishing regulations on the Big Hole, Beaverhead and Ruby rivers.

Beaver Head Hunters Genealogical Society

The Beaver Head Hunters Genealogical Society will be hosting the 13th annual Cemetery Walk on Saturday, August 5 at 2:00 pm. Lynn Giles will talk about one of the Poindexter daughters; Emma May Poindexter Cooney. Then Michele Stephen-Hassard will talk about those who were originally buried in the Poindexter Cemetery and later relocated-- some of them to Mountain View. The story of Poindexter Cemetery is fascinating and add to it the color of those who were buried there and you will come away with a wealth of knowledge. There will be no shade where we will gather, so bring something for shade (an umbrella or hat), water, and a chair.
