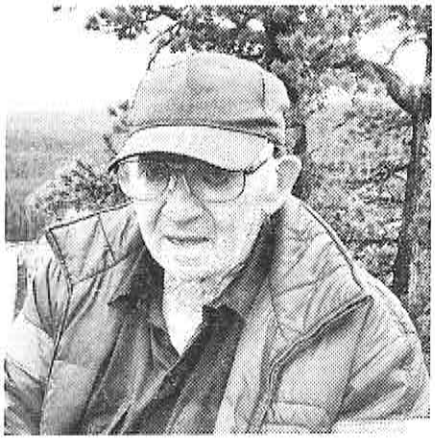
David Paul Larson

September 24, 1936 - August 2, 2023

David Paul Larson, 86, passed away peacefully at home in Sheridan, MT. on August 2, 2023 surrounded by his family. David was born September 24, 1936 to Paul and Ethel Larson in East Garland, UT. He was the oldest of five children, his brother Don, and three sisters Jean, Lara, and Julie. David grew up on the family farm in East Garland, UT. He attended elementary school in Garland and graduated from Bear River High School in Tremonton, UT. in 1954. After high school, he attended Utah Agricultural College (now Utah State University) majoring in agricultural science.



In 1957, David was called to serve a 2 ½ year mission for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints to Stockholm Sweden. While in Sweden he had the opportunity to visit the homestead of his great grandparents.

David served his country from 1960 to 1962 when he enlisted in the army. Upon returning home from the army, David began working at the sugar factory in Garland.

David met Frances Mills in 1964 and they were married for time and all eternity in the LDS Salt Lake temple on March 11, 1965. David and Frances moved to Sheridan, MT. shortly after they were married and made their home on the family ranch. Four children were born to this union, Carol, Lynette, Randy, and Kevin. After the ranch sold in 1986, David continued to work on it for George Wold until George's death in 2007.

David had a very strong work ethic. Besides working on the ranch, he was custodian for the local LDS church building for about 30 years. He was also a part-time custodian for the Sheridan school district for many years until he retired from that position in June 2022.

David was very active in the LDS church and held several positions such as ward clerk, home teacher, and elders quorum and Sunday school presidency. David enjoyed watching sports, especially basketball, hiking in national parks and Logan Canyon, and going to Yellowstone park with his family every year.

David was preceded in death by his parents, his wife Frances, of almost 48 years, his brothers-in-law, Byron Mills, Keith Mills, Mike Munk, Steve Noren, and sisters-in-law Arlene Forde, and Linda Mills.

David is survived by his children, Carol, Lynette, Randy,

Block Management Program information available starting Aug. 10

Block Management Area (BMA) Program information for 2023 will be available to hunters beginning Aug. 10. Hunters can request their BMA Access Guide online and can print individual BMA property maps and rules at fwp.mt.gov/hunt/access/blockmanagement.

The Block Management webpage allows hunters to download the Access Guide, up-to-date BMA maps and rules for every individual BMA enrolled in the program.

These individual BMA property maps and rules are important for hunters to know and understand for each property they plan on hunting. Not all rules or instructions for obtaining landowner permission are listed in the overview guide and are unique to each BMA. The website will also feature a list of BMAs that are restricted or initially closed due to fire danger. Hunters need to use extreme caution when afield due to dry conditions at this time.

Individual BMA property maps and rules are also available at self-serve sign-in boxes, or by calling or visiting FWP regional offices.

Also, as in previous years, some BMAs may have varying dates they are taking hunter reservations. While reservations cannot start before Aug. 22, some BMA reservation start dates will be scattered throughout the season to better accommodate hunter demands. Hunters should check their BMA Access Guide or view the individual BMA map and rules to determine when or if a given BMA will start taking reservations.

And as you're in the field this hunting season taking advantage of the access provided by landowners through the Block Management Program, don't forget to say thank you to Montana landowners who collaborate on access opportunities that benefit wildlife and public hunters. The Block Management Program, through partnerships with private landowners, government agencies and conservation organizations will provide access to over 7 million acres of private and isolated public lands for the 2023 hunting season.

Fishing restrictions to be lifted on some streams in southwest Montana

Fishing restriction and closures on several streams in southwest Montana will be lifted at midnight tonight because of recent cool temperatures and forecasted rain.

This includes the hoot owl restrictions on the lower Beaverhead River, four sections on the Big Hole River, the lower Gallatin River, Jefferson River, the lower Madison River and Ruby River. This also includes lifting the full closure on the Madison below Ennis Dam.

Fishing restrictions, such as hoot owl restrictions and full fishing closures, are designed to protect fish that become more susceptible to disease and mortality when conditions, such as low flows and high water temperatures, combined with other stressors, including catch-and-release fishing.

All stress to fish at this time of year is cumulative, and anglers should consider fishing in cooler waters during times of low flows and high water temperatures in rivers. Anglers can help reduce stress for fish by following these practices when catching and releasing fish, though fish mortality may still occur:

- Fish during the coolest times of day, where permitted.
- Land the fish quickly.
- Wet your hands before handling the fish.
- Keep the fish in water as much as possible.
- Remove the hook gently. Using artificial lures with single and barbless hooks can make hook removal faster and easier.
- If the fish is hooked deeply, you may have to cut the line at the fish's mouth or consider keeping it if regulations allow.
- Let the fish recover before releasing it.

THE HOUSE FUEL MODEL

By "Swede" Troedsson

In 1990 I was dispatched to the Dude Fire, near Payson, Arizona. Prior to my arrival, six firefighters, which included 5 prison convicts and their handler, were killed trying to protect a home.

In my opinion, sometimes when a fire threatens homes (the house fuel model), fire overhead (supervisors) establish priorities to save homes. (Wildland firefighters are not trained in structure protection.) Then sometimes bad decisions are made, and sometimes firefighters die trying to save homes.

In 2013 the Yarnell Hill Fire, near Yarnell, Arizona killed 19 firefighters on their way to protect a home. They were urban structure firefighters who were standing safely in the black (burned over area) when they spotted fire below them threatening homes. Their structure protection instinct kicked in and they decided to leave the safety of the black and travel downhill to try to save the homes. They never made it.

3 women injured by otter on Jefferson River

Three women were injured by an otter Wednesday evening while floating on the Jefferson River.

About 8:15 p.m., the three women were floating on inner tubes about 3 miles upstream from Sappington Bridge when they observed one or two otters. An otter approached and attacked them. The women got out of the water, and the otter swam away.

The women then called 911, and several agencies responded, including Montana Highway Patrol, Jefferson County Sheriff's Office, Jefferson Valley Ambulance, and Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks, Life Flight and a local landowner.

All three women were injured during the encounter and received medical treatment in Bozeman. One of them, whose injuries were more serious, was taken to the hospital in a helicopter.

FWP staff have posted signs at several fishing access sites in the area advising recreationists of otter activity. No further management action is planned at this time.

While attacks from otters are rare, otters can be protective of themselves and their young, especially at close distances. They give birth to their young in April and can later be seen with their young in the water during the summer. They may also be protective of food resources, especially when those resources are scarce. Otters are members of the weasel family.

FWP advises recreationists to keep a wide distance, giving all wildlife plenty of space. In drought conditions, low water levels can bring recreationists closer to water-dwelling wildlife. Being aware and keeping your distance can help avoid dangerous encounters, reduce stress for wildlife, and promote healthy animal behavior. If you are attacked by an otter, fight back, get away and out of the water, and seek medical attention.

COMMUNITY DAY OF SERVICE
