DOJ and Lake County prosecutors looking for victims of 2021 fire

The office of Montana Attorney General Austin Knudsen and the Lake County Attorney's Office are looking to identify victims of the Boulder 2700 fire that destroyed homes, damaged property, and forced evacuations near Finley Point in Lake County, on or about July 31, 2021.

Montanans who had structures destroyed or damaged resulting in a total loss, vehicles destroyed, personal property damaged or destroyed resulting in at least $1,500 of damage, or whose property was threatened and had to be evacuated should contact Detective Brian Hines at the Lake County Sheriff's Office at 406-883-7301 or lcsol@lakemt.gov.

Evidence suggests Craig Allen McCrea started a series of forest fires near Flathead Lake that ultimately destroyed a dozen homes, damaged personal property, and displaced hundreds of people. Damages are estimated to exceed several million dollars. The trial is scheduled to start on October 13, 2023.

Construction Look Ahead:

During the week of August 14, the Montana Department of Transportation (MDT) and Riverside Contracting Inc are paving the north Dillon interchange (Exit 63) on Interstate 15 (I 15), including the on and off ramps. Temporary pavement markings will be placed following paving operations. Traffic control is in place on I 15. Drivers should expect single-lane traffic and reduced speeds between mile markers 63 and 65.

Beginning August 10, the north I 15 interchange is closed for paving. Drivers must use the south interchange (Exit 62) during the closure. Detour signs are in place.

Be prepared for delays before you leave, download MDT's mobile app "MDT 511" or visit 511mt.net [511mt.net] and check your route. If you're driving and want to check in, pull safely off the road and dial 511. Tune in to local radio stations and watch for variable message signs along the route.

Letter to the Editor

On August 9, like many other Dillon residents, I participated in the Community Service Day and was awe-struck to see so many people step up to help others in our community. Perhaps like me, they are hungry to counteract the barrage of negativity fed to us by corporate media. I helped the Women's Resource Center (WRC) staff a table in Jaycee Park, an event sponsored by the local JustService.org.

While I went to and from the WRC building that day, tears welled in my eyes to see how many volunteers were helping the agency. Men, women, young, old, conservatives, liberals, poor, rich; they were all there sharing in a common goal: to make our community a better place. Local folks were painting inside and outside the building. Some were shredding old documents, while others were marking items for WRC's upcoming garage sale, and others helped with a myriad of other tasks. Despite the negative forces that try to divide us, there are many of us who resist and realize we all have something to contribute to the greater good.

BURNS

By "Swede" Troedsson

During my fifteen years as a volunteer EMT in Dillon, Montana, I served on the local ambulance, the ski patrol, and with the local search & rescue. I responded to emergencies involving victims of car and truck accidents, gun shots, a stabbing, drownings, carbon monoxide asphyxiations, heart attacks, suicides, a railroad accident, an airplane crash, a stroke, back country accidents, rodeo accidents, ranch accidents, ski accidents, violent beatings, broken hips, and deaths.

In my experience, I consider burns as the worst trauma.

One evening John Poundstone and I were asked to transport a burn patient to Butte. The woman was horribly burned, a victim of smoking in bed. John was the patient's attendant.

During the hour-long trip, the ambulance filled with the odor of burned flesh. Half way to Butte, John asked me what he should do if the patient stopped breathing. I responded "Bag her!" John said that, he was afraid that, if he applied the resuscitation bag, her face would slide off!

After delivering the patient to St. James Hospital in Butte, we returned to Dillon. As we drove home, the odor of burned flesh had totally permeated our clothing and the ambulance interior.

Upon arriving home in the wee hours of the morning, I deposited my smelly clothing in the laundry hamper. Then I showered and applied liberal amounts of underarm deodorant, followed by brushing my teeth, shaving, and splashing liberal amounts of aftershave lotion onto my face.

Finally, I crawled into bed, convinced that I would no longer experience the odor of burned flesh. But then, I belched just as I was falling asleep! The odor of burned flesh returned.

The patient died in the Houston Burn Center.

UMW Volleyball 2023 Season Preview

The University of Montana Western Volleyball Team is set to begin the 2023 campaign next week with their first road trip of the season. They were recently picked to finish third in the Frontier Conference preseason polls in a vote of the league's coaches.

Despite falling to a tough Rocky Mountain team in the conference tournament championship at the end of the 2022 campaign, the Bulldogs had their first double-digit win season since 2016. The Bulldogs also had their highest winning percentage since the 2005, finishing 12-17 overall.

The Bulldogs return 12 players from last season's squad, including all four 2022 all-conference players and all-freshman team honoree. "We are excited to start this year with a lot of experienced athletes and pick up this season where we left off." Head Coach Katie Lovett said. "The team worked extremely hard in the off-season and pushed each other to get out of their comfort zones. We have a tough schedule as always, but I believe in each of these players to give their full effort and rise up to the challenge." First team all-conference outside hitter Jazi Smith, a 5'11 junior from Mossyrock, Wash., found herself on the single season leaderboards after last season, slotting in at third in UMW history for single season kills (305) and kills per set (2.88). Smith ranked third in the conference for kills per set after she averaged 2.88. "Jazi really got into a groove the last half of the 2022 season and hasn't slowed down since." Lovett added. "We expect her to be one of our go-to hitters this season and she brings an incredible work ethic to the court."

Kelsey Goddard, a 5'7 junior from Las Vegas, Nev., returns after earning second team all-conference accolades. She totaled 535 total digs last season (fourth in the conference), surpassing 1,000 career digs during the Frontier Conference Tournament at just a sophomore. Jordan Olson, a 6'1 sophomore from Billings, Mont., earned her spot on the all-conference freshman team last season and will look to build on her early success into 2023.

The Bulldogs bring back both middle blockers in Danyel Martin and Peyton Vogl. Martin, a 6'2 redshirt junior from McAllister, Mont. earned second team all-conference honors in 2022. Martin played in 26 matches last season, had an impressive .245 hitting percentage and totaled 82 blocks. Vogl, a 6'0 junior from Townsend, Mont., returns as a key asset for the Bulldogs. Vogl tallied 213 kills last season, ranking third in the Bulldogs arsenal. She also led UMW in blocks with 96, ranking fifth in the conference for blocks per set with 0.91.

Rounding out the returners for the Bulldogs is Kaylee Fritz and KayLee Kopp. Kopp, a 5'9 redshirt senior from Fort Collins, Colo., totaled 2.52 kills per set and sat in second on the team for kills with 267. Kaylee Fritz, a 5'7 junior from Kalispell, Mont., had a big year in 2022. Back on October 20th, Fritz surpassed 1,000 career assists after just two seasons. She earned player of the week honors three-times while recording 940 assists during the 2022 campaign. Montana Western also welcomes transfer Morgyn Harrison this season. Harrison joins the Bulldogs from Western Washington University where she utilized her redshirt season last year. She is a 2022 graduate of Chelan High School where she was a two-time state champion who earned All-State honors twice. "Morgyn is our only transfer and will add depth to our defense. She has phenomenal range in defense and can read the offense with ease." Lovett said.

Lovett announced five incoming athletes in the 2023 recruiting class back on April 26th.
