BCHS Receives Northwestern Energy Academic Excellence Award

Jeremy Crawford, Southwestern Montana News

Before Friday night's football game against the Hamilton Broncos the athletes took to the field to receive an award from Northwestern Energy.

Students involved in extracurricular activities in Beaverhead County High School have the highest G.P.A. over all other class A schools. The G.P.A. average was 3.605. Senior Jon Peterson of the BCHS Football accepted the award while surrounded by the football team and fellow contributing students.

Those contributing to the award are all varsity letter winners in all MHSA sanctioned sports, all music students who received a superior rating at the district music festival, all speech/drama students who participated in the state meet, and all varsity cheerleaders.

Camping Debauch

Bryce Angell

My wife, Terri, has always loved being outdoors. She hikes through Yellowstone Park every year and in January of 2024 will hike, with her girlfriends, in the territory of Patagonia. She skis cross country, right out our back door. She also has a mountain bike that racks up the miles of her hard labor. She is not a novice to camping and spending time away from the comforts of home.

On one particular afternoon, finishing her ride on the mountain bike, she asked me if I would consider investing, as she called it, in a bike for myself. I almost choked on my raspberry-filled donut. And then she said, if I would consider buying, we could take both our bikes up to Stanley, Idaho for my first experience on a mountain bike. She would pack all the camping gear, set it up and do the cooking.

I caved in to her request and paid more for the bike than I would have paid for a saddle horse.

A week later we arrived at Redfish Lake, unloaded the bikes and found a trail suitable for me to begin. Terri was very encouraging but the trail was so rocky we turned around arriving back to camp. A total of two hours of biking.

The day was winding down and I was dug out to my toenails hungry. So, I offered to help set up camp and even to cook. First thing, we grabbed the tent and set out all the pieces to it. No tent fly. That wasn't a big deal as the weather was supposed to be warm. Next we squared up the tent, hammered stakes in each corner, and I reached in the bag to discover no tent poles. Once again not a serious problem. We would put our sleeping bags in the tent and sleep with the roof of the tent laying on top of us. But wouldn't you know it? No sleeping bags to be found. Both of them still tucked away at home on the camping shelf.

Terri was devastated. I assured her our trip was still going to be enjoyable, as it had been so far. We would pack up our gear, find a restaurant, order prime rib and then laugh about what happened during our four hour ride home. Finally a smile on her face.

After a short drive, and my belly thinking its throat was cut, we sat down and ordered prime rib. I would be taking out a 2nd loan on my truck just to pay for dinner.

I couldn't help but notice our waiter was a little tipsy. Each time he helped a table, he would then walk to the bar and tip one up. By the time our meal came I was helping him carry our plates so our dinner didn't end up on the floor. He was then escorted off the floor by the manager-his wife. He received a standing ovation from those of us in the dining room.

Our trip was turning out to be a success. The prime rib was the best I've eaten in years and the entertaining drunk waiter, let's just say we are still laughing about it.

After we left the restaurant I managed to convince my wife there must have been a real reason why we weren't sleeping in our tent. Who knows, with the luck we were having a grizzly bear probably would have wandered into our camp and paid us a visit.

Our camping debacle turned out to be one of the better Friday night dates with my wife. We had never laughed so much. But now that I think of it, where was the cooler with the t-bone steaks, the baked beans and the ambrosia salad? Hmm?

Bulldog Football Upsets No. 11 Ranked Montana Tech

The Montana Western football team (4-1, 2-1) took down the No. 11 ranked Montana Tech Orediggers (4-2, 3-1) this afternoon after the Bulldog offense rattled off a total of 497 yards. The Bulldog defense also held the Orediggers to a single score in the second half.

"Really proud of the guys and what they did during the bye week. Our three goals were to improve, improve and improve and that is what they did," Head Coach Ryan Nourse said. "They went out and they improved on the details that they knew they would need to. This week, they were just focused and workmanlike. It was all straight up let's do what it takes to win the game."

How it Happened: The Orediggers were quick to score in the first quarter, picking up an early 7-0 just over two minutes into the game. Montana Western answered on their opening drive of the game, going 75 yards in four minutes to score a touchdown off of an 11-yard rush from Jake Humphrey.

The following Oredigger drive was cut short following a fumble by the MT offense that was picked up by linebacker Kameron Rauser who recorded a scoop and score for a total return of 43 yards. With the Bulldogs up 14-7, the Orediggers worked to tie the game just before the second quarter at 14.

UMW remained in control of the ball heading into the second quarter and capped off a 15-play 8-minute drive with a field goal from John Mears that gave UMW the lead once more.

Following another successful drive for the Orediggers that gave them the scoring edge, the Bulldogs were able to capitalize just before the half on a pass from Michael Palandri to Eli Nourse for a touchdown.

Up 24-21 at the start of the second half, the Bulldog defense held strong throughout the quarter. The Orediggers worked to get down to the Western 25-yard line, but were forced to kick a field goal after a big third down stop by the defense. Bulldog linebacker Braden Smith was able to get a hand on the ball and block the kick from Oredigger kicker Ryan Lowry.

The Bulldogs capitalized and scored on the following drive as Palandri rushed it in 13 yards for a touchdown, claiming a 31-21 lead.

The Bulldog defense held strong once more forcing a stop that fueled a 9-play scoring drive once more for the offense. Palandri's hand-off to Nourse was good for a touchdown to bring the score to 38-21. Despite allowing the Orediggers to claim their lone score in the second half, the Bulldogs were able to claim victory by a score of 38-28.

Patagonia Outlet Dillon
 Join us and Pete Bengueyfield as he walks us through his beautiful gallery of African animals and sights. These wildlife images depict not only individual species, but also the behavior that gives insight into their lives. All animals are wild, free roaming, and in their natural habitats. It is Pete's hope that these images create an appreciation of wild country, and an acknowledgement of the importance of protecting it in the future.
 This event benefits Montana Wildlife Federation.
 Suggested donations are a minimum of $5/attendee.

Beavers Settle Debate On Who Is #1 With 35 To 7 Win Over Broncs

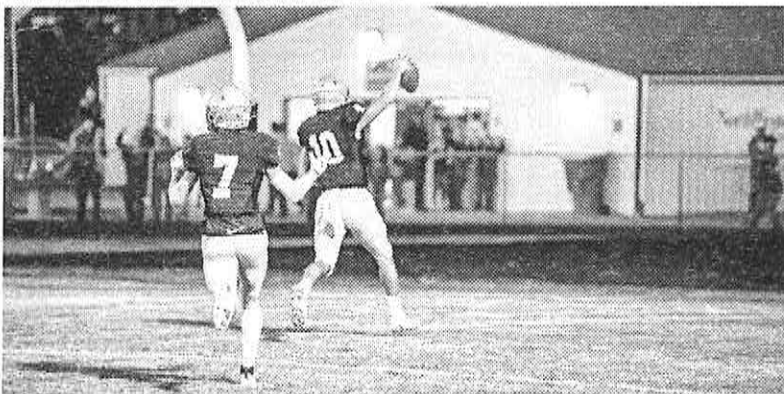

Jeremy Crawford, Southwestern Montana News

Leading up to Friday nights game some polls had Dillon Ranked number 2 and Hamilton ranked in first place while other polls showed the Beavers in first place.

Friday night Dillon took to Vigilante Field to prove they are number one.

The game got off to Dillon scoring quickly and ending the first quarter 13 to 0. Hamilton would come back in the second quarter to put up 7 points on the board.

Hamilton would not see the endzone the rest of the game as the beavers put 12 more points up to end the game with the win and a final score of 35 to 7.
