Secretary Christi Jacobsen announces winners of 2023 U.S. Constitution Contest

Montana Secretary of State Christi Jacobsen is pleased to announce the winners of the 2023 Secretary of State's U.S. Constitution Contest. Students from across Montana participated in this year's contest, which was titled "What Promises of the Preamble to the U.S. Constitution Mean the Most to Me and Why?".

Ennis High School senior Seeley Driskill garnered first-place honors in the high school contest. Driskill's essay, Security, detailed numerous promises in the Preamble and how they applied to the life of a high school senior.

"Despite the fact the Preamble was written hundreds of years before I ever existed, I find it fascinating that it still has such an impact on me, my friends, and my family to this day," Driskill wrote.

Driskill's classmate, Bailey Fouraker, earned a runner-up nod for the essay, Living Water. Last year's Constitution Contest winner Michael Faccenda of Great Falls Central Catholic was named the third-place recipient for his essay.

Alexandra Abbott (Jefferson High School), Cheyanne Dinneen (Alberton High School), and Elizabeth Olson (Ennis High School) were also honored for their work in the contest.

"These high school students did an outstanding job capturing the meaning of the various promises in the Preamble," said Secretary Jacobsen. "I was impressed and moved when reading their experiences and ties to this significant document."

"Congratulations to Seeley Driskill and the rest of the high school students on their wonderful work," Secretary Jacobsen continued.

Target Range School (Missoula) seventh grader Violet Schooler was named the middle school winner for her poem, America Made. Schooler's poem explained how the Preamble to the U.S. Constitution was created with the future in mind.

"We are the posterity of America. Those great Americans who fought for freedom did it for the sole purpose of providing a better country for us," Schooler explained.

"A shared idea,
A hope, and dream,
To 'secure the blessings of Liberty'

To protect us, the US posterity."

Secretary Jacobsen applauded Schooler on her extraordinary poem. "Violet's poem was beautifully written and provided an excellent description of what it must have been like during the creation of the Preamble," said Secretary Jacobsen. "Congratulations Violet, and thank you for submitting such a wonderful poem."

Stillwater Christian seventh grader Clara Carroll earned second-place honors, while homeschool student Aria Tercek placed third. Plevna students Leona May and Enma Thielen joined Stillwater Christian's Madison Broker in also being recognized for their submissions.

All winners will be invited to attend the annual Constitution Day celebration in the State Capitol in September 2024.

BLM Seeks Nominations to the Western Montana and Missouri Basin Resource Advisory Councils

The Bureau of Land Management is seeking public nominations for positions on the Western Montana and Missouri Basin Resource Advisory Councils. These citizen-based councils assist in the development of recommendations that address public land management issues within Montana, North Dakota and South Dakota.

The BLM maintains resource advisory councils chartered under the Federal Advisory Committee Act and the Federal Land Policy and Management Act across the West. Each resource advisory council consists of 10 to 15 members from diverse interests in local communities, and they assist in the development of recommendations that address public land management issues.

"Resource advisory councils provide the BLM with vital feedback on current issues, concerns, and proposals, and enable us to engage local communities and stakeholders to improve our management of public lands," said BLM Montana/Dakotas State Director Sonya Germann. "Our goal is to ensure that the membership of every resource advisory committee encompasses a wide variety of perspectives and backgrounds to guide our work as effectively as possible."

The BLM maintains RACs as a means of gaining expert advice, ideas, and diverse opinions on issues including land use planning, environmental issues, fire management, off-highway vehicle use, recreation, oil and gas exploration, noxious weed management, grazing issues, and wild horse and burro herd management issues. The RACs support the Bureau's commitment to enhance the quality of life for all citizens through the balanced stewardship of America's public lands and resources.

Individuals may nominate themselves or others to serve on the resource advisory council. Nominees, who must be residents of the state where the resource advisory council has jurisdiction, will be reviewed based on their training, education, and knowledge of the council's geographic area. Nominees should also demonstrate a commitment to consensus building and collaborative decision-making. Letters of reference should accompany all nominations from any represented interests or organizations, a completed resource advisory council application, and any other information that speaks to the nominee's qualifications.

The resource advisory council is seeking nominations for the following categories:

- Category One – Representatives of organizations associated with
