WHAT CAN THE NATIVITY TEACH US?

Tyrades! by Danny Tyree

I realize that not everyone recognizes Jesus Christ as the Son of God (or even a real person); but for Christians, his birth, ministry, death and triumph over death fit the "right place at the right time" for fulfilling prophecies of the Messiah.

Perhaps that is one of the most constructive themes to explore this holiday season and in the coming year: striving to be in the right place at the right time.

Common courtesy dictates punctuality and following directions, but there's much more to it than that.

Sure, the limitations of the human mind leave us zigging instead of zagging in this complex world. Pure dumb luck can land us in calamitous circumstances due to no fault of our own.

But…

…often we are "cruising for a bruising." We make ill-advised snap decisions or gradually become trapped in a routine that is less than ideal for ourselves, our family or our community.

"Mama Told Me (Not to Come)" was a tongue-in-cheek hit for songwriter Randy Newman and rock group Three Dog Night; but it's also true that we frequently ask for trouble with our choices of friends, hang-outs and pastimes. (Yes, Billy Joel, sometimes running with a "dangerous crowd" does hurt someone.)

Many innocent people wind up in jail because their lifestyle made their guilt downright plausible. ("Abstain from all appearance of evil," the apostle Paul advised.)

All God's children have troubles, but some of our solutions are merely treating the symptoms. And in the case of substance abuse as a coping mechanism, not treating the symptoms very successfully at all. "At the bottom of a whisky glass, all day long" is neither the place nor time for making rational decisions.

Even laudable endeavors such as good, honest work can pose risks of being in the wrong place at the wrong time. Yes, many people are living paycheck to paycheck; but others have the privilege of declaring "Enough is enough." Once you have a roof over your head, food on the table and an emergency fund, is it really wise to keep working extra just for things?

Put "Cat's in the Cradle" on the stereo and see if you don't start thinking that perhaps the right place and right time is "Tina's school play at 7 p.m." instead of "at the office until daybreak."

With all the opportunities for mentoring, donating food, collecting clothing, visiting shut-ins and cleaning up neighborhoods, there's certainly a buyer's market for volunteerism. Maybe "scrunched down in the back row every time there's a call for raised hands" is not the best place and time.

According to the book of James, "To him that knoweth to do good and doeth it not, to him it is sin."

"On the top side of the ground, while you're both still breathing" constitutes the only chance for rebuilding bridges that have been burned; but some people are too prideful to take the first step toward clearing the air over some slight — real or imagined. That baby in the manger did not grow up to promote such stubbornness.

I wish each of you a joyous holiday season. But as you map out who sits where or strategize a timeline for taking down the decorations, I hope you'll also make a commitment to consider the right place and time for life's more substantive endeavors.

Missoula BLM seeks public comment on Garnet fee proposal

The Bureau of Land Management's Missoula Field Office seeks public comment on a proposal to increase visitor fees at Garnet Ghost Town.

The Field Office's proposal includes raising the existing standard amenity fee and cabin rental fees at Garnet to levels consistent with similar amenities in the area. The current fee for visiting Garnet is $3 per person 16 and older; the field office proposes raising that to $10. Winter cabin rental fees for Dahl Cabin would go from $40 per night to $50 per night; rental fees for McDonald Cabin would go from $30 to $50 per night.

This will be the first time that visitor fees have been raised at the mining town since 2005.

"Collecting fees at Garnet Ghost Town ensures funding is available to preserve the historical value of Garnet for the public," said Maria Craig, Outdoor Recreation Planner for the Missoula Field Office. "The revenue also allows us to adequately staff our education and

CWD management hunt to open in portion of lower Ruby Valley
Hunt runs from Dec. 15 through Feb. 15

A chronic wasting disease (CWD) management hunt will be held for all white-tailed deer and antlerless mule deer in a portion of Hunting District 322 in the lower Ruby Valley.

The hunt will run from Dec. 15 through Feb. 15. Valid licenses, which will be available for purchase during the hunt, will include:

- General deer license: valid for antlerless mule deer or either sex white-tailed deer
- 003-00 white-tailed deer B license: valid for either sex white-tailed deer
- 399-00 white-tailed deer B license: valid for either sex white-tailed deer

The area of the hunt is known to have a high prevalence of CWD. The goals of the management hunt are to reduce the white-tailed deer population and to increase the CWD test sample size from a localized herd of mule deer to improve the accuracy of prevalence estimates.

CWD is a fatal, contagious neurological disease that infects deer, elk and moose. CWD surveillance across southwest Montana over the past three years, including broad CWD management hunts, continues to illustrate a localized area of high prevalence among deer in the lower Ruby Valley, surrounded by an area of low prevalence.

So far this season, CWD has been found in 71 percent of white-tailed does, 73 percent of white-tailed bucks and five of 10 adult mule deer harvested within the management hunt area.

The management hunt area includes almost exclusively private lands south of Twin Bridges along the Beaverhead and Ruby rivers. A map of the hunt area can be downloaded here: Southwest Montana CWD Hunt Area 2023-24.

As always, landowner permission is required before hunting on private lands. The relatively small hunt area will limit the number of hunters who can participate. All other 2023 hunting regulations apply, including regulations on carcass disposal. Information on proper carcass disposal can be found online at fwp.mt.gov/CWD.

Due to high CWD prevalence in this area, FWP recommends that hunters have their harvested animals tested. Some participating ranches will require testing as a condition of hunting. FWP pays for the testing, making it free for hunters. FWP has provided resources to help hunters collect and submit samples for testing on their own. These resources can be found online at fwp.mt.gov/CWD. Hunters can also call a regional FWP office to schedule an appointment if they need help collecting a CWD sample.

CWD was first detected in Montana's wild cervids in 2017. It has since been detected widely along Montana's northern and southern borders. CWD was first detected among white-tailed deer in the Ruby Valley in 2019 and is now known to occur in the Ruby, Beaverhead, Big Hole and Jefferson watersheds.

CWD is not known to infect humans. However, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention recommends that people not eat meat from infected animals and have their harvested animals tested before eating them if they were taken from an area where CWD is known to exist. For more information on CDC recommendations, please visit go.usa.gov/xAcnc.

Bulldog Football Picks Up Two NAIA All-Americans

After what proved to be an impressive season and posting their first outright conference championship since the 1995 season, the Montana Western football team had two players named as NAIA All-Americans.

UMW quarterback Michael Palandri and UMW offensive lineman Marcus Lombard each earned a selection on the NAIA Coaches' All America Third-Team.

Palandri, a 6-1, 215lb quarterback from Maple Valley, Wash., earns his first career All-American nod following a breakout season for the young quarterback. Palandri was also chosen as the Frontier Conference Offensive Player of the Year after he led the conference with 269.0 passing yards per game (eighth in the NAIA). His pass efficiency rating of 165.5 also ranked him at sixth in the country. He found himself in the top 15 for total completions, completion percentage, total passing yards, yards per game, and total touchdowns.

Lombard, a 6-1, 300lb offensive lineman from Laie, Hawaii, earnes his first All-American honor after another impressive season on the offensive line. He was also previously named Frontier first team all-conference offense. This season, the Bulldog offense led the conference and was fifth in the NAIA with 455.5 yards of offense per game. UMW also led the Frontier after they averaged 176.9 rushing yards per game (22nd in NAIA) and averaged 36.8 points per game (2nd in FC, 15th in NAIA).
