His Morning Chew

Bryce Angell

The sign read, on the classroom door, "You've been assigned a seat."
I left my house at 4 a.m. Hadn't taken time to eat.
If I'd have stopped at Denny's for their eggs and bacon plate,
I'd still be on the road and walking in an hour late.
So, I gazed across the rows of cowboy hats and bolo ties.
Then read my name pinned to a chair. Could not believe my eyes.
'Cuz my seat was in the front row. One I didn't want to keep.
Just feet from the instructor. How was I to get some sleep?
The time was 8 o'clock straight up. I hurried to my chair.
The instructor stood and introduced himself as Mr. Blair.
His pants and shirt were pressed and not a hair was out of place.
He wore a gentle smile on a fresh clean shaven face.
His Charvet Silken Men's bowtie was expensive but the best.
He was a proper gentleman, aside from all the rest.
And sitting there beside me was a grizzled ornery type.
His eyes were red and swollen and he smelled Jack Daniels ripe.
I watched him take a can of Coke and down in one big gulp. Then promptly stuffed his cheek, plumb full of Beech-Nut chewing pulp.
The rough old fellow tore the lid right off the can of pop.
He spit some drool. His aim was true and didn't miss a drop.
All morning I would see him slobber chew into the can.
Each time he spit, my stomach rolled. There ought to be a ban.
And then our fine instructor spoke right up and saved the day.
He straightly told the gruff old man, "Sir, put your chew away!"
The old man then obliged him. Spit the whole of darkest brown.
Then put the can up to his mouth and drank it all straight down.
Our traumatized instructor tossed his waffles on the floor.
My stomach was plumb empty or there'd been more puke for sure.
The class dismissed for lunch but not a single person ate.
Each said they'd lost their appetite. One said, "I'd rather wait."
There was no sign of the old man. Did not come back to class.
I wondered if our queasy stomach teacher chewed his butt?
I understand a man who chews. But in class there's no excuse.
So if you're sitting next to me please swallow all your juice.

CONTROLLED BURN TURNS WILD

Jeremy Crawford, Southwestern Montana News

The Dillon Volunteer Fire Department was called out Friday afternoon to Dancing Wind Lane behind Sweetwater Estates on reports of a fire.

A local; burning pile of debris had the fire get away from them and spread to nearby fields. With multiple tankers from the Fire Department and help from the DNRC the fire was able to be contained and extinguished quickly. A total of 41 acres were burned.

As a reminder you do need a burn permit if you are planning a burn. You can find those here the website can also be used to check for current registered burn permits, activate an existing burn permit, and renew a burn permit.

MT 41 Twin Bridges Bridge Reopened

Jeremy Crawford, Southwestern Montana News

Earlier in the week the Twin Bridges bridge on MT-41 was closed down to structural integrity failures and a detour route was established the following days. This route was for locals only and asked all others to go through Butte to down I-15 South. Today the bridge reopened to all traffic.

MDOT did some work on the bridge, they were able to shore up the failed sections and make it safe for travel once again. The bridge is open to all traffic at this time.

Letter to the Editor

Supports Maness for House District 70.

I am writing this letter to endorse Shannon Maness for House District 70. He exemplifies the qualities of conservative commitment, Christian values, honesty and service we look for in a true representative of our county.

Shannon has a wife and two elementary age school children. He has shown his commitment to education by attending the school board meetings for years and being elected to the District 10 School board last year. He holds a degree in Animal Science which gives him a good understanding of Southwest Montana and the agriculture industry. Attending church weekly, he lives his commitment. His word is his promise.

Shannon began attending Beaverhead-County Republican meetings and became a member over 10 years ago. He soon became a Precinct man and shortly thereafter was elected to Secretary-Treasurer. He has served on every committee and attended State Republican Conventions. He knows the issues and the platform.

Who is the real Republican?

I'm urging you to support Shannon Maness on June 4th.

Nancy Johnson, Dillon

Bulldog Men and Women Both Finish Second in Pair of MSU Spring Rodeos

The Montana Western rodeo team kicked off the spring with the Montana State University Spring Rodeos #1 and #2.

Bulldog sophomore Tavy Leno rounded out the weekend by winning the women's all-around title on Sunday afternoon. She placed third overall in the average of the women's breakaway roping while also finishing in second in women's goat tying in the average.

In addition, Laura Haight had a tremendous breakout weekend for the Bulldog women. She took home the barrel racing title in the first rodeo on Friday night and finished with four clean runs on the weekend.

"It has been a long two days. Our athletes competed really hard and I am really proud of them," Head Coach JT Robbins said. "Some of our athletes really stepped up like Laura Haight, it is really hard to get in four barrel runs in this building like that. Tavy Leno winning the all-around is huge. I am just proud of the whole group."

Top Performers Rodeo #1

- After recording two rides in saddle bronc, Cade Costello scored a total of 127 points to take first in the average.
- Laura Haight finished first in the barrel racing average, recording a combined 29.18 on both nights.
- Trevor Kay finished second in the average in bareback riding after totaling 142 points on his two rides.
- Cole Trexler finished second in steer wrestling with an 11.1.
- Tavy Leno finished second in breakaway roping with an average of 7.0. She also finished fourth in goat tying with a combined 19.2 in the average.
- Desi Coombs followed with a 2.4 in her first run to finish third in breakaway roping.
