Cubs Pick Up A Win And A Loss On The Road

Jeremy Crawford, Southwestern Montana News

Tuesday, June 11 the Dillon Cubs hit the road to take on the Bozeman Bucks. The Cubs were able to capture a win of 13 to 11 on their first game, but they would take a loss on the second game with the final score being 8 to 13.

The Bucks would get on the board first in the second inning when Lucas Cook singled, scoring one run.

The Cubs would come back in the top of the third inning to take the lead after Andrew Bartlome singled, and Cohen Hartman doubled, each scoring one run.

The Bucks would take the lead back in the bottom of the fifth after Cody Smith singled, Gabe Stordahl singled, Lucas Cook walked, and Grayson Herz hit a sacrifice fly, each scoring one run.

The Cubs would capitalize on an error by the Bucks tying the game at five in the top of the sixth.

The Cubs would flip the game on its head in the top of the seventh, scoring eight runs on one hit to take a 13-8 lead. The biggest blow was a fielder's choice by Andrew Bartlome that drove in two.

Kanin Englehardt, Kale Konen, and Cohen Hartman each collected two hits for the Cubs. Andrew Bartlome and Cohen Hartman were tough to handle back-to-back in the lineup, as each drove in two runs for the Cubs. The Cubs had 10 walks for the game. Tristan Alvarez, Marcus Lagunas, and Garrett Tackett led the team with two bases on balls each. Kale Konen tallied three stolen bases.

Game 2

The Cubs lost game two despite out hitting the Bucks twelve to seven. Andrew Bartlome led the Cubs with three hits.

Officer identified in Cut Bank officer-involved critical incident

The Cut Bank Police Department today identified the officer and suspect involved in the officer-involved critical incident Saturday, June 8 in Cut Bank.

Cut Bank Police Officer Jesse Adame, a five-year veteran of the Department, witnessed what appeared to be a disturbance in front of the Den bar early Saturday morning. The suspect, identified as 42-year-old Harley Olson of Cut Bank, left the scene, and entered his vehicle. Officer Adame approached Olson's vehicle to investigate. As he did so, Olson struck Officer Adame with his vehicle, causing injuries. In response to the threat, Officer Adame discharged his duty weapon, striking Olson. Olson died as a result of his injuries.

Adame remains on administrative leave by policy until an internal review is complete and until he recovers from his injuries. An independent investigation is also being conducted by the Montana Division of Criminal Investigation (DCI) at the request of the Cut Bank Police Department. The Glacier County Attorney's Office will schedule a coroner's inquest once the DCI report is complete. The coroner's inquest is a public hearing where all facts of the case will be presented to a coroner's jury for final determination.

FWP director, governor celebrate encouraging trout counts in the Big Hole River

Joining Governor Greg Gianforte, Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks Director Dustin Temple yesterday celebrated rising trout counts in the Big Hole River at a trout habitat improvement project.

"Our latest annual spring survey numbers are promising and while they do give me hope, we still have a long way to go," Director Temple said. "I am proud of the department's biologists' hard work. We will continue to make the Big Hole a top priority."

FWP Director Temple and Governor Gianforte receive an update from FWP biologist Jim Olsen regarding the latest trout spring survey numbers from the Big Hole River.

"The Big Hole is one of our prized rivers that supports the livelihoods of thousands of Montanans and it's great to see encouraging numbers for trout across all areas of the Jefferson Basin," Gov. Gianforte said. "I am grateful to FWP for addressing community concerns with declining populations and finding solutions."

Visiting the project near Wise River, the director heard from FWP biologist Jim Olsen on the results of their annual spring fish population survey that show stable or increased counts of brown and rainbow trout populations in all four sections of the river. The most promising piece of data from the spring survey is the rising number of 2-year-old trout – the largest sample collected in the last six years. All four sections of the Big Hole that were monitored at least doubled the number of juvenile fish.

"While we're still well below long-term averages, these numbers are encouraging," Olsen said. "We don't get big ones unless we get little ones, and we haven't seen a strong year like this in a while."

The visit to the project comes nearly a year after the governor and FWP convened a roundtable discussion, bringing together fishing guides, anglers, irrigators, ag producers and biologists to discuss declining trout populations in the Jefferson Basin.

Since 2011, trout populations have steadily declined in several areas of the Big Hole, Beaverhead and Ruby rivers. In response, last year, FWP invested $3.2 million in monitoring efforts along the Big Hole to respond to declining populations and help manage the resource.

"The rivers in southwest Montana, including the Big Hole, are one of the agency's top priorities," Director Temple said. "I am proud of the department's biologists who are working on this every day to provide incredibly valuable insight into this issue. While we still have a long way to go, these numbers are encouraging and give me hope for the future of this fishery."

In response to population declines, FWP, in partnership with Montana State University (MSU), last summer launched several research efforts to study fish mortality, juvenile fish and fish health to better understand the causes of these declines, which are linked to flows, water temperature, disease and other factors. The university recruited a team of graduate students and technicians to conduct the trout recruitment and determine where the young fish are coming from. They are also looking to identify any bottlenecks at the juvenile stage.

"We've brought together a great team of new people here at MSU to collaborate with the experienced professionals at FWP as well as interact with the anglers and other river users," MSU professor Dr. Alexander Zale said. "We're making good progress and I'm very excited to start seeing findings come in soon."
