THANK YOU

Commanders Steve Esquibel of Bill Carroll VFW Post 9040 and Lois Volkening of Beaverhead American Legion Post 20 would like to recognize Bryan Coble of Brundage Funeral Home for his donation of funds to procure uniform shirts for the Honor Guard that performs military honors at veteran's funerals in Beaverhead County.

Bryan approached Steve, also the commander of the Honor Guard, last fall with the idea of getting the shirts. The Brundage donation resulted in all members of the Honor Guard having the uniform shirts by this year's Memorial Day observance at the Mountain View cemetery.

"These uniform shirts make our Honor Guard look so much more professional and enhances the respect these volunteers have for our departed veteran comrades and their families" Commander Volkening said.

Many thanks to Bryan and Brundage Funeral Home for their generous donation.

Independence Day Bryce Angell

Each Independence Day our families meet to reunite.

A day of food and fun. Topped with a rodeo at night.

Pot luck was on the menu, from green salads to baked beans.

And a steaming pot of tube steaks. The meat of easy means.

With bellies full of hot dogs, when the baked beans were all gone, we'd find some shade from July's heat and stretch out on the lawn.
Then the young ones all played softball, knocking home runs to the sky.

While the older men honed speeches about the 4th day of July.

The oldest uncle of our family called to gather 'round.

He quizzed us 'bout our freedoms how we fought to own the ground.

His expression turned more serious. Here's what he had to say.

"We fought a war for freedom 'twas a heavy price to pay.

"Two hundred years ago the world would know this fateful day.

We gained our independence. No more taxes sent their way."

And then my father chimed in 'bout the days of World War II.

And how the men fought bravely for the freedoms that we knew.

He said he won't forget when they were sailing back to shore.

The sailors saw the Golden Gate, knew they were home for sure.
Old Glory was then lowered. Sailors walked down off the ship.

He watched the toughest seamen cover up a quivering lip.

And then he said while you are living a life that you enjoy.

Remember those who went to war. At 18, still a boy.

The day progressed to evening. It was time for the rodeo.

Our family filled three benches. We were waiting for the show.

The rodeo Grand Entry led out with our country's flag.

The stars and stripes were waving, worth a cowboy's honored brag.
The Serpentine young riders, with precision in each step, would give their top performance for a show that was well prepped.

Then the horses stopped and riders held our nation's flag up high.

A vision you would not forget. Most pleasing to the eye.

The horses stood so flawlessly, well trained right from the start.

While the riders showed respect, they placed their hats across their hearts.

The announcer gave our Nation's Pledge. The audience joined in.

I'd never felt more proud to be America's own kin.

Our Independence day was ending, fireworks overhead.

The freedoms we enjoyed today, we thank the honored dead.

Holland attends Montana Range Days

Faye Holland, a junior at BCHS and a member of the Beaverhead FFA Chapter, attended the 48th Annual Montana Range Days held June 24-26 in Miles City. Montana Range Days was started in 1977 and continues to be the state's premier rangelands education event. Youth of all ages, ranchers and adults come together to learn more about our number one resource, rangeland. Starting early on the second day, they study plant identification, plant anatomy, soils, ecology, rangeland inventory, range management tools and techniques followed by an evening banquet. The third day is the contest to test their knowledge and skills learned. Awards and scholarships are earned as a result of their effort.

One of the coveted awards earned is Top Range Hand. To achieve this award, you need to give an illustrated talk, create a display, enter a plant collection and compete in a contest consisting of plant identification, plant anatomy, range inventory, AUM's (animal unit month), and ecological sites. Faye won the illustrated talk, range display, and range plant collection. Faye scored the highest on the exam of all participants including the adult and rancher divisions and had nearly a perfect score on the plant identification section.

Faye's dad, Koy Holland, also received the honor of winning Top Range Hand in 1988. She was excited to carry on the tradition. This is a traveling trophy with all the past winners listed since 1980. Faye keeps the trophy for a year and then it will return to Miles City for the next individual to win.

week of July 8, weather and other unforeseen factors permitting. This project is anticipated to be complete the middle of August.

Traffic control may vary along the length of the project. Motorists should expect single-lane traffic, pilot car, flaggers, and smart signals where work is being performed. The construction zone will have reduced speed limits and motorists may encounter delays of up to 15 minutes when traveling through the project area.

The contractor will accommodate emergency services at all times.

Wide loads may be restricted on a case-by-case basis for the construction zones. Visit 511mt.net for the most up-to-date information on width restrictions and other traffic control. For current traffic conditions and up-to-date restrictions visit <https://www.511mt.net>.

The public is encouraged to contact Public Involvement Specialist Natalee Stout at 406-444-6021 with comments or questions about the project.

Letter to the Editor

The Beaverhead-Deerlodge National Forest apparently doesn't want your input regarding outfitters/guides.

After withdrawing their recent attempt to greatly increase outfitter client days on the Forest to 33,000 days, the Forest is trying to lock you out of commenting on issuing permanent status to 50 current temporary outfitters or even outfitters operating without any permit. They want to permanently permit thousands of outfitted client days to these outfitters without soliciting public comments or allowing the public to formally object by using a Categorical Exemption 66448. You wouldn't even know about this unless you read the Legal Notices. These outfitters will occupy different parts of the forest doing different activities and interact with you and others who are using the Forest.

Take a minute and write an email to Allison.Landro@usda.gov letting her know you think the public deserves to have input and each outfitting operation deserves to be reviewed and analyzed separately.

Some of us think the public deserves to be able to comment on how their Forest is managed.

Letter to the Editor:

I'M BACK!!!

For those of you who read my last Letter to the Editor published in the Dillonite Daily and understood my concerns, Thank you. I have had people tell me that when you live on the bank of the river you automatically assume you are going to have to deal with floods. Well it took 40 years but we finally got wet thanks to everything that has been done in the flood plain that shouldn't have been done. Since I returned from down south, I have been doing some research in the archives of the Dillon Tribune. Looking at 1984 papers, (the year the water went over the spillway at the dam), looking at some 1989 papers, (the year of the last ice jam that caused problems on the south side of river near the old Selway bridge) and then this year's January ice jam. This is the first year we got water. I have never in the 44 years we have lived here seen the water this high. The dike on the north side of the river remains which pushes water on the people across the river because we have no dike.

Ice jams are very unpredictable but the water being released in January according to the data I found was 200.42 cfs lowering it to 125.24 cfs. During February 1989 water being released was 53.51 cfs to 53.61 cfs. The more water coming down the river means the more water to freeze up the way I see it. Makes sense huh? BUT THEN looking at the cause of how it got so high, I determined the reason. In 2000-2001 they built the new Laknar Lane Bridge replacing the old Selway Bridge. Bermed it up and narrowed the opening for the water to flow though on a corner on a bend in the river. The exact same area Bob James had to have the Corp of Engineer's blessing to riprap his bank after the 1984 flood. The water at that time wanted to run straight through his house. Read it in the December 30th, 1984 paper. SO is what they have done, they have put those of us on both sides of the river behind a dam when the water is let to run out of control. By the way, the Clark Canyon dam was built in 1964 by the Bureau of Reclamation to provide irrigation waters, recreation and flood control. More to come later.
