Warm water, low flows prompt hoot-owl restrictions on some rivers in southwest Montana

Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks is advising anglers that portions of the Big Hole, Beaverhead, Clark Fork, Madison, Ruby and Sun rivers, as well as the Jefferson River and Silver Bow Creek in their entirety, will be closed to all fishing daily from 2 p.m. to midnight, effective at 2 p.m. on Wednesday, July 10. The restrictions will stay in effect until conditions improve.

Hoot-owl restrictions are issued for:

- Big Hole River –
  - from the Saginaw Bridge on Skinner Meadows Road to the confluence with the North Fork of the Big Hole River
  - from the Tony Schoonen Fishing Access Site to the confluence with the Beaverhead River
- Beaverhead River – from Highway 41 near East Bench Road to the confluence with the Big Hole River
- Jefferson River – from the confluence of the Big Hole and Beaverhead rivers to the Missouri River
- Madison River –
  - Lower section, from the Warm Springs Fishing Access Site to the confluence with the Jefferson River
  - Above Hebgen Lake, from Hebgen lake to the Yellowstone National Park boundary
- Ruby River – from the confluence with the Beaverhead River to Duncan District Road
- Sun River – from the mouth of Muddy Creek to the Highway 287 bridge
- Clark Fork River – from its headwaters to the confluence with Rock Creek
- Silver Bow Creek – its entirety

FWP's drought policy provides for angling restrictions when flows drop below critical levels for fish, when water quality is diminished or when maximum daily water temperatures reach at least 73 degrees for three consecutive days. Water temperatures of 77 degrees or more can be lethal to trout.

These restrictions are designed to protect fish that become more susceptible to disease and mortality when conditions like this exist. One short-term strategy to address heat-induced stress in Montana's wild trout is to reduce catch-and-release mortality by alerting anglers to fish only in the morning.

Anglers can reduce stress on fish at all times of the year by getting fish to the net or in hand quickly, keeping them in the water and reviving them prior to releasing them back into the river.

If high temperatures and extremely low flows persist, anglers may want to consider fishing areas with less stressful temperatures and conditions, such as larger lakes or reservoirs, or higher elevation waterbodies.

MSU Extension's Local Government Center providing resources to local government review studies

Montana State University Extension's Local Government Center will provide support to the 43 municipalities and 12 counties in Montana that are participating in the decennial local government review.

The MSU Extension Local Government Center will provide training for study commissioners, including a July 24 online training, and support municipalities and counties through the process, according to MSU Extension Local Government Center Director Dan Clark.

Clark said Local Government Center staff want to "take the mystery" out of what is expected of a study commissioner. Municipalities and counties across the state asked voters during the June primary election to decide whether to initiate a study of their local governments. Twelve of Montana's 56 counties voted to conduct a local government review, as did 43 of the state's 127 municipalities. The next step for participating municipalities and counties is for local citizens interested in leading the voter-initiated review to file to be elected as study commissioners.

Study commissioners will spend 18 months leading discussions among local citizens about their local government's existing power and form of government and evaluate alternatives. Thoughtful and engaged study commissioners are critical to the success of a local government review, Clark said.

"Through this process, study commissioners can determine if adopting an alternative will lead to more effective or responsive local government," Clark said. "All proposed changes by the study commission will need to be presented to the voters no later than the general election in November 2026."

ARE YOU READY FOR THE SUMMER OLYMPICS?

Tyrades! by Danny Tyree

Just because there are trained professionals dealing with the infrastructure, logistics and marketing of the Summer Olympics, it doesn't let the rest of us off the hook.

To fulfill our obligations as world citizens, instead of just blundering into nearly three weeks of pageantry and athleticism, we should apply critical thinking to the whole phenomenon.

But you're probably way ahead of me. You've doubtless pondered why we don't have Spring and Autumn Olympics. I can just imagine the former anchored by Synchronized Finally Taking the %#$@ Christmas Lights Down and the latter prominently featuring Greco-Roman Projectile Vomiting Because of Bio-engineered Pumpkin Spice Cattle Flatulence.

And let's consider all the Olympics viewers who bellyached about their curriculum all through school. ("When will I ever use this so-called knowledge in the real world?") Suddenly, when a TV network beckons, they dive headfirst into a crash course on all the intricacies of an obscure sport that will not rise to their consciousness again for another four years.

Unless their niece develops an unplanned pregnancy. ("Come on! Think! What was it the rugby sevens coach said about tracking down a deadbeat dad and garnishing his wages???")

Olympic athletes are generally regarded as inspirational figures, but the Olympic-industrial complex actually perpetrates an insidious scheme for discouraging future competitors.

While the athletes are pushing their bodies to the fullest potential, the rest of us are bombarded with endless commercials for fast food, beer, video games and addictive apps. One of my friends reached to pick up a dictionary to search for "sedentary," but he threw out his back.

(Hey, maybe the average Joe could achieve his 15 minutes of fame if a deal was struck for weightlifters to compete to see how many couch potatoes they could lift!)

Don't you love the hoity-toity way different types of sports are described as "disciplines"? Not to brag, but Refraining from Meeting That Jerk in HR Out Behind the Building is a discipline all to itself.

True, I admire athletes who are hyper-focused and can become really, really good at one specific task. But that's a luxury most of us in the real world aren't afforded. ("I aced turning the 'Yes, we're open' sign toward the parking lot, but I really, really hope Larry is available at 5:00 to turn it back to 'Sorry, we're closed.'")

Maybe you're satisfied with the color commentary on Olympic events, but I think it would be a breath of fresh air if interviewers gave some airtime to an athlete who has a background with no particular hardships, no lifelong ambitions, just an "Aw shucks, those steroids were going to waste and I had nothing better to do" demeanor.

That's right: we need a break from "The lightning storm reduced me to ashes, but my great-grandmother's spirit convinced everyone in my village to donate an organ to construct the lean, mean limping machine you see before you."

Okay, the Olympic Games are lauded for bringing the nations of the world closer together, but sometimes that's not a compliment. ("My event is so unpopular, they found a way to show it live at 3:00 a.m. in every time zone around the world!")

Maybe my snark will never get me on a box of Wheaties, but the Quaker Oats mascot did say, "Nothing is better for thee than me meeting you out behind the building…"

Veteran's Corner Update

By Mike Lawson

- The Marine Corps League Detachment #724 will be having breakfast for the Folk Festival campers who camp at McGruff Park. It will be this Saturday the13th and Sunday the 14th. It's always a popular event for the campers and anyone else who happens by and is hungry. They start feeding at about 7:30 am and usually are done at noon, both days. The address is 525 Garden Ave., across the street from McGruff Park and one block north from Second Street.
- For those of you down Dillon way, we are badly in need of DAV Van Drivers. We had three, but one moved out of state and one has an ailing wife that needs him to be her caretaker . This means that Jeff Dougherty is the only driver left and is at times overwhelmed. If we can get two or more volunteer drivers, the load would be much lighter with a driver only driving once or possibly twice a week. I've been driving 19 years and have heard over and over, from many of our veteran riders, how without us taking them to their medical appointments they would be in much worst shape or would not be alive. Please consider stepping forward in helping your veteran brothers and sisters by becoming a volunteer DAV Driver. Jeff or myself will sit down and help you fill out the application. Butte and Anaconda are also in need of drivers, but Dillon is in a crisis status for this need. Local Area Coordinator. Mike Lawson's number is (406) 560 3591.
- The historic signing of the Serviceman's Readjustment Act of 1944, by President Franklin D. Roosevelt, changed America's landscape. Since then, more than 28 million Veteran's home loans have been processed through the VA Home Loan program. (I myself have used it three times.) Elements of this home loan have improved to better serve Veterans, their families and their survivors. The cornerstone benefits include low interest rates, no insurance payments and no down payment. To quote one source "America can take pride in the millions of Veterans who have been able to buy, build or adapt homes across the nation." For any of us who are Veterans and are looking to buy a home, the VA's Loan program is the best deal out there. You earned it, take advantage of it.

May you all have a great week and enjoy what we have going on in SW Montana, from camping/boating/fishing/hiking/etc., to going to the Folk Festival or other entertainment venues you might come upon. Until next time, take care.

First Hot Days Of Summer Keep Local Law Enforcement Busy

Jeremy Crawford, Southwestern Montana News

Tuesday July 9th, was a busy day for local law enforcement. Around 2:17 in the afternoon police received a call of a male that threatened an employee at Family Dollar. The police arrested the individual and booked him into the Beaverhead County Jail.

Around 3:08 P.M. Police received a call for an individual outside Standard Lumber. The female occupant of the car had been observed huffing in her car. The 46-year-old-female was arrested for DUI 2nd, criminal possession of a toxic substance, and a warrant from another jurisdiction.

Presented by Friends of the Jaycee Park
Dinner 5:30 pm by Women's Resource Center and Music 6:00 pm
July 11th, Los Texmaniacs
Music Sponsored by: Stockman Bank, Bicentennial Incorporated, Town Pump

Max Baca and Los Texmaniacs are the Past, Present, And Future of Conjunto Music. Conjunto music may be a familiar sound to residents of Texas, but its worldwide appeal can be surprising. Combine a hefty helping of Tex-Mex conjunto, simmer with several parts Texas rock, and add a daring dash of well-cured blues and R&B riffs, and you've cooked up the tasty Grammy-winning LosTexmaniacs groove.

Los Texmaniacs are the new worldwide kings of Texas Roots music, feeding the masses with only the best in musical fare, cooked up from a wide-ranging experience touring and recording with Flaco Jimenez of Texas Tornados fame, Los Super Seven, and even the Rolling Stones. While Max Baca has participated in eleven Grammy-winning projects, the band themselves won their first Grammy in 2010 and a nomination for their last Smithsonian Folkways recording in 2019, Borders y Bailes - featuring Lyle Lovett and Rick Trevino.
