Fish sampling efforts take close look at fish health in upper Missouri River Basin

Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks continues to monitor fish health in the upper Missouri River Basin and has collected several tissue samples from sick fish this summer.

Thus far, the sampling efforts have shown no abnormal results. Staff have received seasonal reports of sick or dead fish in the Big Hole, Beaverhead and Ruby rivers this summer. Sick fish were reported in 2023 as well. Compared to the fish population size, angler reports of sick fish have been relatively few.

FWP staff have leaned on prompt reports of sick fish from anglers and added staff capacity in response to ongoing fish health and trout population concerns in the upper Missouri River Basin.

This fish health monitoring effort is supported by a new plan for a multi-year fish health assessment in the basin. The Big Hole Fish Health Workgroup—comprised of staff from FWP, the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service, U.S. Geological Survey, Montana State University, and Washington State University—helped establish new strategies for FWP to regularly assess fish health in southwestern Montana. This assembly of partners will help address the backlog of fish tissue samples that was an issue in 2023.

In accordance with the plan, FWP staff will collect fish tissue samples during current fish health monitoring, annual population sampling efforts in the spring and fall, and opportunistically while responding to reports of sick fish. Those samples will be evaluated by disease experts at Washington State University, Montana State University, and the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service to better understand what may be contributing to fish health concerns.

Anglers have reported fish with head lesions or fungal infections, but the causes of these maladies remain unknown. Anglers can continue to report sick and dead fish from the Big Hole, Beaverhead and Ruby rivers by calling fish health staff based in Dillon at 406-596-5175 or going online to sickfish.mt.gov. Anglers should not transport sick fish away from the river unless directed by FWP staff.

"We're grateful to anglers who have promptly reported sick or dead fish in the upper Missouri River Basin," said Mike Duncan, FWP fisheries program manager. "Anglers play an important role in the research that will inform how we respond to the fish health and population concerns in these rivers."

Background

FWP and MSU embarked on a new cooperative research effort last year when annual sampling found fish numbers to be at or near historic lows in sections of the Big Hole, Beaverhead and Ruby rivers. This was coupled with reports of sick and dead fish in these rivers.

FWP's partnership with MSU includes hiring three PhD students and additional staff to study fish mortality, recruitment and health. Annual summaries published next spring will be made available to the public via FWP's website.

Montana Western Athletics Named NAIA Champions of Character Five-Star Gold Winner

The National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) announced its Champions of Character® Five-Star Gold Award winners. The University of Montana Western was named as a Gold Level Champion of Character for the 2023-24 school year.

"This is a testament to our student-athletes, coaches, and staff for their hard work and making this a priority. We strive to be champions on and off the field and this recognition shows that." Director of Athletics Michael Feuling said.

Institutions are measured on a demonstrated commitment to Champions of Character and earn points in character training, conduct in competition, academic focus, character recognition and character promotion. Institutions earned points based on exceptional student-athlete grade point averages and by having minimal to no ejections during competition throughout the course of the academic year.

The Champions of Character® Scorecard holds 100 possible points to be earned, measures growth in training, promotion, conduct in competition and commitment in five key areas. To be a gold standard school you must score 90 points or more.

All six of the full-time Frontier member institutions received Five-Star distinction, which also makes the Frontier a Champions of Character® Five-Star Conference (with 60% or more schools at Five-Star status).

Veteran's Corner
By Mike Lawson

Veteran News Updates:

I'll be flying out of Bozeman, this Saturday, for Washington DC. The last Marine outfit, of the three I was in during my two tours in Vietnam, was called CAP (Combined Action Platoon). It was made up of a number of Civic Action units consisting of about a dozen Marines and 18 or so PFs (Popular Force Vietnam soldiers). We were out by ourselves and lived with and protected the village areas we were assigned to. It was one of the most successful programs that the Marines had while in Vietnam. We are having our Cap Reunion and the unveiling of a Granite Monument on the grounds of the Marine Corps National Museum in Quantico, Virginia. It's a tribute to the CAP Marines and to those who lost their lives while serving as a CAP Marine. I'll fly back home on Sunday the 11th and on Monday the 12th will drive to Rancho Mirage, California for the National Marine Corps League Convention. These events are always beneficial to those who attend and friendships are renewed.

The Veteran Food Pantry in Deer Lodge is trying to stay afloat and provide food to Veterans in need. Having enough food isn't the problem. The problem is having enough volunteers to work it. As I have mentioned about needing volunteer DAV Drivers, other Veteran Organizations also need volunteers. If you remember the old recruiting poster of Uncle Sam pointing out at us saying "We Need You", think about that finger pointing out at each of you who aren't volunteering and consider giving some of your time in helping veterans like yourself. You'll feel great satisfaction. Believe me.

The VA is offering updated COVID vaccines, free of charge to Veterans receiving care at the VA. This long term Covid is concerning and getting updated is worth considering.

Our VA Butte Community Based Outpatient Clinic is going to be named after Charlie Dowd. Charlie was a WWII hero who was Montana's last surviving Pearl Harbor survivor and died in March of 2023. This bipartisan legislation spearheaded by Senate Veterans' Committee Chairman Jon Tester and the Montana Congressional delegation was passed by the US House of Representatives. It is now on the President's desk to be signed... Ten years or more ago, I picked Charlie up in Anaconda and took him to Fort Harrison
