Palandri, Tanioka Tabbed Frontier Conference Players of the Week

After Montana Western Football's blowout home opening victory over the Eastern Oregon Mounties, two Bulldogs were named Frontier Conference Players of the Week.

Palandri, a senior from Maple Valley, Washington, is the Offensive Player of the Week.

In Western's 59-21 victory, Palandri dominated for six touchdowns on the day, including three in the air and three on the ground. He was 18-of-25 passing for 320 total yards and zero interceptions. This is Palandri's third career Erk Hotels / Frontier Conference Player of the Week award.

Tanioka, a sophomore from Kaneohe, Hawaii, was named the Special Teams Player of the Week.

Tanioka electrified the home crowd in Dillon with a 100-yard kickoff return for a touchdown in their 59-21 win over Eastern Oregon. Paired with two solid punt returns, Tanioka finished the day with 221 all-purpose yards, 121 yards on kickoff returns, 74 yards receiving, and 26 punt return yards. This is Tanioka's first career Erk Hotels / Frontier Conference Player of the Week award.

Secretary Christi Jacobsen: 'Montana Elections Team celebrates National Voter Registration Month'

Montana Secretary of State Christi Jacobsen joins election officials across the state and nation in celebrating National Voter Registration Month (NVRM) in September. NVRM was established in 2002 to highlight the importance of voter registration and participation.

"Montana's 2024 General Election is quickly approaching and we want to ensure all eligible Montanans are vote ready," said Secretary Jacobsen. "Exercising our right to vote is an essential civic duty, and we're honored to provide the information and resources to assist Montanans so they may participate in our electoral process."

The Montana Elections Team, consisting of election officials from the Secretary of State's Office and each of the state's 56 counties, encourages eligible Montanans to prepare for Montana's 2024 General Election. Montanans can find numerous voter resources on the Secretary's VoteMT.gov website, including:

- Confirm voter registration information, including name, address, and status
- Access Montana's voter registration application
- Learn how to register to vote and how to update, cancel, or reactivate voter registration
- Contact the Montana Elections Team, including county election administrators
- Watch Montana's Election Education Video Series
- Sign up to serve as a poll worker

Election officials nationwide are participating in the #TrustedInfo2024 campaign to direct voters to trusted resources for election-related material. Voters in Montana can find trusted information regarding voter registration and voting by visiting websites and social media from the Secretary of State's Office and local county election offices.

The Montana Elections Team will also celebrate National Voter Registration Day (NVRD) on Tuesday, September 17.

"Montana's 2024 General Election ballot has been certified and Election Day will soon be upon us," said Secretary Jacobsen. "Get vote ready today and join the hundreds of thousands of Montanans who will decide our future this fall. Thanks for voting, Montana."

Grizzly bear killed in encounter with hunters near West Yellowstone: Hunters not injured in encounter

A grizzly bear was killed Monday in an encounter with bowhunters in Tepee Creek, north of West Yellowstone.

The two hunters reported being charged by a sow grizzly bear with two yearling cubs. Using handguns, the hunters shot and killed the sow. The yearling bears also charged at the hunters, who shot at and injured one of the yearlings. The hunters were not injured.

Bear specialists, game wardens and a helicopter pilot with Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks, as well as law enforcement staff with the Custer Gallatin National Forest, visited the site on Wednesday. They confirmed the mortality of the adult bear, an older female. Officials found evidence of a yearling bear being injured, but they did not locate the yearling bears.

No further management action by FWP is planned. This incident is still under investigation by the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service, who also provided assistance this week.

Be bear aware

Montana is bear country. Grizzly bear populations continue to become denser and more widespread in Montana, increasing the likelihood that residents and recreationists will encounter them in more places each year.

This time of year is when bears are active for longer periods as they consume more food in preparation for hibernation. This period overlaps with hunting season and other fall recreation activities.

Hunters have reported encounters with grizzly bears in other areas since the start of Montana's archery season on Sept. 7. No hunters have reported injuries, and no other bears have been wounded or killed to date.

Avoiding conflicts with bears is far better than dealing with such conflicts. Here are some precautions to help residents, recreationists and people who work outdoors avoid negative bear encounters:

- Carry bear spray and be prepared to use it immediately.
- Make noise to alert bears to your presence and travel in groups.
- Stay away from animal carcasses, which often attract bears.
- Follow food storage orders from the applicable land management agency.
- Keep garbage, bird feeders, pet food and other attractants put away in a secure building. Keep garbage in a secure building

- until the day it is collected. Certified bear-resistant garbage containers are available in many areas.
- Never feed wildlife. Bears that become food conditioned lose their natural foraging behavior and pose threats to human safety. It is illegal to feed bears in Montana.
- Some areas with dense concentrations of grizzly bears are very accessible to hunters, especially during the archery season. Keep these precautions in mind when hunting in grizzly country, which includes much of the western two-thirds of Montana:
- Carry bear spray and be prepared to use it immediately.
- Watch for and be extra cautious around bear sign, creeks and areas with limited visibility. Most attacks happen in surprise, close encounters.
- Hunt with a group of people. This can help you make localized noise to alert bears to your presence, and it may also increase your chances of survival in the event of a bear attack.
- Be aware that elk calls and cover scents can attract bears.
- Bring the equipment and people needed to help field dress game and remove the meat from the kill site as soon as possible.
- If you need to leave part of the meat in the field during retrieval, hang it at least 10 feet off the ground and at least 150 yards from the gut pile. Leave it where it can be observed from a distance of at least 200 yards.
- Upon your return, observe the meat with binoculars. Make noise while approaching the meat. If it has been disturbed or if a bear is in the area, leave and call FWP.
- Follow food storage orders from the applicable land management agency.

Grizzly bears in the lower 48 states are listed as threatened under the Endangered Species Act. Management authority for grizzlies rests with the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service, working closely in Montana with FWP, the Forest Service, the National Park Service, the Bureau of Land Management, the U.S. Geological Survey, Wildlife Services, and Native American tribes. This collaboration happens through the Interagency Grizzly Bear Committee.

Take Hemp to Work

There's a reason why industrial hemp is the original work canvas. As a crop, it grows quickly with little to no irrigation, and can restore nutrients to topsoil. As a textile, it's durable, breathable and comfortable right off the shelf.
